Compliments and Money Keep Off the Ether

A New Eye for Science

Even Champagne, Perhaps

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1930, King Features Synd., Inc.

THE late ambassador to Spain, Ambassador Alexander P. Moore, leaves $100,000 to Victoria, Spanish Queen. This will please the Queen but probably not as much as Mr. Moore's compliment, when he told her she looked like his deceased wife, Lillian Russell.

Those that saw Lillian Russell, will realize what a compliment that was.

Men did not dream, 10 years ago, that there would be "no trespassing" signs located in the ether, surrounding our planet.

Marvin H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Co., says an ether accident almost happened to the voice of King George, welcoming naval delegates in London, radio carrying his voice across the oceans.

A station in Chile, changing its wave length, for better transmission, almost upset the King's speech. New York told Chile to get out of the way. Chile did, and the broadcast was successful.

Mr. Aylesworth predicts that radio will help to establish peace.

In the next war, radio will be important, science will be asked to interfere with radio operations of the enemy. Eventually men may decide to abandon war, not out of decency but because it will have become too complicated and costly.

Science has found a way to make the great telescopic mirror, 200 inches in diameter. The quartz will be sprayed, at a temperature of 3000 degrees.

The quartz, ground to powder and melted, is sprayed as paint for automobiles is sprayed. The telescope's lense will be as big as the floor of a room 17 feet square and will cost $6,000,000. The best telescopes now penetrate space to a distance of 150,000,000 light years. The new telescope is expected to reach 600,000,000 light years into space, and, perhaps, to show some proof of Einstein's "limited universe." They will have to look further than that to find any limit.

Science has come up to degree anything as hot as 3000 degrees Fahrenheit.

To A dweller on the sun, it would be hard to imagine anything as cold as that. The sun's temperature is 50,000,000 million degrees centigrade.

Important in the prohibition struggle is an announcement by Governor Roosevelt, of New York. He demands "home rule" for states, with each state deciding what percentage of alcohol constitutes an intoxicating drink.

The law now says, that only one-half of one per cent alcohol is legal. Governor Roosevelt's idea would make four or six per cent beer, 10 to 12 per cent, wine, even 14 per cent, champagne, for the tired business man, legal, with the legislature's approval.

There will be many long fights in our politics, now almost exclusively "prohibition," at a time when other things need attention, primarily the problem of unemployment.

The British Bishop of Durham warns the official British against mixing politics with piety in their prayers aimed at Russia's government. He says Russia's church fell when czardom fell. And asks himself anxiously "whether the Church of England, if a similar crisis should come, would disclose any stronger hold on the people?" He would have Christians asking the Lord to interfere with the government of another country to go about it carefully.

Mear while latest reports from Russia show 48 churches, four cathedrals and 34 religious shrines closed. One city uses all church bells for making industrial instruments.

And in the presence of many peasants, six priests of the Russian church have "repudiated" their calling, declaring that religion is only a cloak for "counter-revolution."

It is not stated what force or other means was used to compel the priests to make this confession.

Germany lost the war and built the Bremen.

England won the war and can't afford to build a ship to compete with the Bremen, because "50,000-ton ships would prohibit investment."

American shipbuilders say we also could not afford a 50-knot, 50,000-ton passenger liner, because it would cost $30,000,000 and lose money, even with a Government mail contract.

The chain store idea spreads Best and Co., one of the oldest, most successful New York

$10,000 TAKEN OFF TRUCK; 2 HUNTED

Driver Tells Police His Companions Vanish While He Buys Cigarettes

Cash and bonds totaling between $9000 and $10,000 were stolen today on Kingston st. from a truck of the Alles & Fisher Cigar Co., en route from the plant at 549 Shawmut ave. to the First National Bank.

The theft occurred while traffic was swarming through the streets, scores of pedestrians were passing close by and traffic policemen were in the vicinity.

Two men who were riding on the truck with Fred Leopardi of Atlantic st., the driver, are being sought by the police with names and descriptions given by Leopardi.

Leopardi said he stopped his truck to go into a cigar store to get some cigarettes. When he emerged his two companions were gone.

When he reached the bank he found that cash and bonds had likewise vanished.

TEACHER LEAPS TO HER DEATH

Miss Marietta S. Murch, 68, one of the city's oldest and best known school teachers, ended her life today by leaping from the seventh floor of the Hotel Gladstone, Dudley st., Roxbury.

She was a teacher of girls in the 8th grade of the Mather school, Dorchester, and had taught at that school for 40 years.

A note, in the nature of a will and explaining her act, was found in her room at the hotel.

Despondency over ill health is believed to have resulted in the suicide. In the note, addressed to Miss Mary H. Knight, another teacher, with whom she shared the hotel apartment, Miss Murch disposed of her property and requested that body be cremated.

The teacher jumped from a window of her parlor in the rear of the hotel, landing in a court between Magnolia and Alexander sts. John A. Hicks, who saw her body hurtle through the air, summoned Dr. Henry L. Flynn, also a resident of the hotel. She was dead on arrival at City Hospital.

"A fine, unusual extraordinary type of teacher, beloved by her pupils," was the tribute paid by Headmaster Edwin H. Smith of the Mather school.

He said she had been in poor health recently but had insisted upon remaining with her class and was at the school on Friday. She was a linguist of considerable attainments.

She is survived by a brother, George, a resident of Cushing ave., Dorchester.

GUILT OF RUM BUYER UP TO HIGH COURT

Supreme Bench Is to Review the Case of Man Accused of "Conspiring" With Bootleg

Washington, March 3 — The question of whether the buyer of bootleg liquor is guilty of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law by involving illegal transportation is to be decided by the United States Supreme Court.

The Government won its appeal today for a review of the question.

The test is provided through the conviction of Alfred E. Norris, New York investment banker, who telegramed a liquor order to Joel D. Kerper, at Philadelphia. Norris, who bought rye whiskey for beverage purposes only, was fined $200 and sentenced four months in jail by a lower court.

In asking the writ of certiorari, Solicitor-General E. Hughes, Jr., solicitor-general, told the court that if Norris is freed the action "will have a very detrimental effect upon the enforcement of the prohibition laws.

"The reasons advanced by the court below might equally prevent successful prosecution of a purchaser for a conspiracy to import liquor."

Admitting in its petition for review that simple buying of liquor was not made a violation of the Prohibition Act by Congress, the Government nevertheless contended that in some instances the buyer can be indicted for conspiracy. It won in the federal district court in Philadelphia but the court was reversed by the Third Circuit Court of Appeals.

The government in requesting the review said it did not involve whether a purchaser of liquor was equally guilty with the bootlegger, but did raise the question of whether the man who placed the order had conspired with the seller.

The importance of the controversy was emphasized by the government in requesting the review.

The government contends that Norris knew that in placing his orders with Kerper the question of illegal transportation would be involved.

Oliver B. Garrett

Deposed head of Boston police liquor squad as he sat in room 370 at State House during first session of inquiry into his police activities by Atty.-Gen Warner, who announced the investigation would extend not only to Garrett's activities while on police duty, but also while he was off duty. (Staff photo.)

DENIED ANY ACCIDENT AND GOT POLICY

Official of Company Tells at Hearing What He Said in Application Papers

Evidence that Oliver B. Garrett, deposed liquor squad head, in applying for insurance September 17, 1925, made no mention of head injuries and was passed as a good risk, today featured the investigation of his activities by the attorney-general.

Garrett received head injuries in an automobile accident while on duty August 2, 1927, and as a result was permitted to retire from the police department two years later on the medical examination in which he was found permanently disabled.

Supervisor Asst. Atty-Gen. Damon E. Hall introduced a surprise witness in the person of Frank C. Goodnough of Binghampton, N. Y., secretary of the Security Life Insurance Company, who gave the testimony.

Atty. Gen. Joseph E. Warner permitted Goodnough to testify out of turn at the request of Atty. Hall, as he was anxious to finish and return to his home.

He produced the original application made by Garrett for life insurance, witnessed by the solicitng agent, Simon Swig.

The testimony of Goodnough created a sensation at the hearing, rivalling the unexpected appearance of Garrett himself shortly after the proceedings had started.

BIG CROWD ON HAND

A big crowd strove to obtain admittance, but the majority were turned away after the limit of 100 spectators was reached in Room 370, where the hearing is being held.

The application of the former liquor raider was in three parts, the first bearing his name and address and his occupation, then a policeman. It stated he was born in Mechanics Falls, Me., October 14, 1895, was married and desired a $5000 policy with premium payments of $30.10, the beneficiary to be his wife, Florence Harding Garrett. It set forth that he carried a $1000 policy with the John Hancock Life Insurance Company.

Part 2 of the application, the witnes testified, had to do with the physical examination, and contained the questions of the medical examiner with Garrett's answers.

ACCIDENT RECORD

To the question: What illness, disease or accident have you had since childhood? Garrett answered: Appendicitis in 1922, and that results O. K.

Did you ever under a surgical operation? he was asked, and answered: Appendicitis.

Asked if he suffered nervous depression or nervousness from overwork, he replied, No.

The same answer was made to a question as to whether he had ever taken any treatment for the alcoholic or drug habits.

Have you now or ever had any illness, injury or any other disease except stated?" was answered: "N o."

"For what purpose have you consulted any physician during the past five years?" Answered: "None."

RECOMMENDED AS RISK.

The third part of the application contained Dr. Udelson's report, in which he stated he found nothing in the examination of the applicant to operate against his health or long life and without reserve rec-commended him as a good risk for insurance.

GARRETT UNEXPECTEDLY APPEARS AT PROBE INTO HIS CONDUCT

LIFE INSURANCE WITNESS GIVES CROWD A SURPRISE

Previously Atty. Hall had read correspondence between Police Commissioner Wilson and Capt. McDevitt of Division 3, in which McDevitt complained against Garrett.

The complaint, dated October 9, 1929, was for conduct unbecoming an officer in failing to readily obey an order of Lieut. John McGrath.

On September 4, 1929, Garrett refused to obey an order of Capt. McDevitt when instructed to make a report of an accident at Marshfield Fair.

In a letter to Supt. Crowley, Capt. McDevitt said he could not tell which of the two accidents caused Garrett's injury, and for that reason did not approve of a pension.

Attorney Hall read Commissioner Wilson's order and a copy of Capt. McDevitt's charges sent to Garrett in requesting him to attend a hearing before a trial board at headquarters October 16, 1929. Later Garrett was informed the hearing was postponed to October 24, and on October 22 was notified by Commissioner Wilson that the hearing had been cancelled and the complaint filed.

Garrett Appears to Be Bored at Hearing

On taking a seat in the hearing room, a short distance from Deputy McDevitt, Oliver B. Garrett appeared bored with the proceedings, and after a time went into the corridor for a smoke.

He said he did not fell well, and showed evidences that the extraction of several teeth was still bothering him. He posed patiently for photographers, however.

Probe Garrett's Time Off Duty---Warner

Attorney-General Warner opened the Garrett case today by reading the legislative resolve empowering him to make the investigation, and then announced his interpretation of the mandate.

"The word 'service' in the limitation 'dealing with the service' of Oliver B. Garrett may suggest 'service' officially rendered," he said. "I shall construe the word 'service' to include not only those matters occurring in the official discharge of assigned duties of Mr. Garrett, but occurring at any other time while holding his position as patrolman. His conduct off duty affected his service as much as his conduct on duty. Both will be investigated.

HIS MODE OF LIVING

"The words 'dealing with' in the limitation 'matters dealing with the service of Oliver B. Garrett' construe to embrace matters which include the compensation allowed for the discharge of duty, mode of living consistent or inconsistent with such compensation, and circumstances of accumulation of a pension which abbreviated, markedly or not, the income derived from such service on through such service, and which pension was applied for and granted on the ground of disability, the cause of which was far removed.

"I construe the limitation 'during his term of employment' as a member of said police department' to cover the period not only from the hour of actual employment to the hour when the pension took effect, but from the hour when he made application for employment.

NO CHARGES MADE

"No person or persons are charged in the resolve with anything. Therefore this proceeding is not in the nature of a prosecution or of a trial of any person or persons.

"There is not in the nature of a grand jury proceeding for the express purpose of determining whether there has been any crime committed, and if so, for the purpose of discovery of the person or persons who committed it. The resolve expressly states the nature of these proceedings. It states it to be a 'thorough investigation' of the circumstances and matters named, the attorney-general to be the impartial investigator.

HUNTING FOR FACTS

The only purpose, constantly controlling as the objective of this investigation, within those bounds set by the Legislature, is the ascertainment and report of facts, of all the facts, the truth, whatever the consequences or none.

"I have herein set forth the exact scope of this investigation as prescribed by, embraced within and limited by the legislative language of the resolve.

"As the Legislature is now in session, it has power, at its discretion, at any time, by amendment of such resolve, to otherwise authorize and direct the attorney-general, whose statutory powers can have source from the Legislature alone."

Atty. Damon E. Hall continued to read records and letters from police headquarters. He read a letter which stated that Garrett was born Oct. 14, 1894, and was appointed a policeman Nov. 7, 1919, and gave the dates of various transfers up to the time he was finally shifted from police headquarters to Division 3.

This letter stated that Garrett sustained an injury Aug. 2, 1927, during the performance of his duty, and that the time lost due to this accident was from Aug. 3 to Sept. 22, 1927.

The time he was off duty because of this accident was 51 days according to the letter, and it further stated that Garrett had received full pay during that period.

A pencil notation at the bottom of the letter stated that Garrett was absent from duty August 1, 2, 3 and 4, 1929, because of an ordinary sickness.

SETTLED FOR $750.

Another letter was read by Atty. Hall. This letter was from the police commissioner's office and gave Oct. 4, 1929, as the date on which an attorney said an officer named Clark, who was in a police car with Garrett and others, settled for $750 with the Great Indemnity Insurance Co.

A letter from Police Commissioner Wilson to Capt. George Patterson of police headquarters, dated October 3, 1929, was next read. In this letter Wilson referred to an accident to Garrett on August 2, 1927, on Berkeley and Canterbury sts., Boston, in which a police sedan was hit by another auto operated by a person named Rose of Chestnut Hill and owned by a person named Snow of Bay State rd.

ASKS SHORT CLAIMS

In this letter the police commissioner wanted to know if claims had been filed, whether they had been settled in full, and if so, for how much, the name of the insurance company and whether claims for damages to the police car had been made.

Next a letter from Capt. James McDevitt of Station 3 to Superintendent of Police Crowley was read. In this letter Capt. McDevitt said that a written report by Garrett was attached, relative to an accident of August 2, 1927. This letter said that Garrett had been unable to get certificates from Drs. John McCormick, Dr. Mark M. Burke and Dr. F. O'Brien, as some of them were out of town.

WOULDN'T REPORT IT

In this letter Capt. McDevitt said he asked Garrett for a report of an accident at Marshfield fair, August 22, 1929, and that Garrett said he wouldn't make a report as it didn't happen on department time, but that if it had happened on department time he would gladly make such a report.

In this letter Capt. McDevitt said that on August 22, 1929, while Garrett was riding a horse at Marshfield Fair, he suffered an injury to his head. McDevitt said he had no report of the accident. He said he called at Garrett's home and asked for a report of that accident and the Garrett said he was on vacation and again declined to make a report.

TROUBLE WITH TOOTH

In this letter to Supt. Crowley, McDevitt said he couldn't tell which of the two accidents caused the injury to Garrett and for this reason did not approve of a pension.

The next letter read by Atty. Hall was from Dr. Mark M. Burke, Commonwealth ave. dentist, who said that on Dec. 17, 1927, he extracted an upper tooth, the trouble with which had presumably been caused by a blow.

A letter from Dr. F. W. O'Brien to Dr. John S. McCormack was read confirming the results of the X-ray examination on Garrett and stating that the examination showed plainly a fractured skull.

Next came a copy of an emergency ward record of Massachusetts General hospital, dated Aug. 2, 1927. It said that Garrett was brought to the ward in a taxicab at 1 a. m., and that he had contusions of the head, back and legs. After treatment he was taken home at 1:30.

ORDERS EXAMINATION

A report was read from Dr. McCormack of the date Oct. 3, 1929, referring to Garrett's accident of Aug. 2, 1927, reporting he was suffering from fractured ribs, bruises of back, head, chest and both legs. The head symptoms grew worse, the report said. An X-ray examination showed a fractured skull and two teeth split to the roots. Garrett was "bothered more or less by head pains."

A letter from the police commissioner to Dr. Bailey, dated Oct. 10, 1929, was next introduced by Atty. Hall, saying: "You are hereby requested to make an examination of Oliver B. Garrett, patrolman, and report whether or not he is incapacitated mentally or physically to perform police duty, he having applied to be retired on a pension."

Hall read the report of Dr. Bailey to Commissioner Wilson, dated Oct. 17, 1929. At the start it reviewed Garrett's "history" before he joined the police department and said he had had an operation for appendicitis.

Dr. Bailey's report continued: "On August 2, 1927, Patrolman Garrett was in an automobile accident and was thrown through the roof of the machine, striking his head on the pavement.

"He was off duty 51 days. He suffered a fractured skull, fractured rib and multiple injuries.

"There is no doubt that the accident was quite sufficient to give serious head injury and I feel compelled to accept the previous diagnosis, that he was physically incapacitated, as correct.

"There can be no doubt that he suffered a fractured skull and that he received it two years ago, August 2, 1927, and I find that he is unable to perform police duty or engage with confidence in any work he is called upon to do.

"The claim might well be made that his condition was due to subsequent injury, but I believe his present symptoms are a consequence of injuries he received on police duty on that date, Aug. 2, 1927.

"His pathological condition is quite in accordance with the reports and X-rays of his physicians and dentist, and he is permanently and physically incapacitated for further police duty."

New Strike Called in Textile Mills

Elizabethton, Tenn., March 3 (AP)—Formation of a strike at the American Bemberg and Glanzstoff mills by members of the local textile union, which is affiliated with the United Textile Workers of American, were being distributed over the Elizabethton area today.

Sheriff J. M. Moreland said he anticipated a cessation of work would be asked during the day and had mobilized deputies as a precautionary measure.

Several days ago J. C. Donnelly, union president, demanded that the mills discontinue their personnel department and "company union," founded after a series of walkouts and disturbances here last spring. The company has issued no statement.

Son of De Rivera Wounded in Duel

Pamplona, Spain, March 3 (INS)—Miguel De Rivera, son of Gen. Primo De Rivera, former dictator of Spain, was slightly wounded today in a sword duel with Capt. Antonio Reixa, of the Spanish Army. Reixa also was wounded slightly. The duel climaxed an exchange of "insults."

Young De Rivera has issued a number of challenges as a result of attacks upon his father's record by political opponents. The son is well known in art circles in New York, where he spent several months last year.

Arrival of Garrett Is One of Two Surprises

The surprise appearance of Oliver B. Garrett at the attorney-general's hearing divided interest with the statement that all of his activities, on or off duty, would be investigated.

The attorney-general declared this was his interpretation of the mandate given him by the Legislature.

"The only purpose, constantly controlling as the objective of this investigation," he said, "within those bounds set by the Legislature, is the ascertainment and report of facts, of all the facts, the truth—whatever the consequences or none."

BOOTLEGGERS ON HAND

Eight women were among the 100 spectators who obtained admittance to the hearing room, and a number of others were in the crowd turned away.

Prominent among those present in the hearing room were John H. Merrick, secretary to Police Commissioner Wilson; Deputy Superintendent of Police James J. McDevitt; Inspector William J. Golston of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation; Senator Joseph J. Mulhern of Dorchester; Dr. Frederick J. Bailey, deputy health commissioner, and Senator Henry Parkman, Jr.

There were also a number of police officers out of uniform and apparently off duty.

Several well-known bootleggers were sent in the crowd in the corridor.

GARRETT IS RESTLESS

Garrett stalked into the room about 15 minutes after the hearing started, and was immediately the target for all eyes. He took a seat a short distance from Deputy Superintendent McDevitt, but after a time became restless and went into the corridor.

"How do you feel?"

"Rotten," said Garrett. But I'd be be . . . I had to crawl up."

"When did you decide to attend the hearing?"

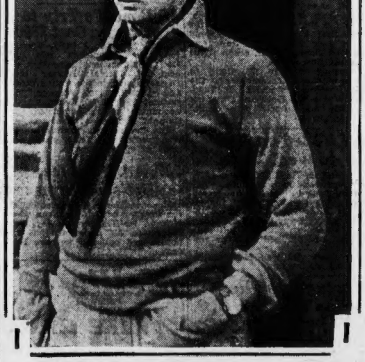
"Yesterday. I didn't feel much like coming out, but anywhere I'm wanted, I'll be there. Don't worry about that."

THAT'S LOVELY, HE SAID

Informed of Atty.-Gen. Warner's announcement that the investigation would cover all aspects of his affairs, including the question whether his mode of living was consistent with his compensation as a policeman, Garrett grinned broadly:

"That's lovely," he said.

Down With Jungle Fever



An attack of jungle fever has interrupted the hunting activities of Prince Edward of Wales, who is now at Nairobi being treated for an attack of subtertian malaria, more popularly jungle fever. The attack is not regarded as serious by attending physicians who say the prince will be up and about in a few days.

WALES BETTER, SAYS BULLETIN

Nairobi, Kenya Colony, British East Africa, March 3 (AP)—An official bulletin on the condition of the Prince of Wales reads: "The condition of the Prince of Wales continues to improve. No complications have occurred and his complete recovery at an early date is expected."

London, March 3 (AP)—Court circles feel no anxiety regarding the Prince of Wales, ill of malaria at Nairobi.

Important dispatches from Nairobi received in London today were conveyed immediately to members of the royal household.

It was said that neither King George nor Queen Mary was worried over the Prince's illness. Sir Aldo Castellani, one of the directors of the Ross Institute and Hospital for Tropical Diseases, said:

"As the Princes illness has been taken in hand immediately, there is no cause for anxiety. It may recur, however, and for a few months the prince must guard against excessive exposure to sun or cold."

Negro Is Named in Navy Academy List

SOVIETS SHOOT DOWN FLEEING REFUGEES

Border Troops Kill Peasants Who Try to Cross Into Poland to Evade Injustice

Warsaw, March 3 (AP)—The Polish border patrol reports that many Russian peasants have been killed recently by Soviet guards as they attempted to cross into Poland. The Russian guards were said to be using machine guns to check the flight of peasants.

A group of 12 Russians, arriving in Poland Saturday, said eight of their band of 20 had been killed by Russian guards along the frontier.

Most of the refugees seem to be leaving because of violent enforcement of the Communist farm collectivization plans.

Woll Puts Red Rioting in U. S. Squarely on Russians

New York, March 3 (AP)—Matthew Woll, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, in a letter published today charges that the propaganda agency of the Soviet government is responsible for the series of unemployment riots in several cities during recent weeks.

In his letter, which was sent to commercial organizations in 500 cities and to members of Congress, Mr. Woll quotes official Communist sources to support his charge that under the guise of a "world-wide unemployment demonstration, set by the Communist International for February 26, but later postponed to March 6, the Bolshevist government of Russia is deliberately and openly promoting its revolutionary program in our country seemingly without let or hindrance."

He said the riots which had occurred in New York, Chicago, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and other industrial centers were preliminary to the world-wide demonstration of March 6.

and were taken into the home of a neighbor.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Appleman and their son, Joseph, Jr., 2, were discovered by firemen battling their way down the stairs through dense smoke. On reaching the street Mrs. Appleman collapsed and was treated for smoke inhalation.

The flames worked up through the second floor and burst through the roof, giving the firemen a tough battle before it was brought under control.

Three Rescued as Castle inn Burns

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the Castle Inn, one of the best known roadhouses along the South Shore, in Washington st., Abington, early today, causing a loss of $20,000.

Two women and a man cut off in sleeping quarters on the second floor were rescued by Abington firemen who brought them down ladders to safety.

According to the Abington police, the fire started under the front stairway leading from the dining room to the sleeping quarters on the second floor. The inn closed at midnight and Mrs. Annie Hodgkins and Elisabeth Metcalf, the proprietor of the inn, and William Carroll, caretaker, had retired. They were aroused shortly before 2 o'clock by the presence of flames and upon investigating found the front part of the building enveloped in flames. The trapped persons rushed for the telephone on the first floor but were unable to get down stairs as the flames cut them off. Their screams aroused neighbors who phoned Abington fire headquarters from where an alarm was sounded.

When the fire department arrived the building was a mass of flames. Both Mrs. Hodgkins, Mrs. Metcalf and Carroll were at a second-story window crying for help. Ladders were placed against the burning building and four Abington firemen carried the two women down the ladders. Both women were overcome by smoke and excitement, but were revived later and were taken to the home of a neighbor.

Help was sent from Rockland and Brockton. The inn, which was widely known as a popular roadhouse, was recently renovated at a great expense and had enjoyed a large patronage Sunday night. The loss is placed at $20,000 by fire officials. An investigation will be started today to determine the cause of the blaze.

Brockton, March 3—Five hundred chickens were destroyed when fire swept a brooder and damaged a garage in the rear of the home of L. W. Chadwick, in Copeland st., early today.

Two automobiles in the garage were damaged, the total loss being about $5000.

Overheating of the brooder caused the fire, Chadwick and his family were driven from their home.

To Trace Volcanic Eruption "Healing"

Washington, March 3—To trace the steps by which Mother Earth heals the great wounds caused by volcanic eruptions, the National Geographic Society will send an expedition to Alaska this summer, it has been announced.

The party, led by Dr. Robert F Griggs, will work over the territory around Katmai volcano and the famous Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes, which Dr. Griggs discovered while leading the society's expedition of 1916.

POLITICS SEEN AS PERIL TO M'DONALD

Three Big British Parties to Decide Their Futures at Meetings This Week

London, March 3 (AP)—This week sees all the British political parties meeting to repair the ravages of political warfare.

Laborites, Liberals and Conservatives alike have their domestic troubles and while these are being settled other questions fade into the background. The week's meeting may prove fateful for the future of the present Parliament.

The Liberals, in whose hand lies the fate of the Labor government, are meeting tomorrow to consider the acute internal situation arising last week, when four Liberals voted against their leader and four others abstained to save the government from defeat.

"Lloyd George intends to make it clear that if there are similar incidents in the future, he will have to seriously consider his position as party leader," says the Liberal Daily News.

The Labor party meets Wednesday to consider the strong disagreement which has grown in the party over the slow progress of its schemes to solve the unemployment problem, and this means the party's policy will be again defined on its vastly-important measures.

The Conservatives have perhaps more trouble than their opponents. The formation of the United Empire Party by Lord Beaverbrook, pledged to free trade within the empire as a means to closer economic imperial unity and a method of bolstering Britain's industrial fortunes, provides a direct threat to the Conservatives.

Stanley Baldwin has promised—and the party has accepted—a program of empire economic unity which parallels the Beaverbrook program in all but the vital point of free trade.

Bootlegs Won't Offer to Help Out Warner

A large delegation of bootleggers was on hand when the Garrett investigation began, but many of them were unable to get into the hearing room.

It was stated, more or less authoritatively, that the word had gone out none of them would volunteer any information to the Attorney-General, although, needless to say, the former liquor raider was never popular with them.

POLICE OFFICIALS AND SURPRISE WITNESS IN GARRETT CASE

Part of the crowd in room 370, State House, shown by Boston Evening American staff photo, at opening of investigation by Atty.-Gen. Warner into activities of Oliver B. Garrett, former liquor raid leader before he was retired on pension. The crowd filled the room and many others were unable to get in. Prominent among those present were Deputy Police Supt. James J. McDevitt, John H. Merrick, secretary to Police Commissioner Wilson, and William J. Goldstein of the bureau of criminal investigation. A feature of the opening was Atty.-Gen. Warner's declaration that he intended to investigate Garrett's activities not only when he was on police duty for the city of Boston, but also when he was off duty while a member of the police force. Another feature was the appearance of Frank C. Goodnough of Binghamton, N. Y., as a witness in the case. This was the surprise of the day at the hearing.

Frank C. Goodnough of Bingamton, N. Y., secretary of Security Life Insurance Co., who introduced in evidence Garrett's application for life insurance made September 17, 1929, and testified that at that time Garrett made no mention of the head injuries that formed the basis for his retirement on pension

U. S.-Jap Naval Pact Near; Big 4 to Meet

London, March 3 (AP)—A tentative agreement between the United States and Japan on the Japanese demand for a 70 per cent ratio was said to be looming large as a possibility today.

Excellent progress was reported in conversations between Senator David A. Reed, American delegate, and Ambassador Matsudaira of the Japanese delegation.

These two old friends have been discussing the Japanese-American problems informally in private, and their talks will continue this week.

It was understood the conversations have been along lines of exploration of the whole field of possibilities especially the possible increase of Japan's ratio in submarines as compared with capital ships under the Washington treaty.

They also are trying to devise some scheme whereby the date of laying down cruisers by one country would control the right of the other country to construct additional cruisers.

The United States has now become prime mover in the negotiations with Japan, while Great Britain is awaiting the outcome.

The previous British negotiations with the Japanese extending two or three weeks are said to have resulted in a complete deadlock. The British are being kept informed of the progress of the American-Japanese conversations.

Meanwhile the experts' committee which has been considering the classification of special ships has reached an agreement and its report has gone to the printers.

Tomorrow the heads of the various delegations will meet at St. James' Palace to consider the report of the experts' committee on the French category scheme.

The delegations hope that Ambassador Fleuriau will have instructions from Paris which will enable him to represent his country at this meeting. If these instructions do not arrive it probably will be necessary to adjourn consideration of the proposals until the French delegates return.

Another question which is dependent on the French return is that of the humanization of submarines. The other four delegations have gone as far as they can in preparing a draft treaty without the presence of the French.

Tardieu Lines Up His Naval Parley Delegates

Paris, March 3 (AP)—Despite preoccupation with home affairs following formation of the second Cabinet, Premier Andre Tardieu today devoted many hours of his crowded time to preparation of the work of the French delegation to the London naval conference.

Today's appointments included a visit from Rene Massigli, member of the original delegation, who came from London especially to enlighten his chief on the current situation.

Another conference, lasting for three hours, was with J. L. Dusmenil, new minister of marine, and with M. Reynes, alternate. Dusmenil, although a Radical Socialist, whose party is opposed to Tardieu, is thoroughly in accord with the new Premier in his naval stand.

"Tardieu has done me an honor in confiding me with the marine portfolio," he said. "At a time when the London conference is meeting to regulate questions vital to France, I must place the interests of my country above all other considerations."

Rum Fleet Not Considered Part of Navy by Parley

London, March 3 (INS)—America's prohibition fleet, which at one time threatened to play an important part in the London disarmament negotiations, today was placed outside the warship class.

Finally completing its detailed report on special ships and exempt classes, the experts' committee of the conference definitely exempted the bulk of America's anti-rum fleet from disarmament regulations.

The terms of the report put all prohibition vessels into the exempt class with the exception of 25 destroyers lent by the Navy Department to the prohibition department.

The committee failed to solve the question of seaplane carriers, which was referred back to the first committee of the conference. This committee must decide whether seaplane carriers should eventually be absorbed in the aircraft carrier tonnages of the various nations.

2 DETROIT SAFE ROBBERS SLAIN

Detroit, March 3 (AP)—Two men, who had been robbing a safe in the Harper theater, were shot to death early today by two patrolmen.

The robbers were identified as Phillip J. Twomey, 30, and Leo Garbada, 30, both of Detroit. Police said both had long records of arrests.

Patrolman Bondy, seeing a light on the second floor of the theater, called out, thinking it was the night watchman.

Bondy became suspicious on hearing a strange voice assure him "everything is all right" and ran to a landing near the office.

Five shots were fired at him from such close range that his face was powder burned. Retreating to the street, he asked a passerby to summon aid. Sergt. Farley picked up an alarm from the police radio and arrived in three minutes.

Meantime, the robbers climbed an iron ladder to the attic over the main part of the theater. Farley and Bondy followed and in the darkness of the attic, a gun battle followed in which the two marauders were slain.

YANKEE BARON IN LIVERPOOL

Liverpool, Eng., March 3—Twenty years after leaving England to go to America, where he became a man of all work at Pepperell, Mass., Sir John Fagge returned to his native soil today aboard the liner Lancastrian, a baronet.

"Being a baronet will be very interesting," he said, "I don't think there's any estate, but I believe there is a grant that goes with the title. I shall see what the grant means and if it isn't much I may return to America. They are much excited about my title over there."

He said he had taken out his first citizenship papers in America before sailing. He succeeded to the baronetcy on the death of his elder brother.

Labor Seeks to Halt 106-Day Dance Test

Detroit, March 3 (AP)—A marathon dance which has been going along for more than 106 days at Eastwood Park, East Detroit, appeared about to end today with the State Commissioner of Labor and Industry moving to stop it after local and county authorities failed to interfere.

The marathon, which, according to witnesses, rivals the most savage dances of primitive peoples, has gone on uninterrupted since last November 18. East Detroit is outside Wayne county, so authorities here have been powerless to act to stop the dance.

Several pastors of the district attacked the marathon dance in their Sunday sermons. The Rev. Roland Travers of the Mt. Clemens Baptist Church, who has been waging a campaign against it, referred to it as "in many ways the saddest, most heart-breaking affair I have ever attended."

"It was not a funeral service over a dead body, but far worse,"

Bavarians Put Ban on King Ludwig Film

Munich, Bavaria, March 3 (AP)—Police today prohibited showing of the newly-completed film entitled "Ludwig II., King of Bavaria," on the ground that public safety would be endangered.

Royal relatives of the late King sought an injunction against the production on the ground that not only Ludwig but some of his living relatives were depicted.

he declared. "It was the slow death of the physical, mental and spiritual natures of nearly a dozen young people."

Eugene L. Brock, State Commissioner of Labor and Industry, announced he would seek warrants for arrest of the persons conducting the dance on the grounds that a state labor statute was being violated. Michigan law forbids employment of women for more than 54 hours a week or 10 hours in any one day. Mr. Brock says he thinks this law is being violated in allowing the five young women who now remain in the dance to go on.

Dorothy Russell

On the return of Ambassador Moore from Spain in 1925, Mrs. Calvit demanded an accounting from him as executor of the estate of her mother.

The claim was made by the daughter's attorneys that they had been unable to find any trust fund and demand was made on the former publisher for an accounting of the whereabouts of the large amount of jewelry and pottery and bric-a-brac, left by Mrs. Moore.

Before the case went to court it was suddenly settled.

BERLIN CABINET FACES CRISIS

Berlin, March 3 (AP)—The Reich cabinet today failed to make a decisive stand with its opposition on President von Hindenburg's single income tax levy measure and postponed for a short while action which may precipitate a cabinet crisis.

The ministry, after an all-morning session, adjourned to give its various members an opportunity to make contact with their Reichstag parties in the hope of finding a way out of the impasse.

Today's discussion did make evident, however, that Julius Curtius, minister of foreign affairs, who did not attend the session on account of a severe cold, is expected to remain at his portfolio, at least until the Young plan is adopted, no matter what happens.

Some even believe that a solution of the financial difficulty will be found whereby Herr Moldenhauer's resignation can be avoided.

Orlando Fla., March 3 (AP)—R. A. T. Baker, entomologist for the Department of Agriculture, in charge of Mediterranean fruit fly research experiments in Florida, today told a congressional subcommittee that, in his opinion, "not a single larvae, pupa or living fruit fly is in Florida today."

Dr. Baker said if no flies were found by July 1, or after the time of ripening of Surian cherries, then he would recommend the quarantine regulations be lifted.

2 Anti-Drys Declare for Party Secession

Washington, March 3 (INS)—Predicting that party lines will be smashed by the prohibition issue in many districts in the 1930 congressional elections, two outstanding anti-prohibitionists of the House today advised wets to desert their parties to oust drys from wet districts.

They are Rep. Sabath (D.) of Illinois and Rep. LaGuardia (R.) of New York, both of whom believe prohibition will be the outstanding issue in the elections next fall.

Arguing that a wet is justified in deserting his party to oust dry members of the House Sabath said:

"I would, because I regard this question of such importance I feel conditions demand some action be had.

"Of course, I would not vote for a scoundrel merely because he was wet. He could not be relied on, anyway.

"I am satisfied if prohibition is made an issue, the wets will gain many seats in the House because the demand for a change seems to be general.

Representative LaGuardia, though not classed as a regular Republican and assailed because he praised the election of a wet Democrat to the House from Massachusetts, said:

"All things being equal, I would vote for a wet regardless of party affiliations.

"In the absence of a national catastrophe or an emergency of such magnitude as to include the entire country, the congressional election will revolve itself around the prohibition question. Sitting members will be asked to declare themselves on the issue."

CAPPER LAUDS HOOVER FOR FACT FINDING

Washington, March 3 (AP)—Senator Capper of Kansas today indicated his belief that, in effect, the Democratic-Republican coalition is writing a tariff bill which will be agreeable to President Hoover.

While the Senate began what it was hoped would be the final week's work on the measure which will have occupied it just six months next Saturday, Capper said in a radio address that "it is my belief that the Senate discussion and actions will result in tariff rates in line with President Hoover's program, this in spite of the fact that those rates will be written in great part by political enemies of the President."

Characterizing Mr. Hoover's first year as President as a "a year of fact finding," the Kansas Republican asserted that "the policies followed, the programs laid down and initiated, the actions taken by President Hoover so far are along lines that will rebound to the best interests of the entire country in the long run."

"It seems to me," he said, "this first year of President Hoover has been a year of fact finding; a year of work on data and blue prints; a year of foundation laying. These are the mark of the engineering mind of President Hoover."

Capper named six major national projects which he said the President had facing him on beginning his term: Farm relief; law enforcement, including prohibition; limited tariff revision, inland waterways, preparations for an approaching economic crisis and promotion of world peace.

He praised Mr. Hoover's handling of the stock market crash as a "masterly piece of work," said the federal farm board "has helped the situation" and that the success or failure of the inland waterways program would be a later development.

Capper expressed approval of the "commission" idea and said he looked for recommendations of the law enforcement commission to be enacted. Good will come from the London naval conference, he added, "though perhaps not to the extent that many of us hoped."

Senate Adopts Oil Probe Resolution

Washington, March 3 (AP)—The Senate today adopted a resolution by Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, calling upon the Attorney-General to investigate corporations and associations selling oil and gasoline in Montana and to determine whether they were "fixing prices" or in any way violating anti-trust laws.

Letters From Readers

Suggests Reading Insurance Report

Editor Boston American:

Notwithstanding the many letters from individuals having to do with the proposal that the Commonwealth enter into the insurance business, and the evils thereof, would it not be well for all interested, who have not done so to obtain at the State House a copy of the Report of the Special Commission to Study Compulsory Motor Vehicle Liability Insurance known as Senate 280?

Of all the "State Fund" bills presented — the commission (made up of very able men) was unanimously of the opinion that none of the bills should be enacted.

A single paragraph of the report is significant—"There has not appeared to us any compelling reason or necessity for the entrance of this Commonwealth into the real of strictly private business in competition with its citizens, but there do appear abundant reasons for keeping out of it."

Who Are Greatest Men in America

Editor Boston American:

At a meeting of the young people to decide among themselves who are the three greatest men in America, held in one of the small halls used for social gatherings in Boston, we finally had a majority vote, with this result.

There was much discussion, but Hoover, Edison and Ford rose above all others. They are to be hailed as the "Three Wise Men" of America.

While some thought that Hoover had too much of an engineering mind and might flunk on national problems more than any other President, yet those who defend him, showed that Hoover's mind will never repeal anything. It is a progressive mind. Young people are more interested in his administration than in Ford or Edison. They liked the way that he has developed from early youth. They spoke of it at this meeting.

But the reason for writing this letter is to probe other young minds about the three greatest men in America today. What do your young readers think about this?

Thinks Hub Police Unusually Get Man

Editor Boston American:

Much is said and justly of the efficiency of the police, but a remark quoted by a speaker at one of the Sunday forums in this city, rather set me thinking.

It was a quotation from Judge Alfred J. Talley of the Court of General Sessions of New York, one of the greatest criminal courts in this country, if not in the world, who said some time ago that the criminal in the hands of police has 40 chances to 1 to escape punishment.

Personally, I cannot believe this is true here, for I had a case in point recently. A man had jumped from one town in this state to another town, but the vigilance of the state police located this man and arrested him. It was a very difficult situation, but the skill of the police was here splendidly manifested. Boston police are as a body very well up in criminal knowledge and they deserve no such censure as this judge in New York gave.

Says Women Will Fight in Next War

Editor Boston American:

If we have any more war, the next one will see new armies filled by women as well as men. There will be squadrons of women pilots and the new tanks will be driven by what we called "flappers." These women will show that they are equal to men in enduring hardships and privation. All this, I learned from a man who had a talk with Sir Philip Gibbs, the well known war correspondent. He added the new woman will be as brave as men and skilled in the use of the new machine gun.

They will handle that like an electric iron. We have no conception of how easily women of this generation can respond to many achievements that formerly belonged to man. We have no idea of the forward march of women in the last quarter of a century. They will rise also to the occasion of stopping war.

Barbers as Doctors in Colonial Days

Editor Boston American:

In looking over some events that happened in Boston around 1634, preparatory to an address to be made before a club in another state, I came across this item which I thought would be interesting to your readers.

"A barber in going from Boston to Roxbury one day towards dusk to pull a man's tooth, froze to death in his brief journey."

"Barbers did the tooth pulling in those days and charged ten cents except in special cases which required more surgery. Barbers lanced people as well as doctors. George Washington while ill was lanced by a barber. How barbers have improved in 300 years.

Double Benefits of Tree Planting

Editor Boston American:

The suggestion made in one of your editorials that the planting of shade trees throughout the Commonwealth would serve two ends, give employment and help replenish the loss of many trees. Where we chop one tree down, we ought to plant three in its vicinity.

More attention should be given to tree planting in parks of cities and along avenues as well as in the country towns. We cannot agitate this too much. But there are only a comparatively few interested in this matter, and now that spring will soon be here, more interest in this should be awakened.

Editor Boston American:

The younger generation of women is so completely mimicking young men in their dress, with caps, vests and so-called bloomers (more like trousers) that it is hard to distinguish them from male youth. I had an experience in my office the other day when a youth rushed in with a letter that I naturally took for a young man, until her voice betrayed her.

The only way for young men to preserve their identity is to wear a mustache. It must be more than ever the badge of masculinity. Just watch many of the women students in the Back Bay rushing out of educational institutions, if they do not look like the sons of Adam, then I have cataracts on my eyes. Young men, please mustache yourselves.

I. O. U. for Chop Suey Gets Man Fine, Jail

International complications arose when George Doherty of Columbia st., Cambridge, offered nothing but an I. O. U. in payment for a chop suey he had eaten in a Central sq. Chinese restaurant, according to police, and as a result Dohrty was arrested charged with larceny of "one chop suey."

With Howard Chew, the proprietor, whose knowledge of English did not extend to I. O. U. in the alphabet, appearing as complainant, Doherty was found guilty in East Cambridge district court and fined $20. On a charge of drunkenness he was ordered to the state farm. He appealed. Bail, $500.

Gen. Weyler, Cuban Veteran, Near Death

Madrid, March 3 (AP)—Gen. Valeriano Weyler, veteran of the Cuban war for independence and of the Spanish-American War, who is ill with a bronchial pneumonia attack, passed a bad night.

U. S. ATTITUDE STAYS LEAGUE BAN ON WAR

Geneva, March 3 (AP)—Attempting to plug a gap in the covenant of the League of Nations to make war impossible, the committee of jurists today found itself deep in discussion of the attitude of the United States.

The committee was considering proposals that if the council should be unable to agree unanimously on a measure for settlement of an international dispute, the question should be submitted to the World Court for an advisory opinion.

Dr. Van Buslow, German representative, pointed out that under the recently advanced protocol for the adhesion of the United States to the court, it was provided that questions affecting the interests of the United States should not be made the subject of an advisory opinion without the United States' consent.

He thought the possibility of this delicate situation should be avoided and favored arbitration as a resort for settlement, war having been outlawed.

Carolina Druggist Pioneered Modern Way to Treat Colds

Developed Valuable Formula While Seeking Way to Avoid "Dosing" Children's Colds

While trying to find a treatment for the colds of his own children which would avoid constant "dosing," so disturbing to delicate little stomachs, Lunsford Richardson, a North Carolina pharmacist, developed Vicks VapoRub — the modern external treatment for colds.

Acts 2 Ways at Once

Being applied externally, this modern vaporizing ointment cannot disturb the digestion. Just rubbed on throat and chest, its medicated vapors, released by the body heat, are inhaled direct to the inflamed air passages, loosening the phlegm and easing the difficulty breathing. At the same time, it acts through the skin like a poultice, or plaster, "drawing out" the tightness and soreness.

Just as Good for Adults

As one enthusiastic mother told another about this better method of treating colds Vicks soon became widely known. In time adults, too, found by actual use that it is equally good for their own colds. Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing," and the fame of Vicks has spread to over 60 countries.

Demand Increases Each Year

The ever-increasing demand is shown in the familiar Vick slogan. First announced when Vicks reached "17 Million Jars Used Yearly," and later raised to "21 Million," the figures have again been changed—as there are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly" in the United States alone.

German Firm Perfects Synthetic Gems

Berlin, March 3 (INS)—The production of synthetic gems said to be equivalent to genuine ones is the latest achievement claimed by German industry.

The plants of the I. G. Chemical Corporation at Bitterfeld (Saxony) manufacture any quantity of gems of about 40 grammes weight which it would take several ten thousands of years for nature to produce.

The raw material needed for the production of synthetic gems is neither expensive nor rare. All depends on the crystallization process. This process takes place in a melting stove at a temperature of 2000 degrees celsius. The raw material, mostly clay, drops through a riddle of a stick insulated upright in the hottest part of the fire. The enormous heat causes the drops to crystallize, while the various dyes to color the gems are supplied through special tubes. The gems cool down very quickly.

WE have never forgotten for a moment that Chesterfield's popularity depends on Chesterfield's taste.

Take mildness, for instance; Chesterfields are mild, and yet they satisfy—and if you "know your cigarettes," you know that's not an ordinary combination. Add a delightful spicy fragrance, and that mellow tobacco richness that marks good tobaccos and good blending—and you have the simple Chesterfield formula for unfailing popularity.

NATIONWIDE DRUG DRIVE PLANNED

By KENNETH CLARK
Universal Service

Washington, March 3—On the theory that a new broom sweeps clean, Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of treasury, has announced that vigorous drives will be launched by the federal government to smash the big dope rings operating all over the country.

Such is one of the chief immediate effects of the widespread shakeups of the narcotic force, resulting in the removal of Col. L. G. Nutt as federal chief and the transfer of numerous agents in the New York and other bureaus.

The transfers will be completed within 10 days and the reorganized force, under the direction of Harry J. Anslinger, [illegible] prohibition commissioner, will be ready to function at top speed.

Lowman is [illegible] drives with Andrew [illegible] temporary [illegible] Congress of the [illegible] eating a separate [illegible] bureau, divorced from prohibition in the treasury department.

"We are going after the big conspirators," Lowman said crisply.

The government will enlist the active aid of the states in attacking dope peddlers and small operators.

It is estimated there are approximately 25 mammoth dope rings which, with bases in the larger cities, supply enormous quantities of drugs to thousands of American addicts. New York, Chicago, Detroit and San Francisco have been described by federal officials as the chief centers of the illicit trade.

The source of the ring's supply is mostly smuggled dope from Europe, where drug factories find few barriers, to fulfilling the illicit demands. The customs bureau will join the narcotics force in fighting the smugglers.

Meanwhile, hearings will start next Friday on the Porter bill before the House ways and means committee.

BUYER'S FATE UP TO U. S. COURT

DECISION REVERSED

The Federal District Court at Philadelphia declared the mere purchase of liquor was not an offense under the prohibition law and that where there was nothing but simple sale the purchaser was not guilty of conspiracy with the seller.

It also said that "where transportation was required by the agreement," the purchaser and the seller could not be indicted for conspiracy "even though what is contemplated is simply the delivery of the thing sold."

The Circuit Court of Appeals held that "a sale of liquor involving such transportation as is necessary to effect the delivery to the purchaser does not subject the purchaser and seller to an indictment for conspiracy to transport," and said that under the prohibition law the purchase of liquor was not an offence.

These decisions, the government insisted, narrowed the scope of the conspiracy statute to such an extent as to make it inapplicable to a large number of cases in which conspiracy to violate laws other than the prohibition act were charged.

Norris Decision Will Affect Farrar Test Case

A Supreme Court decision on the Norris case will, it is believed, affect the case of James Farrar of Watertown, who is under indictment here on a charge of buying two pints of liquor.

James A. Cresswell, his attorney, has filed a motion to quash the charge on the ground that purchasing liquor is not an indictable offence. Judge Morton in federal court instructed him and the government's attorneys to study the debates in Congress prior to prohibition, and to file briefs setting forth their ideas of the intent of the members.

The bodies of Eielson and his assistant, Borland, were later recovered nearby and are now being returned to the United States. Pilot Joe Crosson found the plane after weeks of search in the bitter cold.

Lindy to Resume Glider Experiments

San Francisco, March 3 (AP)—The Examiner said today that Charles A. Lindbergh probably would continue with his glider experiments in the San Francisco Bay region.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh flew here from Burbank, Cal., and although the flier was reticent about his plans the Examiner said his glider, the "Anne Lindbergh," was aboard the liner Yale, in custody of Jack Barstow, assistant to Hawley Bowlus, American glider champion, with whom Lindbergh has been conducting experiments in Southern California.

Professor's Studio Destroyed by Fire

Ipswich, March 3—The famous art studio of the late Prof. Arthur Dow of Columbia University, situated on the top of Town Hill here, has been burned to the ground. Flames were discovered pouring out of the old two-story dwelling, which has been abandoned for 20 years, by automobilists, who notified the fire department.

ASKS PROBE OF GRAIN PLOT

Washington, March 3 (AP)—Investigation by the Senate to determine whether the grain trade has conspired to destroy the effectiveness of the farm relief act was proposed in a resolution introduced today by Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota.

The resolution also would provide that the Senate determine whether the farm board has been "fairly interpreting" the farm relief act and carrying out its purposes.

The investigation would be conducted by the Senate agriculture committee, which would be authorized to subpoena directors and officers of the Farmers' National Grain Corporation and other witnesses.

The committee also would be directed to determine whether the grain trade has instigated efforts in the world market which would "tend to depress the world market for American agricultural products and to reflect such depression upon the domestic market for the purpose of discrediting the farm board."

Inquiry as to whether the grain trade has been aided by the banking or credit institutions or other interests "in any way associated with such institutions" would also be authorized.

Yale Paper Protests Riot Suspension

New Haven, Ct., March 3 (INS)—A pronouncement that a year's suspension will be meted out to all future rioting Yale undergraduates was greeted with protest by Yale Daily News today. The editors of the college paper declare the so-called riots are merely the logical successors to old-time rushes, but at the same time the editors warn the present freshman class against testing the suspension rule.

ARCHDUKE WILL BE QUIZZED ON NECKLACE

New York, March 3—Archduke Leopold of Austria was under subpoena to appear at the district attorney's office today to tell what he knows of the sale of the $400,000 diamond necklace which Napoleon originally gave to Empress Marie Louise on the birth of their son.

The necklace was sold to Dr. M. Michel, jeweler, for $60,000 by Charles Townsend, who had power of attorney from the owner, the Archduchess Marie Therese of Austria, aunt of Archduke Leopold.

Townsend has, however, disappeared. Mrs. Victor Eisenmenger of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., says she has a power of attorney superseding his, and discovery has been made that Townsend sold it for $85,000 in January to Attie Arthur Berenson of Boston, but bought it back under an agreement for the same price.

Why a $95,000 sale was canceled in favor of a $60,000 one, and why such a valuable piece of jewelry went for so trifling a price anyway, is what the authorities are anxious to learn.

Archduke Leopold, temporarily a sausage salesman, is believed to be the key to the situation. He is quoted as admitting that he evolved a scheme for selling the diamonds, and reselling the necklace with other diamonds for a second sale.

Berenson was revealed in January as the purchaser of the fifteen gems at which appeared to be a bargain price, but no complaint was made by Mrs. Eisenmenger at that time.

20 Are Indicted in Atlanta Graft Case

Atlanta, March 3 (AP)—Indictments against 20 persons, including six councilmen and the city clerk, the first true bills to result from a four-months-old inquiry were termed "peanut charges" by authorities today in announcing a continuation of a grand jury investigation into alleged graft in the municipal government.

While the accused persons, two of them women, issued vigorous denials of guilt, Solicitor-General John A. Boykin said: "The big things are coming and we are just getting into," and a new grand jury was summoned for organization.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's oldest enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but are a healing, soothing vegetable laxative, safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling — sick headache — torpid liver — constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 10c, 25c, 50c.

CLUBWOMEN'S AID ASKED IN WAR ON CANCER

In a concentrated drive against cancer, Massachusetts clubwomen are being circularized on what they can do in the prevention of the disease. This action has been taken by the department of public health of the State Federation of which Dr. Annie E. Palmer is chairman.

Dr. Palmer has spoken time after time on the evil of cancer. She has urged women to recognize symptoms and seek medical advice instead of succumbing to feminine mysteries and unaided home remedies.

A pamphlet informing Bay State clubwomen what they can do have been sent to the affiliated clubs of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, with instructions that they be distributed. It reads:

"What women can do?

Women are doing much toward the control of cancer, but they can do still more.

Here are some practical suggestions. Every woman should make it her business to learn the practical facts and sound working opinions about the disease in order to apply them to herself and spread this knowledge among her associates.

"Every woman who belongs to a club should see to it that a qualified speaker is invited to give a lecture on some aspect of the cancer question at least once a year.

"Every woman should see to it that a copy of this pamphlet is sent to every member of the club.

"Every woman should have a medical examination once a year by a physician, with an eye alert for cancer.

"Every woman should see that the members of her family are protected as far as possible against cancer, and, if attacked, that they are promptly provided with the best medical attention.

"Every woman should beware of advertised medical treatment, serums, vaccines and the like and understand that such preparations are not only useless but, by causing a delay in the application of proper treatments, make the cure of cancer more difficult, if not impossible."

NEEDHAM NEW CENTURY CLUB

A special meeting will be held by the public health committee, Tuesday, March 11, at 3 p. m. in the parish house of the Baptist Church, to enable club members to hear Dr Helen I. D. McGillicuddy, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Society for Social Hygiene, speak on "The Business of Being a Parent." After the lecture members of the committee will meet for a business session under the direction of Mrs. Walter M. Perry.

In the interim, the keep fit class continues under the guidance of Mrs. Alex Hayner and the women meeting once a week, at 9 a. m. on Tuesdays, to pursue healthful exercises. Mrs. Hayner, who is chairman of the music committee also reminds that March 5 is "Gentlemen's Night" and that the teachers of the Needham public schools have been especially invited.

MUSIC CONDITIONS IN RUSSIA

The present day life of the student body and the higher artistic circles in Russia is immensurably more congenial and free from restraint, Isaak Weltman, graduate of the Government Conservatories of Music at Odessa and now affiliated with the Weltman Conservatory of Music in Malden, says in a short interview in Life and Letters, official organ of the Massachusetts Federation of Music Clubs.

That Mr. Weltman points out, is in accordance with the liberalism of the "new Russia." Mr. Weltman states. "Where before, private schools, conservatories and enterprises held away, everything pertaining to educational or cultural institutions was at once abolished and turned over to governmental supervision.

"Chaos seemed to reign. Even the privilege for private thinking seemingly was prohibited. However, strange as it may seem, the system in the old established conservatories such as those located at Leningrad, Moscow, Odessa, Kiev, Saratoff and Charkow remained intact without disturbance or interruption. This is unique among the many idiosyncrasies that developed in the entire structure of post-war conditions.

"With it all, however, it was necessary to make some changes in the curriculum and the members of the faculty. The greater majority of the more prominent professors remained at their posts, while the lesser were compelled to go elsewhere to maintain a livelihood."

WOMEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB OF MASSACHUSETTS

Tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. Guy Lee, Boston landscape architect, will lecture on "Japanese Gardens." He has spent a year in Japan to study the wonderful gardens there, and his lecture describes Japanese civilizations and the history of his gardening art from the ninth century to the modern gardens. Mrs. Eliot Wadsworth, director, arrivals department, has arranged the program.

Mrs. Eva Whiting White will be the guest of the club on Wednesday when she speaks on "Pageantry and Other Features of the Tercentenary" at the clubhouse at 3 p. m. Camille Girouard, baritone, will sing. Mrs. Nelson W. Howard, director of the political department, is in charge.

The Regional Conference of the League, including New England states, will be held March 21 at the Young Women's Christian Association building on Berkeley st., Boston. "Juvenile Delinquency" will be considered at great length and the work of the league along these lines will be shown by illustrated methods.

Since the Public Welfare chairman of all the states have been supplied with questionnaires planned to elicit information on live situations and problems in each state, much will be revealed at the conference. On such a background the League will proceed to develop its technique and emphasize the League's responsibility for such necessary reforms in the treatment of "Juvenile Delinquency."

Mrs. Bryant Moulton, psychiatrist at the Judge Baker Foundation, will be the afternoon speaker, his subject being "The Family's Responsibility for the Delinquent Child." That delightful film, "Helping Jimmy to Make Good," which was reported on some time ago in this column, will be shown.

"My Skin Nearly Drove Me Mad"

"I had pimples and blackheads so badly, and used to squeeze them so much that my face looked red and raw. On the advice of a nurse friend I got a jar of Rowles Menthe Sulphur and used it faithfully for ten days. In 3 days' time there was a big difference in my skin and today it is as soft and clear as my ten-year-old sister's."

The Sulphur in Rowles Menthe Sulphur clears the skin while the Menthe heals the sore, broken tissue. That's the two-fold action you want for skin troubles. Try Rowles Menthe Sulphur not only for pimples and blackheads, but for dry, scaly skin, rash, and itching eczema. IT WORKS! All druggists sell it in jars ready to use. Be sure it's Rowles.

U. S. Will Not Probe Death of Hacking

Providence, March 3—There will be no federal investigation of the murder of Charles Ray Hacking of Cranston, government prohibition informer, Asst. U. S. Atty. Edward F. McElroy said today.

In the meantime state and city police have found no clue to the whereabouts of Joseph McGuinness and Carlton O'Brien, sought in connection with the shooting of Hacking, whose body was found by an Attleboro roadside last week.

It's Little, but Oh My!

Mesena, Ga., March 3—This town, pop. 25, has eight homes and five churches. In addition there are services occasionally at two social halls.

Shopping with Priscilla Price

Dearest Anne:

I have the most amazing things to tell you this week, for I've been to the most intriguing shops. And it's all on account of the tap-dancing vogue which is so catching. Every girl I've met for the past few weeks has been humming and tapping and stubbing her toe tips thin in a relentless effort to learn this fascinating dance step. And of course, in order to acquire a professional air to their dancing they had to have the proper outfit—and that's what I want to tell you about—but first of all —tell me

Can You Do the "Tap"?

Don't tell me you can't—it's the rage of the hour, Anne! The smartest moderns are going it. Society buds, business girls—even stately matrons who haven't danced a step for years are tapping away now, for it's a marvelous way to reduce. And I know a wonderful dancing studio where they'll actually put you the steps—someone who has been on Broadway and in London before the footlights—Miss Kay Corbett, formerly of the "Good News" Company! She is at the Mary V. Corbett School of Dancing, where all the latest dancing is taught—"tap," ballet, musical comedy steps. Hours are from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. and you may have private, class or semi-private lessons. For further information write or call the Mary V. Corbett School of Dancing, 24 Union Sq., Somerville. Tel. Som 0076.

The Gipsy "T" Cup

starts its samovars a-humming with hospitality today, Anne—for this is the opening day of the newest tea shop in town. It is like a bit of Araby—with spacey gay awnings shading its latticed windows, and Moors' heads looking down upon you from its walls, while the famous Mme. Nina reads your fortune in the dregs, or the story written in the leaves of your gipsy tea cup, whichever you prefer—free of charge! All this, of course, comes after you've enjoyed the varied luncheons which they serve of delicious home-cooked food. Prices are very reasonable and Mme. Nina will answer any questions you may wish to ask. The Gipsy "T" Cup is at 66 Huntington Ave. (Cor. Irvington St.) Open every day from 10 A. M. to 10 P. M.

Easter Brides!

Your happy day is drawing near—and you haven't much time left to think about your wedding invitations. So better not delay your visit to W. H. Brett Co. for advice regarding. They are specializing in the new style wedding invitations—called the Park Avenue, which you'll simply adore. The paper is a soft, creamy, and the panel, bearing the invitation is set a bit to one side, to make room for the lovely Cameo monogram—bearing your initial—and his. These new invitations are enclosed unfolded. You may have your envelopes to address right now. Write for one of their beautiful packets of samples, which gives their rates—also enclose 20 cents to cover cost of mailing. W. H. Brett Co., Studio, 30 Bromfield St.

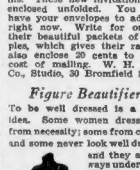
To be well dressed is a right idea. Some women dress well from necessity; some from choice, and some never look well at all—



and they are always under a disadvantage. Well, here is good advice. A correct foundation garment is not a luxury, it's a necessity. Bewa's corsets of elastic webbing. This figure is smaller made without elastic webbing. The adjustable lacing on the side is so much more effective. It corrects faulty posture. Is easy to wear and easily tubbed. Women are different . . . no two alike . . . so the ready made is rarely satisfactory. Call and inquire about the Caporn system for individual work which is no more expensive than the ready made and really slenderizes and reduces the appearance of full figures. CAPORN, 110 Tremont St. LIB. 6649.

Everybody's Tapping!

A tardy street car is now a joy! It gives you a chance to brush up on your last lesson while waiting on a windy corner. Eighteen-day dieters have gone back to their fudge and cream puffs and taken up tap-dancing—it's lots more fun. The Lenten season, which throws a hush over gayeties in general, starts the businesslike rehearsals for Easter week theatricals, when every sparkling little hometown star follows the steps of her favorite stage idol—even to wearing per-practice clothes. Those little black velvet shorts of Filene's. Why, they are just the kind Ruby Keeler wears when she does her famous tap-dancing number every night. They are adorable little shorts—and —er—very short, with an adjustable elastic in back to insure snug fit. Filene's charge for $3 for them. Then they have some very swanky two-piece linen suits that look like a large edition of little brother's and are just as practical, for, of course, they launder beautifully, and are so cool. The blouse is worn tuck-in, and comes with the new cap sleeves. The pantee comes to most to the knee, so you see, they can be worn at "gym," tennis camping and all kinds of sports. I understand they are going to be quite the thing to wear on the golf links next summer. These suits are $6 complete, and come in white, yellow, powder blue and some green. Filene's also has separate linen shorts at $2. You'll find them all in their downstairs Section on the fourth floor. Go into your shorts, and start tapping—it's the only way to be modern

She knows this is the last week of the Great Scott "Fur Party." She has learned that a very small deposit will secure the Caracul coat with its fluffy fox collar; that she has a choice of the Scott three-way method of payment—cash, pay one of courses—open a charge account—or do as she has already decided—join the Scott Unique Fur Club, the only one in New England. Are Your Rugs Clean?

Then better not delay this call to the Golden Bell another day, for this is the very last week of their wonderful rug shampooing at such unheard of prices. They call and deliver in every part of Greater Providence, and if you call and have delivery car this week you may have your Oriental cleaned for 5 cents a square foot, and your Domestic rugs cleaned for 10 cents a square foot; or $3.24 for 9x12. Golden Bell Cleaners, 41 Winter St., Boston Lib. 9250, Eastern Ave., Malden. Tel. Malden 2000.

A Dress Without Cost!

Do you know that you can actually buy a dress at cost at the New York Dress Mfg. Co. than you could make it yourself for the "material"? Well, you can, Anne—and without the bother of cutting and basting—and ripping it out again! These dresses at $3.75 and $6.75 are such extraordinary values that the New York Dress Mfg. Co. guarantee to give you one of their frocks free of charge if you can duplicate it elsewhere at their prices. Hundreds of dresses in every size from 14 to 50 including newest prints, printed georgettes, flat crepes, and three-piece tweed suits. Open every evening until 7 p. m. The New York Dress Mfg. Co., 315 Washington St. 2nd floor (near West). Plenty of private dressing rooms and sales ladies.

There Isn't a Color

you can't wear when your skin and complexion is clear and glowing. Jean has longed to wear those delicate new tints that are so flattering—but you require a good complexion, so her first step to improve her skin was a visit to Miss Elizabeth Sparkes, to have that very contrary growth of superfluous hair removed. And my dear, I wish you could hear her praise of Miss Sparkes and her wonderful work. Jean says she didn't feel a twinge of pain, and although she had the work done months ago, not even the tiniest hair has made a reappearance. Her work is certainly permanent. She is so gentle and cautious, you'll really enjoy your treatment. Miss Sparkes is at 120 Tremont St., Rm. 334. Tel. Han. 7592.

Tip-A-Tap-Tap

Your feet begin to patter! Tip-a-tap-tap—but—what seems to be the matter? Why, Anne—you can't get the rhythm or the swing unless you wear tap dancing shoes. I found so many tap dancing enthusiasts scouring the town for the "taps" that I just ran right down to Wolff, Fording & Co. to see what they had and found the most adorable black patent leather ties for $3.95, also white satin ties at the same prices, that can be dyed any color for 75 cents. One strap shoes are $5. The metal taps are sold separately at 50 cents a pair, which may be attached to your own shoes. Wolff, Fording & Company at 46 Stuart St. carry all sorts of the strictest supplies and stage shoes and have just placed the new low price of $6 cents on their rhythm sandals. Both are fast displacing the familiar ballet shoes.

Blanche Hats!

Anne! I'm all a-thrill—for at last I found "the matter" that is a marvel! She makes hats that simply change your whole appearance—for the better! They are charmers that throw a distinctive air over the most ordinary ensemble. They give adorable sequancy to young girls, and toss years away from the matron. Blanche herself pulls them to your head with cunning art, for Blanche has had much valuable experience in a very smart Fremont Street shop, and she knows the knack of making hats. Her sizes are most reasonable—only $3.50 for felts, moulded to the head; $8.50 for straw, and she has some darling sample hats which she offers specially at $6.50. Remodeling is priced according to the work required. You'll find Blanche Hats in Rm 807, Dexter Bldg., 453 Washington St.

March Blows in to Evelyn's with the loveliest Spring dresses of the season. Prints that are gay. Prints that are demure. Prints that are so lively and bright they drive away every thing of spring fever. I don't believe I could find better values than I researched the whole town over than the special group of printed ensembles at $8.95, and print dresses in sizes 40 to 46 at the same price. Other frocks priced from $7.95 to $12.95 up, include ensembles of reversible polka dots and tweed. The new Cowl necklines, tiny cap sleeves, and capelets, are the loveliest selection of dancing frocks of crepe, satin, printed net, and flowery chiffon. Chiffon pongees, $1.15; service weight, 99 cents. Evelyn's Dress Shop, 8 Winter St.

When All the World

looks blue to you, and even your favorite hat fails to make you pretty—get a Kompler facial at Gilchrist's. You've no idea how lovely and youthful your skin will become in just one little hour. It chases away every trace of line; cleanses every pore, tightens sagging muscles, and puts a dewy, perfect color in your cheeks. Gilchrist's Beauty Parlor offers a special price of $1.50 on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. Their regular price is $2. They are giving the same facial to palm treatments, too, which are wonderful for dry scalps, and put your hair in perfect condition for a permanent. They also apply Inecto Notox hairdye, or sell it for home use. Gilchrist's Beauty Parlor, 3rd floor, Lib. 9700.

And Now, Goodnight

my Anne—for I've had a dreadfully busy week, but oh! how I've enjoyed it. I've even tapped—or shall I say—stubbed—a step or two myself, and it's the best fun! I've had my fortune told at the tea shops, and have been perfectly thrilled at the future they've promised. And now 'tis almost Lent, and we must be serious, and think about Easter bonnets and frocks, so I'll write you again next week—and until then—

Devotedly yours,
Priscilla

MARION DAVIES

She spilled the beans—

She let the cat out of the bag—

She said the wrong thing at the wrong time—

A RIOT OF FUN FROM START TO FINISH!

POOR "Dulcy" meant well, but every time she opened her mouth she put her foot in it! Never such a gal for blundering! Her house party will hand you the biggest laugh you've enjoyed in months. It meant so much for her boy friend to put over the big deal, but when she came into the picture his dream of millions vanished. It's a grand, rollicking story and the celebrated director King Vidor has made a prize picture of it. And Marion Davies has never been funnier! Wait till you see them play the new game "Guess Who?" It's the grand slam of the season!

The screamingly funny stage success "Dulcy" by George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly is even funnier now as an ALL TALKING, ALL LAUGHING picture produced by METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER with ELLIOTT NUGENT, RAYMOND HACKETT and a big cast!

Banquet to Lydon

More than 600 persons, including state, civic and military dignitaries, will attend a testimonial banquet which is to be tendered John J. Lydon, soldiers' relief commissioner, tonight at the Elks' Hotel.

FISHERMEN'S SEASCAPES BRING FAME

New York, March 3—Fame has come overnight to two fishermen who have spent the greater part of their lives trapping lobsters off New Harbor, Me.

But the fickle goddess who lifts the humble out of obscurity did not climb out of the lobster pot.

She hopped out of a palette, with the result that four paintings by the Maine fishermen are being viewed by society at the 14th annual exhibition of the Society of Independent Artists in the Grand Central Palace.

The fishermen, Simon H. Blaisdell and Guy H. Thompson, never took a lesson in their lives, according to the story current here. They were induced to take up art by Fred Detwiller, the noted painter, who summers near New Harbor.

Detwiller had a theory that one might find native talent among some of the all-year-round residents. With that thought in mind he approached Blaisdell and Thompson as they returned from a trip one day and suggested the idea.

They went to it, repairing to a nearby sail loft when they began turning out seascapes in their spare time. Then the paintings were entered in the show and there they will hang until March 30, unless some collector pays $300 for one of them.

The $300 was the price put on each painting by the creators themselves. Whether they will get that much or not is problematical.

If they do not sell, Blaisdell and Thompson will have the satisfaction of knowing that they, at least, were up in the money. For their creations are part of the 1200 exhibits of canvasses and carvings that 700 independent artists who, having no use for hoity-toity art galleries have sent them to New York for display from all parts of the world. Among nations represented in the show are Russia, Italy, Germany, Japan, China and the South Sea Islands.

A number of the exhibiors are not artists at all: that is to say, they do not follow painting as a profession. One exhibitor is a policeman, two are newspapermen, another is E. E. Cummins, the very modern poet. Doctors, carpenters, business men and factory workers also have canvasses hung side by side with masters of modern painting.

Among Massachusetts people exhibiting are Glueggold Wilson of Boston, one of the most successful of moderns; Charles Vermoile of Stoughton, Ella B. Smith of Auburndale, Helen C. Stein of East Gloucester, Francis H. Richardson of Ipswich, Pauline H. Morse of Worcester; William H. Littlefield of Boston, Winchester E. Kingsbury of Framingham, Helen Atwood of Athol and others.

"Banned in Boston" Cast Is Completed

There are 16 speaking parts, with Paul C. Munroe, '31, Newton; Fernie M. Moses, '31, Boston and William T. Schafer, '31, West Roxbury, portraying the leading roles.

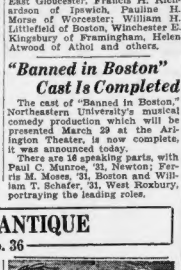
DAILY ANTIQUE

No. 36

While the skilled craftsmen of early American days were building chairs, tables, beds, houses and public buildings whose excellence of design and sturdiness of fabrication were to make them notable, the housewives of the period were not a bit behind in the special crafts which were Lyman K. Eddy, Mrs. Bert Holland, Miss Lucila Chapman, Mrs. Henry S. Adams, Mrs. Charles Dilsby, Mrs. Guy Slade, Mrs. Ingersoll Bowditch, Mrs. George Burley, Mrs. William J. Cooney, Mrs. Ernest Nickerson and several others.

Today we show an interesting bedspread worked in candlewick. The name of the maker, Charlotte Faye, and the date of its making, 1823, are worked into an elaborate design of the quilt. Only a part of the central portion, bearing the main design, is shown in today's picture. The spread is of elaborate design with a beautiful fringe on all four sides, and it is in a perfect state of preservation. The bedcover is owned by C. L. Allen of 11 Jay st., Somerville, whose great grandmother was Charlotte Faye.

The slat-back rocker in Saturday's American shows the further advance upon the Carver type of chair in its arms, which are not turned as were the earlier models. Slat backs were introduced as being more comfortable than the spindle backs of the Carver type, but for a long time, the slat-back chairs preserved the turned arms. The earliest American rocker dates from about 1650. Many existing rockers were originally straight chairs, later cut down and fitted with rockers.



In connection with the Massachusetts Tercentenary Year, the Boston Evening American will publish from day to day interesting specimens of authentic antiques. Readers possessing genuine antiques, particularly articles of Colonial or early American origin or of historic association, are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. In case no photograph is available, the American will send one of its staff cameramen to photograph your antique if you live in Greater Boston. Material should be addressed to "Antique Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston."

Black Chiffon, Ever Good Style, Among Leaders of Mode

THE fabric determines the fashion to a great extent in a season where simplicity is the keynote of the mode. This season, especially, the graceful lines of the frock depend on the fabric for effect. Naturally, the sheer fabrics are awarded first place for formal and informal afternoons and evenings this springtime.

Always smart, black will be a leader for spring, 1930, and sheer chiffons and georgettes are especially lovely in black.

THE frock pictured embodies all of the points mentioned—and more. It is an evening frock of black chiffon, V neck, sleeveless—the upper portion on long princess lines. Two very full circular ruffles set on irregularly below the hips, give swirl and grace of movement.

The demure little cocktail jacket has the lines of an elongated Eton, caught at the waistline, and at neck closing by rhinestone clasps. The long sleeves are finished by circular ruffles, complementing those on the skirt.

The model is wearing black satin slippers, their one strap caught by a small rhinestone buckle and a necklace of baguette crystal.

Lanvin's new collection showed many clever boleros. This celebrated parisian courturier accompanies most of his princess line frocks with short jackets of this type. One graceful chiffon frock is worn with a little jacket of the same fabric entirely shirred. This trend is a natural outgrowth of the popularity of the short jacket with the new silhouette.

THE jacket frock, returning with the spring season, has a few new tricks up its sleeve. For instance, the demure little jacket that accompanies a chiffon frock of the same print adopts the quaint puff sleeve that has so recently become a factor in the mode.

The jacket is doubly important in a season that vacillates between formal and formally informal occasions. A jacket transforms a formal frock into one that can brave the crowded spaces of a restaurant or dancing club with grace. Eton jackets are smartly new.

AFTER seasons of printed material it is pleasantly soothing to find that plain colors are coming into vogue. Not that prints are out of style, but plain fabrics are returning to favor and will prove a charming accent in a wardrobe of printed frocks.

Crayon blue and pinks that recall the vague colorings of Marie Laurencin water colors are important newcomers to the mode. Bois de rose is a pale shade of rose that is slightly grayed. It promises to be an excellent shade for frocks or for accents to the costume.

EVEN fashion insists on balance these days and a ring on one little finger calls for another on the corresponding finger of the other hand. Thus, one wears a black pearl on the left hand and a white pearl on the right hand in settings exactly alike—an amusing conceit that fits in beautifully with the black and white and pastel color schemes of our best frocks.

The favorite rhinestones are not wholly eclipsed in this bit of costume jewelry, however, for they adorn black bracelets in which the big round simulated pearls are set.

Nikolai Orloff Scores in Concert

Nikolai Orloff, Russian pianist, proved in his Jordan Hall concert that his popularity here is steadily on the rise For he assembled an audience that not only was large and enthusiastic, but included many who had heard him earlier in the season.

Orloff is one of that small and distinguished group of newer pianists who take for granted a technical equipment that was considered extraordinary 20 years ago. He is concerned not with virtuoso display for its own sake, nor with insincere or shabby flaunting of his emotions. In a representative program he approached each composition with the utmost sincerity, and had an appropriate style for each.

Schools to Observe Mass. Tercentenary

A nation-wide observance of the Massachusetts Bay Tercentenary by the public schools was recommended in a resolution passed by the National Education Association in annual convention at Atlantic City.

Similar resolutions have been passed by the National Council of State Superintendents and Commissioners of Education and by the New England Association of School Superintendents.

TENOR HEARD BY CORDIAL AUDIENCE

By MOSES SMITH

Richard Crooks, who sang before a large audience at Symphony Hall yesterday, has made remarkable strides in less than a decade that he has been prominently before the public. He is now not only one of the leading tenors of America but a personage with many a genuine European success behind him.

Crooks sang a very short program of 12 songs, three of which were by Italian composers, three by Russians, another trio by Strauss and a final group in English. All of these were sung in the original language, even, surprisingly, the Russian songs. Aside from this Russian interlude the program offered no great musical interest to atone for its brevity.

Having what we believe is one of the finest voices now to be heard on American concert platforms, Mr. Crooks does not employ his endowment to best advantage. It is true that he has a noble style of legato song; that his singing and interpretations are, in general, musical. And he can interest his audience in the emotional and literary content of the song.

But his art seems primarily studied; it has not the appearance of spontaneity. Moreover, he does not penetrate deeply into the mood and style of the composer. His singing seems an end in itself, rather than a means to artistic protraiture, as it should be. He is not always free from coarseness of tone—and this seems to us unforgivable in the light of his capabilities. His enunciation is good in English; but in Italian and German it is undistinguished. We cannot write at first hand of his Russian.

The audience, however, liked him very much, eliciting a second concert of extra numbers at the end of the program. Rudolph Gruen played the accompaniments and solo pieces.

Clash for Berths on 1930 Red Sox Starts This Week

EVERY FIELD JOB OPEN THIS YEAR

By JOE CASHMAN

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 3—Before the end of the second week of spring training, which starts today, the fight for regular berths on the 1930 Red Sox outfit will be raging full blast.

So far everything has been peaceful and serene, but on Wednesday 35 fielders, each confident of succeeding, will begin battling for seven jobs, and one of the hottest diamond wars ever will be on.

There will be three players after the shortstop post and two after each of the other field positions. And each man will have an equal chance of winning out, there being no regular fielders on the roster today, according to Manager Heinie Wagner.

This is the first time, to our knowledge, that a big league club has come South with all the infield and outfield jobs vacant.

TODT MUST FIGHT

For the first time since joining the Sox back in 1924, Phil Todt will have to overcome opposition to remain on first base. His rival will be one Bill Sweeney, formerly of the Tigers, who played with Toronto last year and was secured in the draft.

The newcomer is quite a performer from all accounts. He hit .320 and fielded .989 for the Leafs, which is playing ball in any league. Furthermore, he is said to be really smart and to be almost as fast as Rothrock.

Todt has no superior as a fielder, but he doesn't hit as a major league first baseman should. Unless the fear of losing his job causes his stickwork to improve, he is bound to have his troubles beating out Sweeney.

Bill Regan, who has overcome all opposition for the second base job since 1925, will have to do some tall stepping to keep Otis Miller from ousting him.

MILLER HAS ABILITY

Miller, once with the Browns, hit .247 and fielded .972 while holding down the keystone sack for Milwaukee in 1929.

If the newcomer is able to do nearly well with the Sox, Regan will have to improve greatly to take a seat on the bench. Hal Rhyne, the best of the Sox substitutes last season, must contend with Bill Narleski and Carl Vachuli, the latter a find of Scout Pat Monahan, who sent Ed Morris to the Hub.

Rhyne providing his right thumb with bothered him considerably last summer is O. K., ought to retain his job but there is nothing certain about it.

Bobby Reeves looks like a good bet to stay on third, too, but those who have seen Ernest Holman, who was purchased from Shreveport, also declare that he stands a good chance of capturing the hot corner berth.

The outfield competition bids fair to be even stiffer than the infield. Each of last year's regulars, Scarritt, Rothrock and Barrett, must vie with a mighty classy youngster.

SCARRITT HAS RIVAL

Scarritt's rival will be Tom Oliver from Little Rock. For years, several big league clubs tried in vain to purchase him but the price demanded was always too great and the Athletics finally grabbed him in the draft last fall.

Connie Mack then decided that he had enough of fly chasers and asked waivers on him. Quinn refused to waive and secured him for $4000. He had previously offered $10,000 for him.

He is a right handed batter who hit .328 last season and is reported to be one of the finest fielders and throwers developed in the minors in several years.

Rothrock must beat out Joe Cicero for the center field post. The Coast flash looked good enough last year to be a regular on any major ball club, but did Cicero in the few games he played for the Sox.

Barrett's foe will be John Wenzel, a 21-year-old giant purchased from Mobile. He hit .346 last season and critics say he is a natural slugger. Little is known of his fielding ability. On that will hinge his chances of becoming a regular.

The Sabbath rest put the batterymen in fine shape to resume practice today and Wagner plans to work out all 23 pitchers in batting practice. That means that the session will be the longest yet.

However, if the weather doesn't warm up a bit, he will have to change his plans. It was close to freezing yesterday, and isn't much warmer this morning.

Sad Sammy Mandell Off for Miami

Chicago, March 3 (INS)—Nursing his bruised body and face, light-weight champion Sammy Mandell today prepared to leave for Miami, Fla., where he plans to rest up from the rigors of his bout with Jimmy McLarnin here Saturday night.

MR. BOSTON
—by—
JACK CONWAY

Jack Conway

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 3—Dan Carrol was seated outside of a cabana, near the Roney Plaza, when Mr. Boston saw him.

Dan displayed a fine sunburn and looked rather cheerful.

"Most of the gang started for Boston on the Eddie Mack special, Saturday night, and I feel rather lonesome," sighed Carroll. "Jim Maloney and Jere Gardner were in the Mack party. I was offered matches for Maloney in Jacksonville and in Georgia, but Shamus was anxious to get back home."

"When are you sailing?" asked Mr. Boston.

"I'm lonesome, but I don't want to go home," declared Dan. "I'm going to stay around here for few days and see the sights with the missus. Then we're going to make a trip to Havana and return to Boston by boat.

"I have got to be back in Boston by March 17 as my brother, Edward, is going to lead the Evacuation Day parade in South Boston. My son, Edward, is also going to be in the line of march Words and Cuos are great spotwhen it is zero weather in Boston, but there is no place in the world like South Boston on Evacuation Day. It's the spirit of St. Patrick's Day which gives a real kick to the event."

Mr. Boston asked Dan how he liked his cabana.

"Don't mention anything about a cabana in your column," he pleaded. "You boys over at L st. don't know that a cabana is merely a fancy bath house which they soak you a million dollars to use.

"I WAS talking with Paddy Smith of Boston over at Deauville," went on Mr. Boston, "and he told me that they have cabanas which bring $1000 for the season. And they have to turn away cash customers merely because they haven't got enough cabanas."

"I THINK I shall buy myself a flock of cabanas and sell them," said Dan. "It must be a better racket than managing box fighters."

"They say," declared Mr. Boston innocently, "that the cabanas are stocked with more wet goods than the locker rooms of the various golf clubs."

"I suppose," chirped Carroll, "that there are folks who like a stimulant after they have been splashing around with sharks and barracudas."

"A barracuda is a tough hombre," went on Mr. Boston. "They call them the tigers of the sea and they are supposed to be able to knock over a shark in a second."

"Have it your own way," said Dan. "I'm not interested in fish except to eat it now and then.

"THE fight crowd is well on its way home," said Mr. Boston.

"In another week they will mostly all be gone. Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager, will leave here next Sunday, while the American champion will hit the trail for Chestnut Hill by the middle of the month."

"When do you kick off?" asked Carroll.

"I have my tickets for a Thursday train. I'm lonesome for some New England slush and the sound of the night wind whistling across Boston Common."

"YEAH!" sighed Carroll. "But I'd much rather stay right here in front of my cabana and watch the kids digging in the sand."

The sun beat down on the white sand and caused Mr. Boston and Dan to blink their eyes.

"If Robinson Crusoe was tossed up on an island like this life could not have been so bad," said Carroll.

"But they say he didn't have any entertainment on the island where Robinson Crusoe was shipwrecked."

"Which doesn't concern me in the least," declared Dan as he rested his head on a bath towel, closed his eyes and permitted old Sol to give him a gentle massage.

New Bedford Wins

Bridgeport, Ct., March 3—The New Bedford soccer team defeated Bridgeport, 5 to 1, in an Atlantic Coast League game here. The Whalers led at half time, 3 to 1.

YOUNG BATTERYMEN AFTER PLACE WITH BOSTON HOSE

Fred Bradley — Frank Milliken

Bradley and Milliken, who is a former Twi Leaguer, are with the Red Sox squad which is training at Pensacola, Fla. These men are in good shape now. They will fight hard for regular jobs with the Hub Hose.

Braves Play Tigers in St. Pete Sunday

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 3—Sunday was the final day of rest that the big squad of the Braves will be able to enjoy upon this spring trip. Sunday baseball is now permitted in St. Petersburg, and the Tribe will be active on every Sunday from now on as games are booked with Detroit, the Yankees and Athletics for the next three Sundays that will be spent in Florida.

The first exhibition contest of the spring schedule will be played here in St. Pete next Saturday. This means that the team has but five days in which to prepare for some strenuous competition. The batterymen are all in good shape and should have no difficulty in giving a good account of themselves.

WORKOUTS HELP

The two-a-day workouts under the hot St. Pete sun are expected to quickly loosen the muscles of the later comers.

The first Sunday game to be played in St. Petersburg is between the Braves and the Detroit Tigers, which contest is scheduled for next Sunday.

Sunday was a raw day. The sun was not greatly in evidence and a brisk breeze blew in from the Gulf of Mexico. It was just as well that it was a day of rest, for a workout would have been held with difficulty.

A large part of the squad arose early for fishing trip in the gulf. The water being extremely rough, many were seasick and returned to the West Coast Inn empty handed.

DUNLAP COMFORTABLE

Bill Dunlap, operated on for appendicitis last evening, was resting comfortably today, and it is expected that his recovery will be rapid.

Red Rollings, who expects to hold down third base for the Braves this year, arrived late this evening. Red looks to be in great shape, having added a few pounds since the days that he did his stuff at Fenway Park.

Robertson, ex-Yankee, is still among the missing, with no reason given for his absence.

70 REPORT AT HARVARD

Coach Mitchell of Harvard baseball expects to have 70 candidates for his varsity outfit when the infielders and outfielders report today to join the battery candidates.

Some of the candidates for the inner and outer gardens have appeared at the Briggs baseball cage and have gotten in good practice sessions.

Prominent among early birds were: Capt. Frank Nugent, shortstop Eddie McGrath, second base; Howard Huntable, third base; John Carver, third base; Mark Donaldson, first base; Reggie Fincke, first base; Emil and Roland Dearoches, infielders; Benjamin Bassett, outfielder, and Ben Ticknor, outfielder.

These men reported last Monday and have been practicing between the varsity and freshman battery workouts.

Tilden Wins Net Title at Monte Carlo

Monte Carlo, March 3 (AP)—Big Bill Tilden won the Monte Carlo singles tennis championship easily today, defeating Henry W. Austin of Great Britain, 6—4, 6—4, 6—1.

The American star who eliminated the Italian ace Baron H. L. De Morpurgo in the semifinals of the Butler trophy tournament yesterday had little difficulty with Austin. His play was varied and completely baffled the British player, who was unable to win any of Tilden's serves.

A terrific wind marred the exhibition somewhat. Tilden's fierce drives were not affected, but Austin's gentler returns were blown many feet out of line.

B.C. RELAY TEAM RUNS TONIGHT

Boston College will be represented by a varsity 2400-yard relay team and a freshman medley team in the Manhattan College games in New York city tonight at the 102d Engineers' Armory.

The varsity 2400-yard outfit, each man doing 600 yards, will be Brendon Moynahan, Jack O'Brien, Bob Sullivan and Capt. Bill Mulcahy. Moynahan and O'Brien ran at the intercollegiates as members of the B. C. two-mile team and lingered over in Gotham for tonight's event.

FRESHMEN RUN

The freshman medley team will be Flavio Toel for the 220, John King for the 440, Bob Jordan for the 660 and Donald Fleet for the anchor half-mile.

The 2400-yard world's record is held by a Boston College team composed of Luke McCloskey, Phil Dillon, Babe Daley and Bill McKillop. The Eagle team won't come within 10 seconds of the time set up by that old Eagle outfit, but is expected to win the race against Holy Cross, Penn and Princeton.

Jack Ryder's team will return home after this evening's meet. The Eagles then start training for the final indoor meet of the season, the K. of C. games in New York a week from Wednesday night.

FAIL TO WIN HONORS

It seems that another year will slip into the records without Boston College listed for any of the honors. B. C. was counting on a two-mile victory at the intercollegiates, but the quartet could do no better than fourth.

Bates, with Viles and Chapman two of the best half-milers in collegiate circles, was entirely too strong for the Eagles. However the B. C. four of Moynahan, O'Brien, Meagher and Daley will go on record as being one of the best in B. C. history despite the fact that they haven't had any notable wins.

Bethlehem in Cup Play With Fall River

The Fall River and Bethlehem Steel soccer elevens will contest the Eastern finals of the national cup by virtue of their victories over Pawtucket and Brooklyn, respectively, in the semifinals.

Bethlehem shut out Brooklyn, 2 to 0, at Hawthorne Park, Brooklyn, and Fall River defeated the Pawtucket eleven at Tiverton, 5 to 2, exactly the same score that marked its victory over New Bedford in the previous round.

Full Baseball Squad Out at B.U. Tomorrow

THE second week of practice for Boston University's battery candidates will get under way in the St. Botolph st. gym this afternoon, and the infielders and outfielders will be called out tomorrow.

Joe Gilmore, the new Terrier diamond coach, is making things hum in the daily workouts and by the time the men get outdoors at Riverside, they should all be in perfect condition and ready to get down to hard work without a day's delay.

Gilmore is not wrong for indoor workouts as a means of getting the arms in shape, but he is a firm believer in the value of gym work, and he is sending the squad of 30 batterymen through a long program of calisthenics, medicine ball, and handball play followed by a half hour of limbering up with the baseball each afternoon.

The manner in which all of the men fall to and go through these long conditioning drills without a murmur indicates that the Terrier ball tossers are intent upon coming into their own and putting a winning team on the diamond this season and are willing to go to any ends in an effort to gain the desired results.

BATTEYMEN WORK OUT

For the past week the batterymen have been going through their paces and are beginning to round into pretty good shape. None of the twirlers has been allowed to bear down at all and not a single curve ball has been thrown as yet, although many of the pitchers are anxious to see just what they can do in this line.

About 20 pitchers and a dozen catchers are in the present squad of batterymen and this number will continue to work out for another week. At the first of next week, Gilmore will make his first cut and bring the pitchers down to 10 in number and the catchers down to five.

The Terrier coach is giving all of the new men a longer time than usual before making any cuts in order that everyone will get a good chance to display his wares and to prevent the overlooking of any possible bet for hurling or receiving duties.

VETERANS LEAD

The leading pitchers to date have been Lokjo, Wesfer, Murphy and Church, all of last year's varsity squad; Corson, of the 1929 frosh; Bowers, Tarr, Nesson, Russell, Plotkin and Miller. The best looking catchers are: Pickard, varsity receiver for three years; Jukins, Bass, Pengree, Howard and Howe.

Although the veteran trio of Lokjo, Wesfer and Murphy are depended upon to bear the brunt of the mound work this spring, Corson, of the freshmen; Bowers, of the 1927 varsity, and Tarr, varsity trackman who is making his first attempt at B. U. baseball, are all good looking prospects with a chance of breaking into the select circle of first string hurlers.

CARNERA MEETS CLARK TONIGHT

New York, March 3 (AP)—Boxing hits the doldrums this week without anything to get excited about except Primo Carnera's eighth appearance in an American ring.

The Italian giant, none of whose bouts have gone more than two rounds, meets Roy (Ace) Clark, colored heavyweight, in the feature 10-rounder at the weekly show at Philadelphia tomorrow night.

Clark stands six feet, seven and one-half inches in his stocking feet and weighs 235 pounds. Carnera will have an advantage of about one inch in height and 40 pounds in weight. Five six-rounders will support the card.

Carnera was scheduled to box at Tulsa Friday night but this bout was cancelled because no suitable opponent could be found.

Carnera to Fight in St. Louis March 17

St. Louis, March 3 (INS)—Contrary to the old adage lightning never strikes twice in the same place, Primo Carnera, the great big Italian Alp, has agreed to make another appearance in St. Louis, it was learned today.

Carnera, the carniverous, has tentatively accepted an invitation to fight here March 17, Promoter Mique Molloy, who staged the brief Carnera-Buster Martin affair here recently, revealed. Molloy said that he is trying to line up Chuck Wiggins, the rough-tough Indianapolis heavyweight, as Carnera's foe.

By BILL GRIMES

LIONEL HITCHMAN, Bruins defense star and leading defense player in the National Hockey League, will be out of the Bruins lineup until the playoff for the world's championship.

In the game with Ottawa Saturday night, Hitchman, who was in his regular position, was hit by the puck on the left side of the face when Eddie Shore lifted the rubber out of scrimmage. Hitchman was stunned by the blow and remained in the game Saturday night, but ealiy today he found out that his jaw had been fractured.

X-ray plates showed that "Hitch" had a severe fracture.

Manager Art Ross regrets the loss of Hitchman at this time. The Bruins defense star will not be seen in competition until the playoff series, although he will keep in condition by skating.

George Owen will go back to defense with Eddie Shore in the absence of Hitchman in the game tomorrow night with the Canadiens. Hitchman's injury will greatly handicap the Bruins, as he and Shore formed a stonewall against the opposition.

With the Bruins pitted against Les Canadiens tomorrow night, and Harvard and Yale clashing in the second game of their annual series next Saturday evening, this will be a banner week for the hockey fans.

Although the Bruins have for weeks been assured of finishing in first place, they continue to win and in spite of the recent fine showing of the Flying Frenchmen, the local pride will be favorites to win their tenth consecutive game.

Few clubs in the N. H. L. are playing a better brand of hockey than the Ottawa Senators but the Bruins took Manager Dave Gill's charges into camp after one of the most stubbornly fought games of the season. The Ottawa game was just further proof of the power of the Bruins, who, although they trailed for almost two periods refused to crack, even against the "Kitty-Bar-the-Door" type of hockey offered.

Les Canadiens have always been the biggest attraction in hockey around these parts and as they are fighting for the championship for first place in the International division, they will be even more thrilling than usual tomorrow night.

All reserve seats for Les Canadiens' game have been sold. In fact, it is a few days since the Bruins' office has had a ticket for this contest.

As usual, the rush seats and standing room tickets will not be placed on sale until 7:30 tomorrow night.

HARVARD-YALE WAR

Another capacity house will be at the Garden next Saturday night when Harvard and Yale meet. The Crimson furnished the greatest upset of the season by defeating the Elis last Saturday in New Haven. Until the Harvard game, Yale had won 16 consecutive games and had not suffered defeat since it fell before the Crimson a year ago.

Harvard came fast during the past fortnight, but the weekend the Yale game as the underdog, which made the victory all the more surprising. It all college hockey teams in the history of the game, but they were outmarked by the Crimson, which played for and took advantage of the breaks.

The Tigers, now comfortably seated in second place, have two games listed for this week. They will journey to Providence on Wednesday and tackle Manager Sprague Cleghorn's Rhode Island Reds, and the following night will oppose the New Haven Eagles at the Garden. The Canadian-American Hockey League champions have been playing fine hockey of late and winning with more consistency than has marked their play at any time this season.

The University Club will swing back into action against the Kentville, N. S., club on Wednesday and Friday at the Arena. Kentville and Truro for the championship of the Eastern provinces and are expected to take the measure of the Cards.

N.E. Title Amateur Wars Open This Afternoon at Arena

ALL TRIALS WILL BE PUT ON TODAY

AMATEUR ringmen of New England start off this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Boston Arena on their two-day stretch of N. E. title fights. Eight of the boys will be crowned kings of their respective divisions some time late tomorrow evening.

With 148 entries in the eight championship classes, indications are that one of the best tournaments ever attempted in this city will be put on.

Late entrants have swelled the list of competitors in the various classes to such a size that there will be more than 10 hours of boxing today in the trial bouts in the various divisions. It is the plan of the committee to stage nothing but semifinals and finals on the second night of the tournament.

AL DEAN ENTERS

Al Dean, Medford heavyweight, regarded as the outstanding amateur giant of the ring, was one of the last boxers to enter and his presence in this division indicates that all other hopefuls will have their work cut out for them. It was at first feared that Dean would be unable to compete.

Jimmy McGrath, state 126-pound champion, was another late entrant in the tournament, while Mickey Williams, Milford; Walter Rocheville, Medford; Pat McStay, Newton and Johnny Conley, South Boston, were others who flopped under the wire in the nick of time.

Present plans call for 140 bouts for the tournament, and if the committee adheres to its plans to confine the second night's fighting to semi-finals and finals, it will mean that a schedule of 116 bouts will take place tonight, one of the longest programs ever attempted here.

For this reason is the early start. However, it is probable that a few of the entrants will fall by the wayside at the weighing-in ceremonies, which occur at 2 p. m. today at the Boston Arena.

FOURNEY DRAWS FANS

And while the record breaking entry list indicates one of the finest tournaments possible, a new attendance record may be set up for the event, for it is expected that the Arena will be filled to capacity on both nights of the show. The ice has been removed from the Arena surface to add to the comfort of the fans.

It is certain that eight new champions will be crowned in this tournament, for not one of last year's title holders will be on hand to defend their championships. Most of last year's winners have turned pro and already have punched their way into popularity. The only 1929 champion is Link Malouf of Framingham, holder of the 160-pound crown. The Framingham boy, however, has outgrown this class and will make a bid for the 175-pound crown instead. Malouf was one of the outstanding figures in last year's tournament.

Terriers Play Holy Cross Court Team

Boston University's varsity basketball quintet will wind up its season at the St. Botolph st. gym against Holy Cross, Saturday night, and at the same time strive to keep its undefeated record on the home floor unsmirched.

The Terriers have managed to break even in games won and lost this winter, in which time Coach Win Karlson's charges have shown both brilliant and ragged basketball. In meeting Holy Cross, B. U. must play its best game of the winter in order to keep apace of the visitors, because the Crusaders are bringing a fast team to Boston.

The playing of the game on the Terriers' home floor is a factor that should weigh heavily in the Boston team's favor and if not resulting in a victory for the local fiv. should certainly make for a close clash.

GOOD ON HOME FLOOR

Coach Karlson's team has turned back and upset several invaders in the St. Botolph st. gym this season and, needless to say, it would be quite a feather in the B. U. mentor's cap if his quintet stopped the lowerful Crusaders.

Saturday's contest will be the second meeting of the season between these two teams and should result in even a closer and more thrilling battle than the first clash in Worcester, which saw Holy Cross come out on top by a nine-point margin.

This impending tilt with the Crusaders is the only game of the week on the Terrier schedule and Karlson will have plenty of time in drilling his men for the approaching battle. The B. U. coach will rely on his regular lineup of Marino and Berry, forwards; Nima, center; Tripp and Stearn, guards.

FOLISH UP OFFENSE

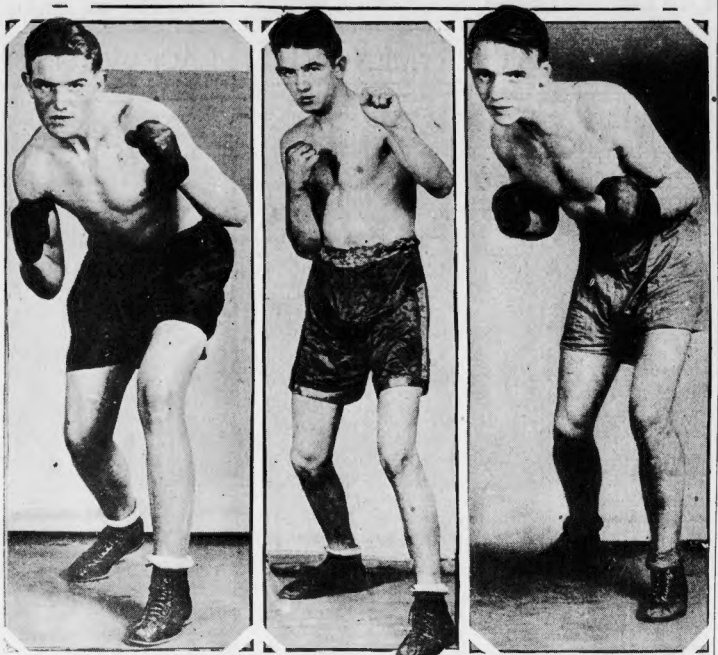
Much of the time in practice sessions will be devoted to polishing up the offense and sharpening the eye of the boys for the basket. Bernie Nims and Bob Berry are the high scorers on the B. U. quintet and have been largely responsible for whatever success the Terriers have enjoyed this winter, but these two boys cannot be expected to do all the scoring Saturday as they are to be closely watched.

In the first clash between these same teams, Holy Cross kept two men guarding Berry all night and he was able to score but a single basket from the floor.

If the Crusaders employ such methods again Saturday they may receive a surprise because by the time of the game, Karlson expects to develop a varied attack which will give the other men on the team scoring opportunities and at the same time give the Holy Cross defence more to think about.

Santo Marino, Berry's running mate at forward, is a smart basketball player who, although always on the job and a great feeder, hasn't done much scoring this winter and may turn out to be the hero Saturday night.

ON EDGE FOR BELL WHICH STARTS TITLE FRAYS



Paul McNamara George Ostrow Pat Flood

Among the 148 entries in the New England amateur boxing championships at the Arena tonight and tomorrow night are many local boys of talent. Paul McNamara of Allston is seeking the heavyweight title; George Ostrow, Revere boy, fights in the 112-pound class, while Pat Flood of South Boston is after the 126-pound crown.

BIG HUB MEET ON THIS WEEK

Boston schoolboy track men battle this week in the final big meet of the season, the Regimental games. The trials in the running events of this meet are held Wednesday, and the finals are scheduled for Saturday, at the East Armory.

This season has been one of the best in the history of track in Boston schools. While there were few record-breaking performers in action, the competition was close all year.

English high and Leo Daley deserves a lot of credit for the victory in Class A of the State track meet. With Medford, Malden and many other big school teams competing, few figured that English had a chance to come through.

It seemed strange to many fans at the State meet that Dudley Miller, Medford high runner, should be out in the relay race. Miller, a fine runner, had competed in two heats of the 300 earlier in the afternoon, and just before the relay race he was stretched out on the floor of the Armory and looked sick.

When he came to the line for the start of the relay race Miller's face was drawn and haggard. He ran courageously in the opening leg of the race, but could not show his best speed. It is fortunate that Miller was not a very sick young man after the relay. Running a mere boy when he is as tired as Miller was is dangerous, to say the least.

Brockton high court team comes to Medford tomorrow afternoon for the second meeting of the year between the schools

Passing the Puck

—By BILL GRIMES—

LES CANADIENS are due in town late today for their game with the Bruins tomorrow night. The Flying Frenchmen stayed over in Pittsburgh and will be well rested for this all-important contest.

As Howie Morenz failed to score against the Pirates, he will be even more dangerous tomorrow evening. According to reports, the great Canadiens' center is playing the best hockey of his long career, and is expected to be another standout in the coming playoffs.

The two stitches that Cooney Weiland needed to close up the cut made when he crashed into the base of the goal nets in the Ottawa game will take his mind off his sore throat.

Dutch Gainor looked very good after his week's layoff. He had regained some of his oldtime speed and had considerable to do with the winning tally which Cooney Weiland scored against Ottawa.

It now looks as though the Tigers are safely in the playoffs of the Can-Am League, in which case a number of bonuses must be handed out. After the "Great Divide" from the proceeds of last year's playoffs, which brought the Tigers their first championship, the boys demanded bonuses if the club finished one-two-three, thereby insuring themselves of at least living expenses during the playoffs.

Henry Johnson of Waban, will probably be elected captain of next year's Dartmouth hockey team. Hank has been on the defense for two years and is deserving of the honor.

Bill Reagan, who was sold to the Rangers for $15,000, has seen little service since he joined the New York club. Every high priced player acquired by Col. Hammond is immediately discarded by Lester Patrick.

Newsy Lalonde, who has been coaching the Ottawa Senators this season, developed heart trouble last week during a practise session and was ordered to take a complete rest.

President C. F. Adams of the Bruins has pneumonia. He was stricken last week but his condition has improved noticeably since Saturday.

Although there is ample excuse for hockey players losing their heads during the heat of battle, there is nothing more ridiculous than to see a referee racing around waving his arms and rising his blood pressure while penalising players.

What have officials to get excited over? Nothing, except the fear that somebody will discover their lack of ability in a crisis.

Harwood Ellis, the Harvard goalie, deserves great credit for his gameness. A month ago, Ellis was far below the usual standard of Crimson goal minders that the predictions were that Yale would fill the net with pucks. However, Ellis worked like a Trojan and the sharpshooting Elis beat him for only two goals.

Mickie MacKay sat in on the Ottawa game after spending three days in a hospital, where he had all of his upper teeth removed.

In fairness to opponents, a rule should be established that any club playing the Bruins be allowed to use a couple of goal tenders. It's an even bet that Cooney Weiland and Dit Clapper would beat this two man system.

Stiff Workout for Jumbos in Cage Today

Coach Ken Nash will send his batterymen and fielders through infielding practice, as well as the general loosening up process, this afternoon in the cage.

In the last practice the pitchers and infielders were put through a strenuous session picking up ground balls and making putouts. Nash thinks that this is a great conditioner and will have the pitching staff work out daily on picking the slow rollers.

The hurlers are gradually working the stiffness out of their throwing arms and are beginning to bear down, several of the men already throwing a few curves.

With a few days more to strengthen the pitchers' arms Nash is hoping to start hitting practice for the men who are getting in a little preliminary work prior to the scheduled date when the outfielders will report.

The Jumbos were noticeably weak at bat last season, only two players hitting above .300 and the leader is taking no chances of a recurrence of the weak offensive punch which lost so many one-run games for the Medford college last year.

With three or four strong lefthand hitters from last year's freshmen due to take regular positions this year it appears that the Tufts batting punch will be greatly improved.

Among the new players whom Nash is expecting to bolster this year's batting punch are Ed McCarthy, a first sacker and a former Malden Twi player who led the Jumbo Cubs with a .400 average last season.

Jack Fine, basketball star, first baseman and outfielder, from New York, who was one of the leading schoolboy stars in the state, is ready.

Others are Bob Verge, former Boston Latin player; Duke Miller from Kingston, N. Y.; Frank Lupien of Manchester, Ct.; Hornig, a former Attleboro star, and Zepolski, a former Lynn player.

Another Vance for Dodgers

Chicago (P)—Brooklyn has another Vance on its roster. He is Outfielder Joseph Vance, a rookie. He is not related to the great Dazzy.

HURLER POLLI BIG NOISE IN YANK CAMP

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 3 (AP)—The first week of training for the New York Yankees has developed one important fact—the club made no mistake when it secured Americus Polli, right-handed pitcher, from the St. Paul club of the American Association.

Polli has made a great impression on Manager Bob Shawkey and seems certain to negotiate the major league grade. He is 26 years old, has a good fast ball, a good curve and a baffling change of pace.

Clearwater, Fla., March 3 (AP)—Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn Robins, is enjoying a new experience. He has so much good material for several positions that he hasn't yet decided what to do with it all.

Especially around second base and shortstop is Robby embarrassed by too many candidates. Glenn Wright, Gordon Slade and Jack Warner all are avowed candidates for shortstop, and Jake Flowers, Mickey Finn and Eddie Moore would like to play second base. Wright, of course, has the inside track for shortstop provided his arm holds up. Flowers is setting the pace for the second baseman.

San Antonio, Tex., March 3 (AP)—Eddie Roush, veteran outfielder, finally has opened negotiations with the New York Giants in an effort to iron out a salary dispute. The chances are that Roush will be signed within a few days, club officials say.

Making up for time lost because of recent rains, the Giants went through a long workout yesterday. The big surprise of the day was the assignment of Mel Ott, clouting outfielder, to second base. Ott played second for 24 days in spring training last year, but was in the outfield all through the regular season.

Play Texas Leaguers

The Baltimore Orioles, to train at Waco, Tex., will play 21 exhibition games, 11 of them with Texas leaguers.

ANGRY BETTORS SET FIRE

Marseilles, France, March 3 (AP)—One man was killed and many were arrested at the race track here today when bettors, angry over the disqualification of the horse that won the sixth race, set fire to the pari-mutuel booths and destroyed and sacked the paddock, the grandstands and the bars.

Police reserves and firemen were called out, but did not get the fire under control until the principal buildings and stables had been destroyed.

Saltpetre, winner of the sixth race, was disqualified for interference.

McCoy to Trust to Flying Tackle in Match With Lewis

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

HEAVY MAT STARS TILT THURSDAY

WHEN Bob McCoy, Cambridge wrestler and former Holy Cross football player, finds himself in front of Strangler Lewis, the ex-world's champion, at the Boston Arena next Thursday night, the chances are that he will attempt to bowl over his man in much the same manner as Sonnenberg has done on several occasions.

Every indication points to such an attempt, for Bibber, in his daily workouts, is giving more attention to the flying tackle than ever before, speeding up this form of attack and perfecting it in every way possible.

MAY HAVE DEFENSE

The point arises, however, if Lewis, who has plenty of thinking material aboard his craft, hasn't by this time perfected a real defense for this form of attack.

He has been bumped enough times to know what it is—should know how to meet it.

If he has perfected an effective defense, and such should not be difficult for him unless he is all washed up as some are contending, the Cambridge man is likely to find himself in difficulties.

Just what is likely to happen has stirred up a lot of curiosity. Popular opinion is that there will be a terrific battle at the Boston Arena on Thursday night, with one guess as good as another as to the probable outcome

DE GLANE ON CARD

Though a lot of interest centers in this match, it is not the main event on Paul Bowser's card.

The feature will bring together Jack Sherry of Ohio and Henri De Glane, the undefeated French champion, in a best two out of three.

It will be a return melee, and, if their encounter of two weeks ago may be taken as a criterion, it will be a hummer

Their last fray lasted more than two hours, and was one of the most desperate scraps seen here for several seasons

Under these bouts will be the usual all-star card of prelims

58 Laps Stolen in N. Y. Bike Race

New York, March 3 (AP)—Fifty-eight laps were stolen during the first hours of riding of the 48th annual six-day bike race which got under way at Madison Square Garden last night

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
"Golf's Greatest Teacher"

One golfing practice that keeps you distant from the proper relaxation is the neglect on your part to picture yourself as making truly rhythmic, effective swings, whether you can make them just yet or not. One thing is certain You will never make good swings until you first make them in your mind. Many players spend years trying to bring good swings out of their muscles when they have no good swings in the mind, and that cannot be done. It begins in trouble, and leads to never-ending additional difficulties. The daily work develops so quickly watches good players and gets a true mental picture of what to work to do. Then when he swings he gets something of a reaction throughout his muscular system and rapidly becomes proficient His suppleness of muscle helps, but his youth is not absolutely essential, as plenty of players of advanced years who have attained good golf prove Put your golf in order, which means that the mental line is first.

British Want to See Scott Fight Films

London, March 3 (AP)—Declaring that the British public wants to see the complete film of the Sharkey-Scott fight, Wardour Films Limited, who have the exclusive rights for the film in this country, announced today they had taken legal advice and had insisted that every foot of film taken shall be sent over from the united States.

"We realize how great is the desire of the public to see the whole of the fight so that they may judge for themselves whether the fight was fair and the strict rules of boxing observed. They will see the complete picture," said Arthur Bent, managing director.

Lord Lonsdale, head of the British Boxing Board of Control and probably the most popular sporting figure in Great Britain, is a close observer of the controversy around Scott's defeat by Sharkey, but is withholding comment pending further information

HEAVY HITTERS ON B. C. NINE

Coach Hugh Duffy of Boston College will find that he hasn't got a worry concerning his outfield when the garden candidates assemble at the Commonwealth Armory.

The infielders report on Wednesday and the outfielders aren't due until a week from today However, Duffy will probably find his roster nearly complete before the set dates, for the urge to toss the ball around has hit many of the veterans and they're all anxious to make an early showing at the Eagles' training camp

B. C. has two good men for every job in the outfield For left there's Larry Gibson, a regular for three seasons, and Pete Herman, who chases fly balls when not on the mound

JOE SHEA READY

In center Duffy will have Joe Shea of Dorchester and Johnny Temple, right Frank Reagan and Jim Donovan, who also sees service in the outer defense when not on the hill, hold forth.

Last season Duffy's regular outfield to start off the schedule consisted of Larry Gibson, Johnny Temple and Frank Reagan. These three boys played well, hitting for better than .350 and fielding near to perfection.

FAST OUTFIELD

Larry Gibson was shifted to right when Duffy was forced to rearrange his outfield. Pete Herman went to left and Joe Shea took over the center pasture.

This outfield proved almost as classy as the one that was demolished by the injuries to Temple and Reagan. Herman took his turn at the top of the college batting list by his heavy hitting and was within the first 25 at the finish.

Babe Herman Is Out of Danger

Buenos Aires, March 3 (INS)—Babe Herman, American middle weight veteran, was said to be out of danger today following his knockout in a bout with Justo Suarez, Argentine champion, Saturday night.

When the Babe failed to respond to his handlers efforts to revive him following the knockout, it was believed he had fractured his skull in falling and he was rushed to a hospital. There he remained unconscious for many hours.

Brown Eleven to Play Lehigh in '31

Providence, March 3—Brown and Lehigh have renewed football relations, and a game is scheduled between them in this city October 24, 1931, according to the announcement made by Dr. Fred W. Marvel, director of Brown athletics.

It is the fourth game already booked for the Bruins two seasons hence, others having been announced with Princeton, Holy Cross and Columbia. Brown last played Lehigh in 1926

English Boxer Has Fared Well in Boston

Izzy Hyman of England is looking for trouble in the ring. He has won five out of six bouts He recent knockout of Tom Smoot in four rounds has most of the boys thinking twice before they will enter the ring with the British battler. Tony Vattlan is training the British boxer.

Fittons Defeat Millville Five

Millville, March 3—The Fitton A. C. of East Boston trounced Millville Town team here, 37 to 19

The visitors led all the way and opened up a margin of 18 to 9 at the half. Millville was outclassed after the first 10 minutes of play. Henry Kiley led the scoring with 14 points.

Play Big Contest in Baltimore

BROCKTON RING STARS FIGHT

Harry Allen of Brockton will be out to erase the only serious smirch against his record when he clashes with his fellow townsman, Joe Monte, one week from tonight, in a 10-round bout at the Boston Arena

Several weeks ago this pair met at the St. Botolph st. auditorium, and Monte put the quietus on his opponent with a sudden stiff punch to the point of the jaw.

That knockout came so suddenly that the fans were dumbfounded Allen was fighting well at the time and was hitting Monte, when he got a bit careless, and dropped his hands for a moment.

MADE MISTAKE

It was the biggest mistake Allen ever made, for Monte whipped across a terrific right to the chin and Allen dropped. Allen still maintains it was a lucky punch, while Monte claims he can do it any night in the week

Only two weeks ago, Allen reached his peak when he stiffened Big Boy Rawson, the Dorchester giant, in just 55 seconds of the first round

He followed that up with two decision victories, and right now he is fighting better than ever before since he deserted the amateur ranks.

STARTS WORK

Allen will start training today at Joe Beston's gym in Quincy, and expects to be at his very best when he measures off with his Brockton rival.

Monte, too, will get down to business today at Toland's gym, and will go through a long workout every day of the coming week Right now, Monte is near his fighting weight and will be in great condition the night he faces Allen

Miami Go Pictures On in Hub Theaters

Beginning today the fight films of the Sharkey-Scott recent battle at Miami will be displayed at the Old Howard and Bowdoin Square Theaters. At the Old Howard they will be displayed three times daily, at 3:30, 6 and 9:30 p. m

Jack Sheehan, who saw the contest at the ringside, will tell the story along with the pictures

There is much interest in these films owing to the fact that Scott said he was robbed of victory

Providence Nine Plays 18 Home Games

Providence, March 3—Eighteen of Providence College's 24 baseball games this spring will be played on the Friars' home grounds. The schedule was announced by Graduate Manager John E. Farrell.

Quantico Marines, Coast Guard and Muhlenberg are the only new comers. Yale, Holy Cross, Brown, Boston College and Georgetown are among the Friars' major opponents

John A. Flynn of this city has been re-appointed coach of the team for the sixth year.

Sutton Will Try Comeback Tonight

Chicago, March 3 (AP)—George Butler, Sutton, world 18.2-balkline billiard champion in 1906-7-8, tonight will open his comeback effort in the first block of a 600-point match with Percy N. Collins, Chicago, former national amateur 18.2 titleholder Two blocks of 300 points each will be played, the second one tomorrow night.

Griffith in Hub for Friedman Go on Friday

Tuffy Griffith, Sioux City heavyweight, arrives here today to make his debut in a New England ring in a meeting with Al Friedman in the Boston Garden Friday night

The Westerner's advent in a fistic ring is awaited with more than passing concern

Right now he is considered one of the best in the heavyweight field and his meeting with sturdy Al Friedman will have an important bearing on his future standing Griffith and Friedman are not strangers, having met in Chicago several months ago when Griffith was awarded the decision.

Their contest attracted one of the biggest indoor gates in Chicago and despite heavy pressure brought to bear to have them return there matchmaker Alex MacLean of the Boston Garden slipped in to snatch the match away from the Windy City promoter

Griffith accepted to come here mainly for the purpose of fighting before Boston fans. He still believes that he was a logical man for a Florida match and has every confidence of winning popular favor with New England followers in his contest with Friedman

And if he fails to defeat Friedman, not the easiest fighter he has faced, the opportunities he is after in matches with Jim Maloney, Ernie Schaaf and Jack Sharkey will be lost to him here.

OFFICIALS O. K. PRO ICE RULINGS

SPEAKING at the New England Hockey Officials Association meeting at the YD Club, Manager Art Ross of the Boston Bruins explained the advantages which might be gained by amateur teams adopting pro ice rules

Ross stated he had played, as well as coached teams and watched games under every code. He said the pro code is easier to play, coach and teach and that American players develop more quickly under it than under the amateur code.

He said the object of the game is to score and that the greatest thrill comes to spectator when a score is made.

Under amateur rules, he pointed out, scoring is handicapped in that plays develop behind the puck. Under N. H. L. rules plays develop ahead of and behind the puck, increasing scoring possibilities

Another difference is required to play under pro rules as players have to be taught to get up in front of the puck and also must learn how to receive passes from behind and pass forward," said Ross

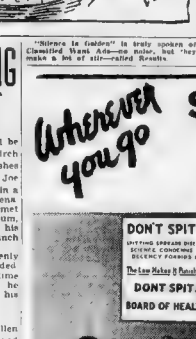
"As far as defense play is concerned, very little difference exists between the codes The main advantages are with the offensive

Under these circumstances, the best teams win 93 per cent of its games. Under amateur rules, the best team does not always win," he contended

Officials and coaches at the meeting went on record unanimously as favoring the professional code

Wherever you go

Spit is a horrid word, but it is worse on the end of your cigar



...the war against Spitting is a crusade of decency...join it. Smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

"It serves him right," we say when the filthy spitter is caught in the act. For spitting is an outrage against public decency. And yet, thousands continue to smoke cigars rolled by dirty, yellowed fingers that tip the ends in spit! For more than half of all cigars made in this country are still made by hand, and therefore subject to the risk of spit!

Certified Cremo protects you against this abomination! Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods developed by the United States Government during the war. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that foil, wrap and tip the cigars without the possibility of spit!

Try a Certified Cremo—see how wonderfully good it is! Made of the choicest, tenderest leaves that the crop affords, we claim Certified Cremo's quality is tastier than that of any other cigar. Don't let its 5c price stand in your way! Your physician has in mind a cigar like Certified Cremo when he recommends a mild smoke in place of heavy brands.

Crush-proof...immaculate...foil-wrapped ...Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar the late Vice-President Marshall undoubtedly was thinking of when he said: "What this country needs is a good 5c cigar!"

STATE POWER TRUSTS UPHELD IN INQUIRY REPORT FILED TODAY

TENDENCY OF PRICES TO THE CONSUMER IS DOWNWARD

report on many phases of the investigation.

The report states that the old independent gas and electric companies have ceased to exist and that eight great systems completely dominate the industry today. It places the Edison Co. first and the New England Power Association second, the rating being based in order of the gross earnings of the companies.

The commission was made up of seven members. Chairman Frank W. Osborne of Lynn was appointed by the president of the Senate; Vice-Chairman Thomas R. Bateman of Winchester, Edward J. Robbins of Chelmsford, and Leo M. Birmingham of Boston were appointed by the speaker of the House; Lewis Parkhurst of Winchester, Mayor Michael J. O'Hara of Worcester, and Arthur M. Huddell of Chelsea were named by the governor.

Representative Birmingham did not join in the report, and is filing a dissent. Representative Bateman, although signing the majority report, has also written a brief dissent on certain points.

The report states that the commission finds that, with a very few exceptions, the old independent gas and electric companies have ceased to exist, that their place has been taken by eight great systems which completely dominate the industry.

These systems supply over 90 per cent of the electricity sold to consumers and 85 per cent of the gas. The remaining independent companies supply only 38 per cent of the electricity and 125 per cent of the gas. The 43 existing municipal plants supply 57 per cent of the electricity and 21 per cent of the gas.

Indeed, the concentration of the industry in a few organizations is even greater than these figures indicate because in many cases the companies which distribute gas and electricity to the consumer in turn buy from one of the systems.

The systems in the order of their gross earnings are as follows:

1—The Edison Electric Illuminating Co. of Boston.

2—New England Power Association.

3—Tenney Properties, a name adopted for convenience to designate the north Boston lighting properties and other companies managed by Charles H. Tenney & Co.

4—The Associated Gas & Electric System.

5—The Eastern Gas & Fuel Associates.

6—The Massachusetts Utilities Associates.

7—Western Massachusetts companies.

8—Stone & Webster Properties, a name adopted for convenience to designate the Eastern Utilities Associates and other companies managed by Stone & Webster, Inc.

WOULD CHECK "ABUSE"

With the exception of the Boston Edison, which is a corporation of the same type as the old independent companies, except for its larger size, all these organizations are voluntary associations managed by trustees, the beneficial interest in which is divided into shares and sold to the public like shares in a corporation.

These associations hold the stock of the operating companies and receive all the dividends which those companies earn. In addition to this source of income most of them also make profits from the operating companies by means of contracts for management, engineering services, purchasing and the like. The commission regards this practice as a very serious abuse.

It says in this connection:

"In all these transactions between the operating company and the holding company or an affiliated organization, the usual elements of a bargain are lacking. Instead of two independent parties, each trying to do as well as it can, there are two parties subject to the same control. In the last resort, those who hold this control can determine the conditions of the agreement. . . . We believe that a method of doing business in which the ultimate decision, both as to what contracts shall be made and what their terms shall be, rests with the same men," is unless checked, certain to lead to undesirable results."

With a view to checking this abuse, the commission recommends certain legislation which would give the department of public utilities power to terminate such contracts covering a period in excess of one year where the price charge was found to be excessive, unless the parties were willing to continue at a price found by the department to be reasonable. To give the department the needed information another bill requires the filing of all long-term contracts as a part of the annual return required of gas and electric companies.

RATES TEND TO BE LOWER

The commission considers the question of rates only in a general way. It says:

"It is clear that the rates to the consumer have had a tendency to become lower. It is not equally clear that such reduction as has taken place is commensurate with either the lowered cost of production resulting from technical improvements, or with the gain resulting from the increasing volume of business."

In discussing the rate base, it expresses the view that the long established Massachusetts method of regulation should be continued if possible. This method fixed the rate base upon which a fair return is allowed largely on the actual cash investment.

In discussing municipal ownership, the commission expresses no preference as between public and private operation. It finds, however, that the existing municipal plants have been of great value in keeping the possibility of public ownership in the minds of those responsible for the industry, and that this fact may operate as a very desirable check on abuse.

It feels that in any case where a municipality is dissatisfied with private operation, its entrance into the business should be facilitated as much as possible, but that at the same time, fair compensation should be paid for the property of the private company which was taken over.

There are recommended also several other minor changes in the law. No general revision is regarded by the commission as desirable. It expresses itself as completely in accord with the present policy of allowing the greatest possible freedom to private enterprise and initiative consistent with protection of the public interest and suggests only such changes as will make the existing laws more effective without changing their essential principles.

Direct regulation of holding companies is not recommended. The commission says:

"We do not believe that the time has come when direct regulation of holding companies is necessary. The operating company remains, in our opinion, the proper unit to be regulated. There is no danger inherent in the holding company structure if rates to the consumer are reasonable and the earnings of the operating company fair. The department should, however, be given power to gain all information which seems desirable from holding companies and affiliated organizations, and we recommend legislation to that end."

The commission expresses its opposition to any legislation designed either to break up the existing systems or to restrict future consolidations, saying:

"The method of conducting gas and electric business through isolated companies has ceased to exist not only in this Commonwealth, but generally throughout the United States. The chance is not an unmixed benefit but it would have been difficult to prevent this development, although it might, to some extent, have been guided by public authority. To undo by legislation what has already been done is a still more difficult matter, and any attempt is likely to lead to both inconvenience and injustice."

The commission see danger in the increase of foreign control of the industry. It does not, however recommend and legislation toward preserving such control.

The commission also takes up the matter of the control of newspapers by utility interests, as it was directed to do by the legislative resolve. It dismisses the matter with the statement that it finds no evidence of any such interest at the present time. The commission finds that the International Paper Co., which formerly held a fair interest in the Boston Herald and the Boston Traveler, no longer retains any such interest directly or indirectly, and declares:

"We unequivocally condemn any ownership of newspapers by gas and electric interests, but we do not consider any legislation on the subject necessary."

Brattleboro Quarry Produces Largest Block of Granite

Brattleboro, Vt., March 3 (AP)—The Presbrey Leland Company, Inc., today notified the United States Geological Survey of the quarrying at its West Dummerston quarry of what is believed to be the largest single block of granite ever quarried in the world.

It is pure white and is in exceptionally good condition. Its estimate weight is 8,181,000 pounds, and its dimensions are: 125 feet long, 35 feet wide and 11 feet in average thickness.

The Presbrey Leland officials said their block weighed five times more than the Assuan obelisk in Egypt.

WEDDING GUEST IS INDICTED IN SLAYING OF 2

Lowell, March 3—While Joachim Pita Soaris of New York, alleged slayer of a bridesmaid and a flower girl at a Lowell wedding, was just returning to consciousness in Lowell Hospital, the Middlesex Grand Jury today indicted him for murder.

The indictment was the first returned by the March grand jury which opened its session only today.

Soaris, who was beaten into insensibility with his skull fractured with a chair by another guest after the double killing, talked with police after regaining consciousness but police declined to reveal what he said.

The accused murderer opened fire when one of the girls refused to get out of an automobile and accompany him. He was a suitor for the slain girl's hand.

THE DEAD ARE

Angelina Rodrigues, 17, of Wellington Hill rd., Mattapan, bridesmaid at the wedding of her chum, Mary Silva of Floyd st.

Matilda Silva, 10, sister of the bride and flower girl.

THE DYING

Augustine Abreu of Athol st., Wamesit on the Cape, a wedding guest, and suitor of the bridesmaid, shot in the back.

John Pita, 33, of East 213 st., Bronx, N. Y., who did the shooting when Angelina spurned his affections.

Mary Silva, 18, daughter of John Silva of Floyd st., was married here to Anthony Gomes of Manchester, N. H. The wedding reception which followed the ceremony had been going on at the bride's home since.

STARTED ON RIDE

According to the story pieced out by the police last night, Abreu left the house with the bridesmaid and the flower girl after supper, to take them on an auto ride.

Just as they stepped toward the auto, parked in front of the house, Pita appeared, furious, and forbade the girls entering the car.

An argument followed and the little flower girl ran into the house to the groom, asking him "to make Pita let us go on a ride." She told Gomez that the guest was making threats.

He ran out with the little girl, who climbed on the running board of the auto, believing she was out of the way of any argument or harm that might follow. As Gomez remonstrated with Pita, the latter pulled a gun from his topcoat and started blazing away with it, police say.

SHIPPERS WILL MAKE ATLANTIC A SPEEDWAY

Paris, March 3 (INS)—Shippers are preparing to turn the Atlantic ocean into a speedway, it is indicated by reports of their construction plans.

A French company apparently expects to entice American tourists with a 60,000-ton ocean-going chateau which it hopes will bring New York to within four days of Havre.

This project has been repeatedly affirmed and denied, but latest reports indicate the ship will be completed for service in 1933.

The Cunard line is credited with the intention of going its French competitor one better by planning two 60,000-ton liners that will bring back the transatlantic record once held by the Mauretania.

Some reports say that the White Star line has taken up the keel for its 60,000-tonner, but shippers believe that construction will be resumed shortly. This liner will be propelled by electricity.

Possibly before any of these foreign ships slip down the ways American companies will have established a new express schedule with two 45,000-ton mail boats. At least they are believed to be planning crafts that can average 20 knots, the fastest non-racing time ever envisaged.

Italy states frankly she hopes to lead in speed with two 47,000-ton liners.

And Germany is sitting back at present with the transatlantic record in her pocket by virtue of the Bremen's 4¼-day crossing last year.

ALICE WHITE TO WED CHICAGOAN

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Copyright by Universal Service

New York, March 3—The blonde flapper of the movies, Alice White, is on her way to Chicago to wed Sidney Bartlett. Chicago is their present destination because it is there that Bartlett's family lives and he is taking Alice to receive their approval.

The engagement has been well known in Hollywood for a long, long time. Their marriage has been postponed until, as Mr Bartlett said, he had established himself in some business.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and those are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

A HOME PAPER FOR PEOPLE WHO THINK

GOLD STAR MOTHERS PROTEST 'JIM CROW' RULING

A Tense Serial of Love, Romance of Today

CHAPTER 44

TOM had been drinking.

He did not show it in any way. But when Lovejoy sat down near him in her little low chair she caught the unmistakable scent of whiskey on his breath.

"Do you always drink in the morning?" she asked him acidly

He shook his head. "No," he said dully. "I just had a drink with Al Alderson. I stopped in to see him at his office."

He put his hand into an inside pocket of his coat and took from it a few pieces of folded paper.

"If those are the famous letters, Vine wants them," Lovejoy told him with her eyes on the paper. She left here to go down to your office and ask you for them. You must have passed her on your way here. . . . Whether you believe it or not, those really are her letters, Tom."

Tom unfolded his papers. She saw then that they were not letters but bills. Bills from the furniture store and the china store and the drapery store where she had bought the things for the new house

"I came home to talk to you about these bills," Tom said, spreading them out upon the orchid taffeta cover on her bed. "You spent between three and four thousand dollars on this house, Lovejoy, last month. And it's going to take a lot of managing to get these bills paid within a year."

Lovejoy stared at him. . . . Last night he had been ready to leave her. Now he was talking over household affairs with her as calmly as though the, never had had a quarrel!

"You see, I made a lot of money for a while this spring," Tom went on, "and I'll make something over a hundred a week all summer. But that will only pay our household expenses unless we cut them way down."

Lovejoy laid two fingers over her mouth to hide a yawn. This sort of talk always made her tired.

"Tom," she said with a little drawl, "please don't expect me to believe you. You've been making two and three hundred dollars a week for three or four months. Now, why should you suddenly drop down to a hundred?"

He gave his head another shake.

"I've been dropping down steadily—for five or six weeks," he told her quietly. "You see, this way, Lovejoy: in the summer people don't buy as many bonds as they do in other seasons of the year. Three of my best customers are in Europe with their families right now. Lots of others are up in the Maine woods or in Canada, fishing. . . . Bonds always slow up in the summer along with a lot of other things."

Lovejoy did not believe him. She only half understood him. . . . She knew nothing about bonds. A bond was something that people bought and Tom went put away in banks. But why they sold at one time of the year and didn't at another was quite beyond her.

"I imagine we'll get along all right," she said indifferently. She got up from her dressing table and walked over to her dressing table.

"Not unless you help me," Tom said quickly. "I have almost a thousand dollars put away, and I'll have to send all that out today to these furniture people. We've just got to cut down expenses here at home!"

"All right!" Two spots of bright color burned suddenly in Lovejoy's cheeks. "I'll tell you where we'll start saving money first thing!—We'll fire Norrie and get a $10-a-week girl to help around the house."

He thought that over.

"That's the worst thing we could do," he said, "unless you will promise to take care of Norrie all the time and let the little $10-a-week girl do the work you're doing now.

"It wouldn't be safe to leave the baby alone hours every day with some young kid who doesn't know anything about babies."

Lovejoy set her teeth

"I knew you wouldn't let Norrie Shane leave this house!" she answered him bitterly. "You could save $55 a month easily that way—but you don't want to save money if it means losing your marvelous Norrie!"

"I—want—" he began, but she silenced him.

"I know what you want!" she cried wildly. "You want me to cook and scrub and wait on you and her all summer long! You want me to do without any new clothes! You want me to give up my bridge clubs and the Thursday Night Club and all the friends I've made this winter! You want ME to do the saving and the skimping—and I won't do it!"

She threw her hair-brush down upon the dressing table with such violence that it cracked the glass comb tray when it fell.

"If want you to take care of your own child," Tom contradicted her, "because I can't afford a good nurse for him any longer. But if you won't promise to do it, I'll have to keep that nurse—even if we go without shoes this summer."

"How silly you are!" Lovejoy's voice was full of sneering scorn. "Coming home to talk to me when you're half full of whiskey! You'll be in tears next thing I know, bubbling about your chee-ild and your chee-ild's nurse. You'd better get yourself a cup of black coffee and sober up!"

There came a soft knock on the door, and then Norrie Shane's voice:

"Lovejoy, will you te-l Tom that I just put some dry socks in his room? I noticed that his feet were wet when he came in!"

"Oh, dry up," said Lovejoy under her breath, "and blow away!"

"And that's another reason why I like to have Norrie in the house," Tom remarked when she had gone downstairs. "She keeps the buttons on my shirts and the spots off my ties. She darns my socks for me

Among Treasured Gems That Will Be on Exhibit As Boston Observes Art Week

This is "L'indiscretion," a colored mezzotint of the 18th century, one of the group of French color prints by Francois Janinet after Laureince which has been loaned to the Museum of Fine Arts for the observance of Art Week by Robert Treat Paine, 2d.

"The Music Lesson," a piece of Chelsea porcelain in the permanent collection of the Museum of Fine Arts, is similar to the collection loaned for the exhibit by Richard C. Paine. This exhibit is particularly interesting and is expected to attract hundreds of art enthusiasts. (Baldwin Coolidge photo.)

This Japanese print, "Three Yojo by a Latticed Window" by Kulonaca, is included in the Gilbert E. Fuller collection which will be exhibited during Art Week. Starting tomorrow interesting lectures are to be given each morning at the Museum of Fine Arts.

The Museum of Fine Arts will take a foremost part in art week with special exhibits emphasizing the place of the art museum in the everyday life of the people.

Stearns Co., Jordan Marsh, the R. H. White Co., T. D. Whitney, and Shepard's. An effort is being made to bring together several types of current design as well as fabrics of various prices.

Among the special exhibits are 15th century woodcuts and metalcuts, loaned by James C. Maguire, 18th century English porcelain, made at Chelsea, loaned by Richard C. Paine; prints and books illustrated by Auguste Lepere, loaned by William A. Sargent, and French color prints, 18th century, loaned by Robert Treat Paine, 2d.

WOULD AMEND WORKMEN'S ACT

Amendment to the workmen's compensation act to provide for compensation to the injured worker during the entire time of disability was urged at a legislative hearing today by Representative Martin Heys of Brighton.

Heys saw no reason for a limited payment in these cases. If the injured is completely incapacitated, he argued, and is unable to care for himself, compensation should continue indefinitely. He claimed the cost would be slight and would affect only about four to seven cases a year.

British War Hero Coming to Harvard

To the heroism of little 11-year-old Tony Garbono were credited today the lives of two of his brothers, snatched by Tony from their flaming home in Derby rd., Revere.

The fire started while Frank Garbone, the father, his wife and their seven children were asleep.

Dr. Conrad Attacks Handling of Insane

That two doctors were following a questionable policy in signing commitments to insane hospitals was the intimation hurled from the pulpit of the Park Street Church by the Rev. Dr. A. Z. Conrad in the sermon prelude last night.

He said "It is very suspicious to see, again and again, the names of the same two doctors on the commitment papers—and you do see them. It's dead wrong that any two physicians should be able to commit anyone to an insane asylum."

Pre-Lenten Theater Party Is Planned

Lighter Penalties for Firebugs Loom

Recommendations of a special commission which studied the state's fire laws will be heard tomorrow by the legislative committee on judiciary. The commission has expressed the belief that the existing arson laws are not as effective as they might be inasmuch as the penalties are so severe juries are loath to convict.

While the commission believes that the maximum life penalty for burning a dwelling should be continued, it believes the penalty for burning other structures should be reduced. Under a reduced penalty it holds more convictions will re-

CLUBS SEND LETTER TO HOOVER

President Urged to Prevent Segregation of Races on the Trip to French Graveyard

Massachusetts clubs representing nearly 20,000 women today protested to President Hoover against the proposed segregation of white and colored gold star mothers on the pilgrimage to World War burying grounds this summer

"The white and colored troops were not segregated going across. Why should mothers who gave them birth be segregated when they go to view the places where the offspring of their love and care are buried?" the club women demanded of the President in a letter

Gold star mothers were supported in the protest by the colored clubwomen of the Northeastern Federation of Women's Clubs and the Massachusetts State Union of Women's Clubs.

The letter was signed by Miss Elizabeth C Carter of New Bedford, president of the Northeastern Federation; Mrs. Minnie T. Wright, president of the Massachusetts State Union, and Minnie Cravath Simpson, secretary

The plan is denounced as "nefarious, prejudicial, without justice and savoring of the slavery of 250 years ago."

"Prevent the humiliation of one race to satisfy the prejudice of another," the latter urges.

Destruction of Hangar Delayed

Work of demolishing the old Boston Airport Corporation hangar, a subject of controversy since November, started today, but was stalled after 15 minutes because of weather conditions. Ten employes of the Mystic Building Wrecking Co. of Somerville found the wind too cold.

When the work of improving the airport began the hangar of the old Boston Airport Corporation remained because its owners and the city could not agree on terms. The owners held out for $15,000 and after months or argument an agreement was reached a couple of weeks ago.

The child's mother smothered the flames that enveloped him with a blanket as firemen rushed the hospital with the assistance of Sergt. Joseph Coyne

Fire apparatus was called and after the blaze was out Deputy Chief William Welch and his aide acted as nursemaids for several other children until a neighbor relieved them

Bulletin Criticizes School Expenditures

The Boston school department is strongly criticised in a bulletin sent to members of the Back Bay Association, Inc., composed of business men in that section. The bulletin is signed by former Councilman Horace Guild, secretary of the organization.

The increase in the number of employes of the school system, and the resulting increase in school [illegible] pointed by Guild. "Every one favors a liberal education by public schools, but this situation will lead many business concerns which are taxpayers to suspect that the Boston school department needs to be checked.

BRITISH CONSUL GETS MURDER WARRANT FOR HUB STRIKER

ACCUSED OF SLAYING IN CANADA

L. D. Doherty Is Detained Under $25,000 Bond in Local Case; Many Fined

At the request of the British consul-general federal court today issued a warrant for murder against Leonard D. Doherty of Bedford, arrested last week during a gala melee attending the strike of garment workers.

He [illegible] slaying Charles McDermond at Ottawa Can. in [illegible] running [illegible] striking Jacob Wolfe [illegible] with a dangerous weapon, and was held in $25,000 bail.

After the hearing, Canadian authorities took his custody for trial at Ottawa.

While the cases of 400 arrested in connection with the strike were disposed of in Municipal court today, a special session of the court, for some 60 odd defendants will be held tomorrow.

Today Zolby Gerber of Lawrence st., Roxbury was fined $20 for assault. Tabbel Widder of Nightingale st. $10 for disturbing the peace. Mary Piazza of Blue Hill ave. and Rose Scolia of Revere, $25 each for assault, and Annie Kaplan of Blue Hill ave. $10 for disturbing the peace.

Two men surrendered to police today on charges of intimidation in connection with the strike, making a total of seven arrested as a result of an alleged invasion of the Boston Dress Company Beach st., 10 days ago when the power was shut off and the business temporarily crippled.

They are Carl Vitelo, Pearson st., Jamaica Plain and Zakar Oborian Laurel st., Watertown. Patrolman Raymond Monahan of Lagrange street station, who investigated the case, said that only one more, a girl, remains to be arrested.

Miss Dora Delavitch of Lawrence st., Dorchester, is still ill, according to Monahan, but has promised to submit to arrest on a warrant when she recovers.

In spite of a biting wind that swept clouds of dust into faces and eyes, more than 60 pickets, principally girls, were on patrol on Kneeland st. today, making the inauguration of mass picketing by the Needle Trades Workers' Industrial Union, radical organization conducting the parties' strike.

Officials of the more conservative organization, the International Garment Workers' Union, A. F. of L., whose members are not on strike said that a war against sweatshops that are operating unfairly with legitimate manufacturers would be launched tomorrow evening at Stennert Hall.

Wadsworth Urges Bill to Aid Jobless

Rep. Eliot Wadsworth of Boston today urged the legislative committee on municipal finance to favor his bill authorizing cities and towns to borrow one-half of one per cent of their valuation above the debt limit, to be used on public projects to relieve the unemployment situation.

He said he believes such a measure would be helpful in taking up the slack in unemployment.

Injured by Auto

John Pappas, 38, of Worthington st., Roxbury, was injured seriously by an automobile driven by Gerard M. Hughes of Centre st., Roxbury, at Tremont and Worthington sts., Roxbury.

Husband Had to Do Her Work

"When my baby was a month old, I took a heavy cold and after that I felt miserable. Could not lift anything. My husband had to help me with the housework. I was so weak I could not do a washing. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the Kittaning paper and I gave it a good trial. Before I had taken half a bottle, I found the difference. I do all my own work now and I have told others how much this medicine helped me."—Mrs. Alice Bassett, Cadogan, Pennsylvania.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mrs. Robert T. Bushnell, wife of the district attorney of Middlesex County, will conduct the school in which the league's speakers will be instructed before they take the stump.

The first lecture in the course will be delivered at a luncheon conference of the senatorial district chairman at the home of Mrs. Bagley, 172 Beacon st., tomorrow, at 12:30, when Mrs. Bushnell will discuss "Some Do's and Don'ts in Public Speaking."

Finds Hub Has 'Only One Good Preacher'

Baptist ministers, meeting today in Chipman Hall, were told that it took millions of years to create this earth and that there was only one good preacher in Boston.

The speaker was Lyman R. Swett, 20 years a Baptist minister and the last 25 years a business man. He did not name the Hub "good preacher."

"You will not agree with me in what I am saying but as I have sat in the pews for 25 years, I have a real something about what two means," he said. "You may call it vinegar—what I am going to tell you.

"Sermons today in the modern pulpit are generally dry. Many congregations are a good match for the minister who preaches to them as far as knowledge is concerned.

"There's a changed attitude toward the Bible. People in the pews do not swallow the incident that Jonah was swallowed by a whale or that the Garden of Eden was a real garden or that the sun stood still in Joshua's time. The modern knowledge of the Bible is different from the knowledge of the [illegible] centuries."

His remarks aroused many of the older ministers who were present and objected to his criticism of the Bible.

Rev. John T. Rider, pastor of the Ruggles St. Baptist Church, said:

"If I believed what this speaker believes, I would not preach. To my manner of thinking, what he says is all bunk."

"Pitch into me all you please. You can call me a bad name if you please. Rip out anything about me I have changed my views about the ministry had Bible since I have sat in the pew for 25 years," was the speaker's rejoinder.

CIVIC LEAGUE PLANS SCHOOL

A unique "school for public speakers" is to be conducted under the auspices of the Child Welfare Committee of the Massachusetts Civic League preliminary to its statewide campaign for the education bill now before the Legislature.

URGE STATE AND CITY TO ASSIST JOBLESS NOW

Central Labor Union Recommends Sending Committees to State House and City Hall

The Boston Central Labor Union at Wells Memorial building recommended that special committees be sent to the State House and City Hall to urge appropriations that will allow for the immediate start of proposed public works to relieve the unemployment situation. This action followed the report of the committee studying the problem, and the bringing to the attention of the delegates the preliminary report [illegible] American Federation of Labor.

This report shows an increase of unemployment in Boston for the month from 16 per cent on the previous month to 19 per cent.

In discussing the question, John Carroll, past president of the United Building Trades Council, declared that Mayor Curley has done more during the past two months to change the situation than all the rest of the office holders in the State.

The Sacco-Vanzetti case cropped up when, during an address before the delegates, Frank A. Goodwin, chairman of the Boston finance commission, was asked by a delegate, Michael Flaherty, if he would make the same speech, now that he is seeking support for his insurance bill, as he made a few years ago on the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

"I believe in the courts and the upholding of verdicts," was the answer of Goodwin. Continuing he said: "When a jury of 12 men render a verdict and this verdict is declared to be right and just by every tribunal in the nation, then this verdict should be carried out, no matter who it affects or what is affected."

BABY VOLSTEAD REPEAL DEBATE

William H. McMasters, publicity agent arguing that violators of the prohibition law should be killed, debated with Conrad Crooker, counsel for the Liberal Civic League, before the New South Forum, meeting in the Boston Chamber. The subject of debate was "The Wisdom of Repealing the Baby Volstead Law."

There was strong objection to that theory by several other speakers, and in open revolt, McMasters was scored for his views. He objected mainly to repeal of the law because it would give the country a false view of where Massachusetts stands on sobriety.

A letter of protest to Congress that the people were against prohibition and want to go back to temperance through education.

Before the picture was thrown on the screen Warren Reardon informed the newsboys of the fact that they were being given the privilege of a special run of the picture by personal order of William Randolph Hearst.

Following this announcement the newsboys manifested their appreciation by a rising vote of thanks to Mr. Hearst. The meeting was the monthly gathering of the newsboys who deliver newspapers in the metropolitan district outside of Boston.

RYAN TELLS OF LEGION START

The birth of the American Legion and its objectives were the subject of a radio address from stations WBZ and WBZA by Henry J. ('Sailor') Ryan.

In connection with the membership campaign of the Massachusetts Department of the American Legion.

The speaker declared that the national organization arose as a reaction to the anti-patriotic movement instituted by the "pacifists, Communists and defeatists," who openly denounced the government of this country prior to and during the World War.

33 Charged in Roundup

Thirty-three men, arrested in a week-end roundup by the police of the City Q at station, were arraigned today in the Charlestown municipal court, charged with drunkenness. Five were fined $15, seven were released, several paid fines of $5 and $10 each, while the remainder had their cases placed on file.

Lynn Families Enjoy Free Poultry Feast

Several Lynn families enjoyed an unexpected chicken or duck dinner without added burden to the family budget as a result of a fire in the block occupied by a poultry company.

Firemen were called to a blaze in a two-story building at 85 Blossom st. There they found a brisk fire in the basement, forcing smoke through the first floor, occupied by a restaurant and the Lynn Poultry Co., and to the second floor, occupied by a synagogue, the Congregation Arguda Archim.

Both synagogue and restaurant were empty, but the poultry store housed some 300 chickens and 50 ducks. Fearing that the fowl might suffocate, firemen smashed the windows of the store and the feathered denizens, sensing, probably, that the axe was soon to descend upon them anyway, quickly flopped and fluttered to freedom.

Men, women and children of the neighborhood, gathered to watch the fire, lost no time in pouncing on their prey. Those captured, they trekked for home and but little of the poultry was recovered by the company.

Damage to the synagogue was confined to smoke. Loss to the building, restaurant and poultry store was estimated at $1500.

HEATER BLAST ROCKS DISTRICT

A The district in the vicinity of Commonwealth ave., near St. Paul and Pleasant sts., Brookline, was shaken when an automatic heater exploded, resulting in two persons being thrown from their feet and several others narrowly escaping injury.

The explosion was in the basement of the Harvey Robb building at 910 Commonwealth ave. William F. Park of 1747 Commonwealth ave., Brighton, who was walking alongside the building was thrown from his feet to the sidewalk as a shower of glass from shattered windows fell upon him. Charles Green of 31 Cumberland st., Boston, an automobile mechanic who was working on an automobile in the Dummer st. garage in the rear of the Harvey building, was also thrown to the floor.

RAT ATTACKS FIREMAN

Capt. Arthur Swift, of Protective Company 3 of the Boston fire department, was bitten in the right leg by a rat while he was fighting a two-alarm fire in the four story brick building at 1028 and 1030 Boylston st., near Massachusetts ave., early today.

The second alarm was precautionary, for when the fire was discovered by a pedestrian, the building was filled with smoke. When fire department officials arrived on the scene, it looked like a serious blaze.

The fire started in the sub-basement of the Rent-A-Car agency at 1028 Boylston st. and spread rapidly up to the ground floor. Smoke filled several buildings on Boylston st.

All the floors above the store were unoccupied. Two restaurants in the vicinity were filled with smoke.

Captain Swift, with other firemen, was in the basement in the thickest of the smoke fighting the fire when a rat ran up his pant leg. He had difficulty in shaking off the rat. The wound inflicted by the rodent was cauterized.

CHARGES 'PLAY TO GALLERIES'

The special commission on the necessaries of life was today accused by George Vaccaro, Boston real estate man, of "not giving business a break" and of "playing to the galleries."

Vaccaro was speaking before the House Ways and Means Committee in opposition to a bill continuing the commission in office for another year.

Rep. Clarence S. Luitweiler of Newton, favoring the bill, told the committee that the commission is a clearing house for all kinds of complaints.

'Its work has not been spectacular, but its benefits to the people have been great," Luitweiler declared.

Others in favor of the bill were H. F. Burnham, representing the Boston and Massachusetts real estate exchanges and representatives of the United Improvement Association and the Dorchester Board of Trade.

CATHOLIC VIEW BROADCAST BY FR. WATERS

Priest Answers Question 'Who Can Be Saved' During Weekly Truth Period

The origin of the Catholic Church is derived from Jesus Christ and it maintains that it is the heaven ly appointed channel from which salvation comes to man. Thus the Rev. Patrick J. Waters, D. D., professor of dogmatic theology of St. John's Seminary, Brighton, summed up his answer in the Catholic Truth Period, to the subject question: "Who Shall Be Saved?" broadcast through the Boston station WNAC and Providence station WEAN, under the auspices of the Catholic radio committee. The Rev. Fr. Waters spoke through a microphone in the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Boston.

Outside the church the Rev. Fr. Waters said, no one can be saved. To those who charge that the doctrine of exclusive salvation is "arrogant" and an "unwarranted assumption," he said the church was even more emphatic in its reply. "The Catholic Church," he declared, "is bound to proclaim itself the only church in which salvation can be obtained." And that, he indicated, is the church's answer to the charge that it is narrow and that exclusive salvation is an indirect survival of the Middle Ages." "In this country, he went on, "where every variety of religious belief finds a following, it is necessary to insist on this central truth that there can be only one true church of God.

"Never can the church admit that one religion is a good as another. Never can the church admit that it matters little whether a man be Protestant, Catholic, Jew, pagan or anything at all. This cannot do without betraying the sublime trust which our Savior placed in it. This cannot do without admitting that there is no great difference between truth and falsehood, faith and unbelief, between the church and the sects that secede from it."

Cardinal Hayes Inaugurates Nation-Wide Broadcast

New York, March 3—Cardinal Hayes inaugurated the first general use of radio by the Roman Catholic Church in America, yesterday.

Attended by a group of distinguished clergy, he launched the "Catholic Hour" over a coast-to-coast hookup from the New York studios of the National Broadcasting Company. The hour—from 8 to 9 p. m. Sunday—will be a weekly feature.

M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company, introduced the cardinal. Then the Rt. Rev. Joseph Schrembs, Bishop of Cleveland, also was heard.

Preceding the speeches the Paulist choristers addressed the microphone.

Cardinal Hayes, after congratulating the National Council of Catholic Men which made the hour possible, said:

"This hour is not a triumph or a boast, nor is it to attack or blame but to serve, with good will, with kindness and with Christ-like sympathy for all. This modern medium of education voices, therefore, the hope that this radio hour may serve to make known, to explain with the charity of Christ your faith which we love as Christ himself."

LABOR PARTY IS DEBATE TOPIC

The American worker of today is too well satisfied were sentiments expressed by George E. Roewer in a debate with John J. Kearney, labor leader, at the Dorchester Open Forum in Wellington Auditorium on the question: "Is the American Federation of Labor in the Political Field for the Best Interests of the Working Class?"

Continuing, he said: "Give him his pipe full of tobacco, his auto outside, his piano and radio going, even though he has two mortgages on his home, and he thinks he's sitting next the king. Instead, the worker should continue his or her activity in the economic and political fields, and the American Federation of Labor must arrive at the point where labor shall own and direct, as does the British Labor party."

Mr. Kearney, during his remarks, stated that nearly half a century ago, the A. F. of L., profiting by previous experiences of organized labor, declared in favor of a non-partisan political policy. Up to that time there had been many attempts to organize so-called labor parties under various names, all of which proved failures. Not alone had they interfered with the normal activities of the labor movement, he said, but they divided into factions the memberships, created dissensions that in many cases caused disintegration of unions.

Quincy Policeman to Probe Auto Accidents

Believing that too many motorists involved in accidents are guilty of criminal negligence and are escaping punishment for their errors of omission and commission, Chief Ernest H. Bishop of the Quincy police department announced the appointment of Motorcycle Patrolman Edward S. Bryan as a special traffic accident investigating officer. Through the investigations made by this officer, and the attendant court actions, Chief Bishop hopes to minimize to some extent the number of preventable accidents.

Officer Bryan will make personal investigations of accidents, and will make his recommendations for prosecution to the chief.

POLICEMAN TO BE TRIED FOR NOT REPORTING FINDING LOST BABY

CHILD KEPT HOURS AT STATION

Meanwhile Father Toured the City in Taxi In Hunt for Missing Girl

Alleged failure to properly report the finding of a lost child, which alleged failure is said to have caused the parents many additional hours of anguish, is to result in the trial of three policemen for neglect of duty.

The men to be tried by a police tribunal are Sergt. Thomas L. Maxon of Station 11, Dorchester, and Patrolmen Chester A. MacRury and Norman A. Mortimer of police headquarters.

The child figuring in the case is Charlotte Leavitt, three, of 28 Dyer st., Mattapan, who was reported lost at 3 p. m. February 19. She was found soon after and taken to Station 11, but was not reported found until several hours later.

In the meantime the father hired a taxi and toured the city in an effort to locate his baby. Late in the evening a policeman took the child home, and it developed she had been at Station 11 several hours, although the parents were not notified.

MacRury is charged with failure to notify the various police stations of the city that the child had been found. It is charged that Mortimer received several telephone calls from mthe child's father and told him that nothing had been heard of the child, although she was at that time in the station house.

Sergt. Maxon is charged with keeping the child at the station house without making a record of its presence there, although books are kept for that purpose.

The date of the hearing has not been set.

The three officers have already been reprimanded by Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley, who ordered an investigation upon learning that the parents of the child, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Leavitt, had needlessly suffered six hours from the alleged failure of the policemen to function properly.

Sent 3 Sons to War

Mrs. Elizabeth McIver of 146 Greenfield st., Mattapan, saw her three boys march away to war, but only two of them came back. Corp. Gavin R. McIver gave his life to wipe out a German machine gun nest. (Staff photo.)

Heroism Cost Life of This Doughboy

Mothers were the "second line of defense" in the World War, as they all years. Now the government is going to send to France, that they may view the last resting place of their hero sons, the Gold Star mothers of America,, those mothers whose sons made the supreme sacrifice. Today the Boston Evening American presents the sixth in a series of biographical sketches of heroes who gave their lives in the war—sketches made by the Gold Star mothers or widows themselves.

The Gold Star Mother sent three sons to the Mexican border and all three to France, but one of them did not return.

Corp. Gavin R. McIver of Co. A, 101st Regiment, was killed in action on July 13, 1918, in a personal feat of daring which brought a recommendation for the Distinguished Service Cross.

Mrs. Elizabeth McIver of 146 Greenfield rd., Mattapan, has proud memories of her son.

Gavin was on scouting duty in No Man's Land. He noticed the advancing doughboys having trouble with a machine gun nest off to one side.

The young man could have stuck to his orders and let his chums do their own worrying, but he wasn't that kind of a soldier.

He and another scout decided to rush the nest to draw the enemy fire so that the advancing party could spot the nest and wipe it out.

Creeping within 15 feet of the nest, the two boys jumped up and rushed. They were spotted and killed in a burst of firing, which, however, located the nest and brought about its destruction.

"A most courageous and daring piece of work," was the expression used in the recommendation for the medal.

For some reason, the medal was never granted, but this was possibly due to the confusion of wartime office details, his mother thinks.

"This act," wrote an official, "was one of the highest character of bravery and self-sacrifice, and excited the admiration of the men of the company who followed."

A square in Mattapan is named after this youth.

The military career of Gavin and his two brothers began at the Mexican border, where Gavin nearly died from ptomaine poisoning.

Lieut. James McIver and Sergt. John McIver went through all the major World War battles and safely returned home.

The dead soldier was a carpenter, following his father's profession.

Tomorrow the Boston Evening American will tell of a Jewish boy, Benjamin Rutstein, whose bravery brought a personal letter from the President.

WINTER ST. FIRE JAMS TRAFFIC

Winter st. was clogged with fire apparatus and spectators today and closed to traffic as heavy smoke poured into several buildings from a small fire in the basement of 43-45 Winter st., occupied by L. P. Rogers & Sons, furriers. Occupants of the building were forced to leave until firemen scaled aerial ladders, opened the upper windows and permitted the smoke to escape.

A serious traffic jam on Washington, Summer and Tremont sts. resulted and police reserves were required to hold in check a large crowd that swarmed the scene. The street was blocked for 20 minutes. The fire started in rubbish, according to firemen.

Noted Engineer, Good Roads Advocate Dies After Heart Attack

Funeral services for William E. McClintock, pioneer good roads advocate, engineer and public servant will take place tomorrow, at 2 p. m. at the First Universalist Church, Chelsea. Burial will be in Portland, Me.

McClintock, who was 81, died of heart disease at his home, 27 Crescent ave., Chelsea. He suffered a slight heart attack Friday night but said nothing about it to his son Dr. Francis B. McClintock, until Saturday morning. Saturday night he had a more severe attack and the end came Sunday morning.

Born in Hallowell, Me., on July 9, 1848, McClintock was the son of Capt. John and Mary Bailey McClintock. On his father's side he was of Scotch-Irish ancestry.

LEADING ENGINEER

McClintock became one of the greatest engineers of the country. Even before the invention of the automobile, he perceived the value of good highways, and advocated them at every possible time.

His work in Massachusetts, in later years, caused the then Governor Charles Evans Hughes of New York to invite him to become highway commissioner of that State, at a salary approximately twice that which he was receiving here.

According to his son, McClintock told Governor Hughes that he "would rather die in Massachusetts than live in New York," and declined the offer.

He worked for the United States Coast Survey from 1867 to 1878, surveying most of the principal harbors of the Atlantic Coast, and much of 15 or 16 States.

He also surveyed the sewer systems for Chelsea, Revere, Gardner and Westfield Easthampton, Andover and Natick, assisted in the surveying for the sewer systems of Holyoke and other places, and did the surveying for the systems of Calais and Bath, Me.; Bennington, Vt., and St. Stephen's and Milltown, N. B.

In 1892 he was appointed highway commissioner of Massachusetts and he became first president of the Massachusetts Highway Association.

Between 1894 and 1896 he was city engineer of Chelsea. During this period he also was a member of the Chelsea board of Aldermen and a member of the Chelsea school committee.

CHELSEA FIRE WORK

It was directly after the great Chelsea fire of 1908 that McClintock gained his greatest prominence. He was appointed by Governor Eben Draper to be chairman of the Board of Control, which was directed to conduct the business and government of Chelsea during the reconstruction period.

In 1912 the city returned to its regular form of Government. McClintock was appointed superintendent of the Old Chelsea Ferry, the oldest in the country, and he held that job until the ferry went out of business.

Since that time he has been doing University Extension work with the State Department of Education. He was active and about his regular routine of life until four or five years ago.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary E. McClintock, to whom he was married almost 57 years ago; four sons, William J. McClintock of Melrose; Dr. Francis Bake McClintock, of Chelsea; Samuel McClintock, of Chelsea and Paul McClintock of Hillside, N. J., and one daughter, Dorothy McClintock, of Chelsea.

The police allege that he visited four women and one man in Somerville who had purchased articles from the firm and then made collections while not in the firm's employ.

Smoking Good as Rest, Professor Says

Smoking, done in moderation acts much like a rest in its effect of bringing a person back to normal from a state of depression or of high tension, Dr. Walter L. Mendenhall of the Boston University school of medicine said during the Harvard medical school's free public lecture.

He said its action is very quick, too, and experiments with human beings have shown that if one is depressed, a smoke will stimulate him, or if he is nervously keyed up, it will act more as a sedative, like a concentrated afternoon nap.

Smoking has no effect on the gaining or losing of weight and intelligence tests have shown no difference betwewen smokers and non-smokers, he said, adding that there are many, many years yet to elapse before the effects of tobacco smoking can be shown as far as physical results through medical research.

"Is tobacco harmful?" he asked and then answered his question by "Yes and no," adding that the joker in the whole thing is the word "moderation." Moderation varies and must be determined for each individual, he said.

In its effect on youth, he said, "we must conclude from studies in the schools, that its effect on scholarship is depression. The smokers do not measure up to the non-smoker in scholarship. But we have no followup on these tests, we don't know what happens to them when they get out in life, and intelligence tests on adults show no difference in intellect between smokers and non-smokers."

2 HUB BROKERS MEET DEATH AS SUICIDES

John Diggins Dies in Leap From Window; Body of J. E. Bradshaw in Harbor

Two Boston brokers were declared suicides today by police, with the finding of the body of J. Edwin Bradshaw of Beacon st., Brookline, in the harbor, and a fatal leap of 40 feet by John Diggins, 50, from a window his home on Brentwood rd., Arlington.

Diggins jumped through the glass of a window of his bedroom. His badly cut and bruised body with head crushed was found by Coll Flint and Edward W Davis, neighbors, who were attracted by screams from the Diggins home.

The broker had been chatting with members of the family all evening and appeared normal, they said, although he had been worried since the stock market crash. He went to his room at 2 a. m. and was fully clad when he leaped from the window a short time afterward.

The crash of glass attracted his sister, Miss Catherine Diggins, and a son, Edward. Diggins was a widower. He was widely known and had a brokerage office in Boston for years.

Bradshaw, whose body was found floating between T and Commercial wharves by fishermen, had been petitioned into bankruptcy in December and it was said he lost heavily in the bear market. He had offices at 53 State st.

Identification was made by his wife, Mrs. Clara Bradshaw. There were no marks of violence on the body and the presence of his watch and jewelry disposed of a theory of robbery and foul play, the police said.

"BIG BOY" WILLIAMS TAKES ROLE DEMPSEY CREATED IN "THE BIG FIGHT"

TRY TO GET EX-CHAMP BUT FAIL

Universal Service Motion Picture Editor

NEW YORK, March 3—All the angling to get Jack Dempsey to play the role in "The Big Fight" that he created on the stage, and all the promise that one of our pugilists would step out on the silver screen has come to naught. "Big Boy" Williams' sinewy strength and flattering muscles will be featured in the Dempsey play which Samuel Zeller will produce for James Cruse productions. Women do love these rough boys, to be sure.

Lola Lane will have the role that Estelle Taylor played when she was her husband's leading lady. Ralph Ince, who seems to be pocketing his directorial ambitions in favor of acting, has the part of Steve. There is a current rumor that Ralph and Lucille Mendez have come to a parting of the ways. In fact, one of the theatrical papers intimated that a divorce is pending.

Louella O. Parsons

"Stepin Fetchit, who has promised to be a good boy and not yawn out of turn, will play the part of "Spot." "The Big Fight" goes into production immediately with Walter Lang directing.

NO VAGABOND THIS LAD AND YET A KING

DENNIS KING, romantic young actor, is now a star of both screen and stage because he heeded the advice of good friends. It was due to them that he embarked on a singing career, which has led to his becoming a Paramount luminary in "The Vagabond King," the musical romance entirely in Technicolor which comes to the Uptown next Thursday. For many years King had not the slightest idea of entering the lyric field on the stage, even though from his earliest days he dreamed of becoming an actor.

As a boy in Birmingham, England, his thoughts were entirely wrapped up in a footlight career. When he was 16, he ran away from school to seek a stage career with John Drinkwater's repertory theater in Birmingham. He applied for a job as an actor and was given polite regrets. He then asked for some other job about the theater.

"We need a call boy," he was told, "but it will never lead you to anything."

"I'll take it and take my chances on that," King replied.

In the two years that he worked as a call boy he advanced to the place where he was occasionally given small bits.

When Paramount purchased the screen rights to "The Vagabond King," there was no question about who was to play and sing the starring role. It had to be Dennis King. He was signed and brought to Hollywood as the newest of Paramount's audible screen stars.

King is just a trifle under six feet tall and weighs 155 pounds. He has a lithe athletic figure and is noted for his dynamic energy. He likes all sorts of sports and is an excellent swimmer. He is an expert fencer, having been forced to acquire the fine points of the sport for his stage work. He also plays polo and tennis. His eyes are blue and he has light brown hair.

Compinsky Trio

The Compinsky Trio—Sara, pianist; Alec, 'cello, and Manuel, violin—will give a second recital this season in Jordan Hall on Thursday evening, March 20. The program includes the Rachman Trio in D minor, the Ravel Trio in A minor and the Brahms Trio in C minor.

MR. BONES IS NOW HAPPY IN FILM

THE blackface minstrel appears in a modernistic background in his film reincarnation; it happens in "Happy Days," all star musical romance which is now being seen at the New B. F. Keith's.

There are seventy-five blackface singers in this minstrel show and the roster contains many of the best known names of the screen and stage. As a matter of fact, the minstrel idea was adopted by Fox as a medium for presenting a big name spectacle. The picture contains the most expensive cast Fox ever has put in a picture.

Some of the names are Will Rogers, Edmund Lowe, Richard Keene, Walter Catlett, Frank Richardson, Warner Baxter, Victor McLaglen, El Brendel, Tom Patricola and George Jessel.

There are two interlocutors, "Gentleman Jim" Corbett, former heavyweight champion, and George MacFarlane. Ann Pennington dances and George Olsen and his orchestra play.

The minstrel show in "Happy Days" occupies about half of the picture. In the story proper the leads are played by Marjorie White, Richard Keene and Charles Evans, the latter one of the real veterans of the theater.

Curtis Orchestra

The Curtis Institute of Music of Philadelphia, of which Josef Hofmann is the director, is to take an unusual move in sending its Curtis orchestra of 106 members to Boston to give a concert in Symphony Hall on next Sunday evening. The Curtis orchestra consists wholly of scholarship students with the exception of five professionals, who are teachers at the institute. Emil Mlynarski is the conductor.

Spalding Program

Albert Spalding has discovered a fine violin sonata of Bach, which he will present to Boston, when he gives his recital in Symphony Hall on Sunday afternoon, March 16. In addition to this sonata, Spalding will play: Allegro, by Padre Martini; Fantasy in C Major, by Schubert; Symphonie Espagnole, by Lalo; La Fontaine d'Arethuse, by Szymanowski; La Campanella by Paganini; Am Springbrunnen, and Abendlied, by Schumann.

The domestic help problem is solved up-to-date when a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

Colorful Ice Cream Molds for Bridge Parties

THE harassed heads of refreshment committees for church and community suppers are solving the dessert problem very satisfactorily with the new individual mold of delicious old-fashioned ice cream. These are made up to order in sherbets or ice cream in the shapes of various fruits, flowers and animals. (I'll be delighted to give you the telephone number that will bring them to you carefully packed in dry ice.)

Then, there are the large melon molds for home dinner parties where you want something different, the even larger ice cream cakes that will serve 10 or 15 people.

For clubs, lodges and other large gatherings, this ice cream comes packed in individual cartons with a spoon, and then there is the familiar special brick with its center mold of sherbert in the shape of hatchets, hearts, Christmas trees, etc., appropriate for the various holidays, and a luscious Sultana Roll to be served with a claret sauce

To accompany these delicious ices, I don't know of anything more tempting than the cream filled sugar wafers with the clover leaf decoration.

CHEAP COFFEE SPICE CAKE

½ cup sugar
½ cup molasses
½ cup butter
2 cups pastry flour
½ tsp. each of cinnamon, cloves, allspice and salt.
1 level tsp. soda
1 egg
1 cup raisins
½ cup cold coffee

Cream butter, add sugar, molasses and beaten egg. Mix and sift dry ingredients, and add coffee and dry ingredients alternately. Add raisins last. Bake in moderate oven in cup cake tins. Frost with chocolate or nut frosting.

New Dutch Dumplings

WHY make the kiddies wait wait for the Sunday auto ride to enjoy wholesome frankforts of reputable brand? Try these Arlington Dutch Dumplings for lunch just once and hear the entire family demand them often.

These dumplings are easy to prepare and delightfully novel. Make some ordinary powder biscuit dough from your favorite recipe—if you haven't one let me send you my favorite—and roll the dough about one inch thick. Cut it in squares and wrap one pedigreed frankfort inside each square. Bake in a moderate oven just as you would biscuits until the dough dumpling is cooked through.

If you have any left-over gravy from Sunday's dinner, it is nice to serve with the dumplings or you can make a "something out of nothing" gravy by the recipe we used in the Martha Lee Kitchen recently and which I'll gladly send any one desiring to have it.

Every one likes frankforts and there's no reason why every one shouldn't eat them if they're careful when buying to insist on a brand that guarantees the finest frankforts obtainable, made from only choice meats, seasoned pleasingly with fine spices and prepared under U. S. Government inspection.

This Cleaner Has 999 Uses

RECENTLY I was introduced to a new liquid cleanser which also serves as a germicide, deodorant and disinfectant, and since then I've been proving the truth of the claim that "there are 999 uses for this cleanser in every home."

I found it efficient for cleaning pots and pans, for tile, glassware and enamel, for removing stains for softening water and cutting grease, for cleaning mops and dish cloths, for whitening clothes and removing odors, and killing germs for bleaching old floors and removing mildew, for purifying drains and for cleaning bathtubs sinks, enamel ranges, refrigerators food utensils, wicker, tile, marble, linoleum, wood-work, windows and drain-board.

Pretty soon I shall have listed for all those lacking-one-a thousand uses instead of letting you have the fun of discovering them for yourself.

Shredded Codfish Devilled

Melt 2 tbsps. of butter. Blend in 2 tbsps. of flour. Season with ½ tsp. of pepper and ½ tsp. of paprika and ½ tsp of prepared mustard. Add 1 cup of rich milks and stir until smooth and thick. Beat 1 egg lightly and stir it into the sauce.

Then add 1 cup of shredded codfish, freshened with a little cold water and wrung out in a cloth or drained through a fine sieve. Let become very hot without broiling and arrange in small baking cups or dishes. Cover with cracker crumbs mixed with melted butter and place in the over until the crumbs are brown.

ECONOMICAL COCOANUT CUP CAKE

1 egg
⅔ cup sugar
½ cup molasses
⅓ cup water
¼ cup shortening, melted
1¾ cups pastry flour
½ tsp. soda
¼ tsp. salt
½ tsp. cinnamon
¼ tsp. ginger
⅛ tsp. cloves
½ cup cocoanut

Beat egg, add sugar, molasses, water and melted shortening. Sift flour, soda, salt and spices. Add cocoanut. Put in greased muffin pans and sprinkle with cocoanut. Bake in hot oven.

BRAN GINGER CAKE

½ cup sugar.
1 egg.
1 cup all-bran.
1½ cups flour.
1 tsp. ginger.
2 tsps. cinnamon.
½ cup molasses.

Cream shortening and sugar together. Add the egg; beat well. Add the all-bran. Mix and sift the dry ingredients and add them to the creamed mixture, alternately with the sour milk and molasses. Bake in a moderate oven (370 Deg. F.) from 30 to 40 minutes. Yield, 1 loaf.

New Hampshire offers many things that are good, usually in season, but now comes Mrs. Libbie Howard of Grasmere, with something that is acceptable any time. She shows—and knows—how to make what is called Cushion Cake. It's an old-timer.

Recipe Prize of $5 Goes to Grasmere, N. H.

MRS. LIBBIE HOWARD, of Grasmere, New Hampshire, receives the $5 weekly cash recipe prize today for her Cushion Cake. This cake was so excellent that after making two in the Martha Lee Kitchen, we included it in our last week's cooking demonstration, and the entire Martha Lee Cooking School voted it extra A plus. Hence the award this week.

Probably you remember your grandmother making this good old-fashioned Cushion Cake—a layer of dark spice cake being baked first 20 minutes, and then on top of it a layer of light dough being placed. Then the whole is baked until the top layer shrinks from the side of the pan.

There's a ticklish moment when it comes out of the oven partially cooked and you wonder whether the weight of the layer of white batter will make the cake fall, but in the six cakes that we made not one met disaster so we feel safe in passing the recipe along to you.

The method of mixing is simple.

The ingredients are 1 cup of Domino sugar, ⅓ cup Land-O-Lake butter, 2 Hood's eggs, ½ cup Hood milk, 2-3 tsp. Arm and Hammer soda, 2 cups Creosta flour, 1 tsp. Slade's cream of tartar. These ingredients are mixed thoroughly and then 1-3 of the dough is taken out for the bottom layer. To this is added 1 cup of stoned and chopped raisins, 2 tbsps. of Grandma's molasses, ½ tsp. of Slade's cinnamon, ½ tsp. of Slade's cloves, and ¼ tsp. of Slade's nutmeg. This dark part of the cake is placed in a loaf pan, well buttered and lined with paper, and baked for 20 minutes. Then the remaining light dough is carefully spread over the dark layer and then the cake is returned to the oven to bake until done

The cushiony feeling of the top crust is probably what gives the reliable old timer its name.

After boiling salt beef, leave two or three carrots in the liquid until cold—the carrots absorb the salt and the liquid can be used for soups.

Do not waste any skim milk—make it into cottage cheese.

When using molasses and it is not dark as desired for ginger bread or cookies, add a tablespoonful of melted chocolate to molasses and spices, improving the flavor.

When fruit has fermented, reheat it, add a little sugar and make up into pies or tarts.

New Cracker Arrives

THE crisp, brown, little toasterettes, made of whole wheat flour, delicately buttered, baked and salted, have long been popular, but now they will have to share their honor with the newest member of this cracker family—a whole wheat salting of generous size.

I feel perfectly safe in prophesying instant popularity for this delicious and wholesome product. It's ideal to eat with cheese, to accompany soup or to carry its quota of creamed food or sandwich spread. And with a bowl of cool milk makes a satisfying, sleep rousing, bed-time bite.

Saving Salt—After freezing ice cream, empty the cracked ice into a sack. When ice has melted, nearly all the salt remains to be used again.

You will find any one of these dishes adds that touch of the unusual for which so many hostesses and housewives are striving. What Admiral Byrd Keeps in His "Pantry"

IN planning the dietary for Rear Admiral Byrd's Antarctic expedition, it was, of course, impossible to include fresh milk, fruits and vegetables.

It is interesting to the homemaker to know, however, that in the 100 tons of food which was loaded on the ship were 9600 cans of evaporated milk and 2000 pounds of dried milk. Butter, 3500 pounds, 50 gallons of lime juice, raisins, tons of dried vegetables, 1500 pounds of calves' liver and several cases of cod liver oil were included—foundation foods for good health

The diet of Byrd's men consisted of pemmican, biscuits, peanut butter, bacon, concentrated soup, oatmeal, sugar, powdered milk, cocoa, malted milk, tea, salt and chocolate. The concentrated soup comes in sausage form

The meals are cooked on a two-burner gasoline stove. When camp is made at night, a thick, nutritious soup is made from the pemmican and the concentrated soup. While the evening meal is being eaten, the oatmeal for the next day's breakfast is cooked, and this is served with milk made from the milk powder. The noon lunch consists of cold pemmican, crackers, tea and sweet chocolates, and the evening drink is usually malted milk or chocolates.

HEALTH SALAD

4 tsps. lemon juice

Cream the cheese and fold into the whipped cream. Seed the prunes and put through a strainer Add the lemon juice and sugar Line individual molds or paper cups with the cheese and fill center with prune mixture. Place in freezing tray of electric refrigerator. Freezes in three to four hours. Serves six.

SHOULD LOVE ALWAYS BE GIVEN RIGHT OF WAY?

"Little Mother's" Problem Difficult of Solution

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
An Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

DOES love always have the right of way?

One would like, of course, to shout a hearty yes. But, alas, there is always a case or two to consider like that of Caroline E., who wrote me a letter the other day.

Beatrice Fairfax

Caroline is a normal, warm-hearted girl of 19, with a good deal more than an average capacity, I should say, for finding and giving happiness in marriage and for creating a home. She is, I am sure, a matrimonial prize.

More than this, Caroline has fallen very much in love with an excellent young man who adores her and wants to marry her.

But this is not the whole story. Her problem is almost tragically serious and the happiness that she so desires is by no means easily within her reach, after all.

This young girl's mother died five years ago, leaving in her care four young children. An overwhelming legacy, for a girl of 14. But she cheerfully accepted the role of little mother and has made a brilliant success of it. Meanwhile the sickly father has had to struggle very hard to provide the rent and the meat-and-bulk suppers.

Now, Caroline has become a young woman. She has a delightful and impatient lover who would like to marry her without a moment's delay. His kind-hearted mother has led him to offer to take one of the children into the new home—Caroline's home.

But this would leave the weak, over-worked, widowed father with three children under 12 years old. Who would give them the care that they will need during the next ten years?

Their sister sees no one who would take her place—since it is unlikely that the father would marry again. She would be unwilling to overburden a young husband, earning a small income, with a large and helpless family. So she bravely says this makes her own marriage impossible—and she has dismissed her lover's heart. It is scarcely likely that he could wait 10 years for her. She has no thought of asking him to do it. It is also by no means certain that at the end of 10 years a second desirable lover would promptly present himself. So not only is she suffering heartbreak from denying herself love at this moment, but it is also probable that this young heroine is renouncing marriage forever.

What do you think about her case, you light-hearted and perhaps slightly selfish youngsters who do not have to consider anybody's wishes but your own?

Should Caroline, who has been so faithful, who has lost so much of youth, decide to live her own life and accept her legitimate happiness? Probably no one would blame her for doing so.

Or should she insist that her duty to the children who regard her almost as a mother comes before the claim of the man who loves her and that she is ready for their sake to make a complete sacrifice of her own life?

It is true that self-sacrifice has noticeably gone out of fashion in the last generation or two. It is also true that before this period self sacrifice was a great deal overdone, especially by women. So that it was really a healthy reaction when women began to seize for themselves the pleasant things that life offered without looking about them too squeamishly to see whether some weak and futile person couldn't be coaxed to enter a prior claim.

It was certainly unwholesome and unnecessary always to be doubting one's own right to happiness, always to be seeking opportunities to make oneself, if not unhappy, at least uncomfortable.

In general, I certainly prefer the natural, healthy selfishness that came in with short skirts, short hair and the power vocabularies of psychology.

But there are situations where heartbreak comes at too high a price and where love must take second place. Caroline's is probably one—for I have reluctantly come to the conclusion that she is right. And whether you agree with me or not, I must send her my admiration.

Miss Gulliver -:- -:- Drawn by Nell Brinkley

MISS GULLIVER was one of those who wished for something very madly and was not sure that she really wanted her dream as lovely as it came out. The German dreamer, Goethe, warned one to be careful what one wished for, for fear one would get it!

Miss Gulliver wished to be in the land of Love, land of flowers and sapphire seas, lapped in indigenous, the moon of romance always overhead, silver-sand on the shore to walk upon, overhead the rustle of palms and the red, passionate faces of hibiscus looking down—as in Florida, the nearest place to a Summer-sea Heaven that we have!

She wished for that. And woke up and had it. Prostrate she lay, tied down with blue ribbon, and over her swarmed the Lilliputs, the minute, rotund, golden-haired, pink-faced infant-terrible of that land. They shouted to one another and collected by scores. They peered in her eyes, stood on her white shoulders for a better look at her pretty hair, and acclaimed her a find that would aid mightily to the prestige of Lilliputia land.

Miss Gulliver had wished for Love—and found herself the captive of an army, tied in the Land of Romance.

Oh, horror!—she wished herself back on the big main street of New York, or the little one of Tootersville, going to a movie with a girl friend- with no beau along!

—NELL BRINKLEY.

Youth Not on Way to Dogs

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

YOU people who have been reading these little outbursts of mine for some time will undoubtedly think I'm a bit "off" when it comes to considering the younger generation. But honestly, it makes me just boil up and spill over when I hear all the twaddle about their going to the dogs and being so much worse than their fathers and grandfathers. Personally I don't believe they are doing anything any worse than the older folks if as bad—only what they are doing is done openly where we can see it—which is a good, healthy state of affairs.

Constance Cameron

Of course, one swallow doesn't make a summer, nor will the one picture I'm about to offer you prove that all the young people of the land are gracious and lovely, but it did me so much good just to visit a home where the family spirit was everything or should be that I'm going to tell it to you.

We were guests at a little night supper. I had come for us at the hotel and while he put the car in the garage we were admitted most graciously by big sister, who is sweet 17, closely followed by little sister, who is 14.

We were their guests just as much as the guests of dad and mother. One excused herself and helped mother, while the other played hostess with dad. After a short time big sister rejoined us and the younger girl took her place as mother's helper, fixing ice, lighting candles and so on.

Their interest in us was in no sense superficial or mere courtesy. They were an important part of the family and we engaged to all of them. I wonder how reciprocal was the attitude on the part of the parents to their friends. But I soon found out.

Many phone calls interrupted the supper and soon the two were all "dated up" for the evening.

"It's that the Galloping Hippo?" inquired Dan when Big Sister returned flushed and smiling from a call.

"That was Flat-Foot" he informed us when Little Sister had finished an animated chat, and big good-natured description of both boys revealed the fact that he was a very close friend of Dan's. He was a good fellow with the young men who buzzed around his charming daughters.

The boys called for their partners of the evening later—a tall, slender boy and two very round "Galloping Hippo." They were greeted with genuine interest and affection by Dan's family. The older people were as gracious to the young swains as the daughters had been to us.

The girls were back home by 10 30, expressed a charming wish to see us again and went quietly upstairs.

They are not prudes. They are really truly flesh and blood youngsters, at the stage where everything is "marvelous," and it was refreshing to be with them.

Lovejoy -:- An Intensely Interesting Serial by Beatrice Burton

and empties the ash tray beside my bed—"

"I'll tell the world she does," Lovejoy agreed spitefully.

Her voice trembled with the fury that began to blaze up within her at a sheet of flame.

"She does it purposely!—She does because she wants to show me up!—She's crazy about you, and she wants you to know what a good wife she'd make!—And you, you perfect sap, you've fallen for it!"

She stood there like a bad-tempered little girl, with her red hair all around her face and her big gray eyes wide and angry.

"And I'm glad you have!" she finished. "Because it leaves me free to do what I want to do. I'm going down to see Steve Oglebay this very morning about divorcing you! I'm going to leave you just as soon as I can, Tom Nicholson!"

As she turned back to the dressing table one saw his face in the mirror. It had gone white all at once and there was a stricken look in his dark eyes as they met hers.

"Listen to me, Lovejoy—you can go just as far away as you want to," he said at last, "but you can't take the baby with you. Steve Oglebay's never going to be a stepfather to my son, and don't you forget it!"

"Who's going to stop him?" asked Lovejoy, snappy and impudent as a redbird. "And who says I can't have my baby if I leave you?"

"I do," Tom said simply. "I won't let you have a divorce if you ever try to take the baby out of this house!—I'll take those letters and that telegram that Hinda gave me last night into court and any judge in the country would give me my kid—just on the strength of those two letters and the things that Hinda knows about you."

Lovejoy knew right then that she was beaten. She knew that he meant what he said—and that there were no lengths to which he wouldn't go to keep young Tom.

After that she had no heart to go to see Steve Oglebay.

Late that afternoon, she telephoned him.

"I was coming to see you," she said in a small, humble voice, "but now I cannot. Steve Tom's found out about you and me—and I'm afraid to come to your office. I'll call you in a few days."

That was the thing to do, she decided. Do let things alone.

"I'm going out of town for two or three weeks—on business," Steve's voice came crisply to her over the wire. "In the meantime you make up your mind what to do, won't you, Lovejoy?"

She said she would and hung up. She spent the rest of the gray, wet day in bed. There is nothing so dreary as summer rain.

How can I give up my baby? Lovejoy asked of the unpaid for curtains and the silk-covered chairs in her luxurious room. She cried herself to sleep that night.

The next morning was a morning of rare sunshine, of blue skies and of silvery-white clouds.

Her heart felt as light as a cloud when she opened her eyes and looked out upon the rain-washed grass and leaves.

She stretched, thinking how pleasant it was to lie there with the fresh appetizing smell of Norrie's breakfast coffee in her nostrils and the distant whistling of Tom in the shower-bath in her ears.

Why should I change all this? she asked herself lamely. I have my home and my baby—and Tom really isn't going to be as poor as he says he's going to be—and I can keep Steve hanging around as long as I want him.

If she married him he might lose some of the adoration he had for her—just as Tom had.

At nine Aline came running in. "Don't forget this is my day to have the Wednesday bridge club, Flick!" she said bursting into the room. "I'm not going down town to buy some score cards and a guest prize—flop out of bed and come along with me—"

And so once more Lovejoy found herself back in the old pathway—the pathway that led from bridge tables to cocktail parties—and then back again.

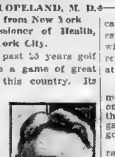
Golf as an Aid to Health

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DURING the past 25 years golf has become a game of great prominence in this country. Its popularity is shown by the increase in the number of municipally-owned golf courses everywhere.



Dr. Copeland

Doctors prescribe golf for their patients, and the doctors, too, find some time to play the game, though goodness knows how they find it.

Golf is no longer the rich. The business man gets his exercise in his golf game.

The age limit does not enter into the discussion. Young, middle-aged and the retired business man all go the limit in this game.

Last summer the International Y. M. C. A. made an interesting summary of certain findings made under their auspices. They studied the physical reactions of about 300 golfers.

Among other conclusions the following were noted:

In heart cases, an easy game of golf does not necessarily cause injury.

Valvular lesions of the heart, but well-compensated, react in the same way as sound hearts after mild exertion.

Severe exercise increases the danger of abnormal heart or kidney conditions.

Sleeplessness, followed by fatigue in the morning, with loss of appetite, indicates a poor physical condition. Also, low vitality is indicated by a lowered blood pressure, especially in the standing position, with high blood sugar and a slow return to normal after very moderate exercise.

It goes without saying that a mere friendly game has less effect on the pulse rate and heart rate than anything like a championship game. The energy spent in playing golf cannot be minimized.

In the healthy person the heart rate increases with physical exercise, and, in general, returns to normal in a short time. The danger of overdoing in the game is not so great for a person in robust health.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

NOWADAYS a girl scrapes all the cream off love before she is twenty—and then wonders bitterly why all the rest of life is as insipid as skimmed milk.

Almost any man can tell you HOW he happened to marry his wife, but it to explain WHY.

"A cheerful normal attitude will keep you young" but it helps a lot to move the mirror a little farther back from the window and not to sit too near the bridge-lamp.

Never judge a woman's disposition by the sweetness of her telephone voice or a man's by his geniality AFTER the cocktails have been served.

Morality used to be a matter of geography, but now it is merely a matter of TIME. What was a sin yesterday is merely "smart" today, and what is shocking today will be merely fashionable tomorrow.

A man's "judgment" is what tells him that he OUGHT to do the things which he has already made up his mind that he wants to do.

A woman likes to look back on a love affair—and dream. A man always prefers to look forward to the NEXT dream.

After a bachelor has had the same solitaire returned to him three or four times he begins to look upon it as a "lucky stone."

Announcing Marriage

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN

1—I am going to be married in about a year's time. I don't expect to have a large wedding. Probably my fiance and I will run off some day by ourselves and get married. If we do this, how do my father and mother announce my marriage?

2—Is it correct to announce the engagement?

3—At showers do I thank the hostess and "receive" personally and also write a "thank you" card later?

WANDA.

Brighton

1—I hope that, before the year is up, you will change your mind about "running off and getting married," and that you will decide to have a simple wedding of some kind, something that will be lovely and dignified, a ceremony to which you will invite at least three families. This will make your wedding a memorable occasion, rather than a "run-off" event.

But no matter what you plan, if you are to send out announcements, plan to send them as soon as possible after the ceremony has been performed. Especially in the case of such an unconventional marriage as you may decide to have, it is important for obvious reasons, that the announcements be sent as soon as possible. And remember that time/ place in which the ceremony was performed should appear on announcement.

2—Yes, but it is not correct to send formal announcements of an engagement.

3—Exactly, instead of writing a card, you should write a note of thanks.

EXCLAIM Portland Me.—Soup should be eaten out of the side of the spoon.

Mrs. Beeckman will answer all questions on etiquette sent by readers.

In 1930 this is a poor goal. Limiting production to keep it in line with demand is the modern problem. New issues of stocks and bonds are withheld until the time for them is ripe. The Federal Reserve is telling the farmers not to raise too much wheat or cotton. Industries merge and co-operate to effect curtailment if it is needed. The copper industry is a striking example of production curtailment going on right now.

We notice a New England writer suggests it would be a good idea to have automobile highways which make it unnecessary for long distance travelers to pass through large cities. The writer should study the excellent New York State highway system which achieves that end very nicely. Former Regional Frank A Goodwin evolved that idea years ago.

Business profits, in which the many thousands of workers share, depend largely on good transportation facilities. Toll bridges and roads, placing the burdens where they belong, may help solve problems of some sections. A number have been successfully financed in brokerage circles.

What is called a billion-dollar idea are hard to know before they are tested in Toronto. In about three months eight airplanes will set off in search of clues of buried copper. presence of which is now known definitely only to Eskimo tribes living along northern arm of Canada's barren lands. The flight will cost around $1,000,000.

A billion dollars' worth would be a lot of copper. Its transportation could be a considerable task, and the effect of its being offered for sale might be considerable at this time of huge accumulated supplies. The industry of the hard-working Eskimos (if it were they) who accumulated such an amount, seems somehow without precedent.

Workers and Playboys in Quest of Happiness; John D.'s Hands Off

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, March 3—A brief visit to several winter playgrounds, much frequented by notables, has prompted the question, What yields happiness?

Corporation heads and other busy men of large affairs who only occasionally snatch brief relaxing from their daily toils appeared to be having a glorious time. They bubbled over with the joy of living. They revelled in every moment of relaxation. A game with congenial friends is a thrilling adventure, the ocean dip an ecstasion delicacy. Every form of activity, enjoyed in health-giving sunshine, yielded genuine pleasure.

B. C. Forbes

But there were others who went through pretty much the same motions, but who evidenced boredom. They were mostly what might be called the professional playboys, sons of rich papas, or fellows on whom fortune fell easily and whose main quest in life now is merely pleasure. They looked as if a schoolboy playing hookey, as have men immersed in serious affairs almost fifty weeks in the year. They reminded me, these nonworkers, of the child's definition of fruit: "Something that decays at last, nasty when you don't use it." It was manifest that it takes work to make play palatable.

The formula of a successful life that finally formed itself in my mind was: Happiness through useful service.

Powerful rivals in business often are pictured as mortal personal enemies. Perhaps the finest and sincerest tribute ever paid Henry Ford was by Pierre S. du Pont, when the active head of General Motors. His address was delivered to a large gathering of General Motors officers, at the time the Ford works were closed down in preparation for the new car and when all sorts of rumors were afloat concerning the difficulties Ford was encountering. Mr. du Pont, I understand, emphasized that every motor manufacturer in America, and every one gaining his livelihood from the industry, owed an incalculable debt to Mr. Ford for the part he had played in popularizing motor transportation.

President A. P. Sloan of General Motors took his new yacht on what probably was its maiden cruise in southern waters. And whom, think you, was his chief guest? Walter P. Chrysler.

Happily, American business giants have learned that there is more fun in living and letting live than in trying, by hook or by crook, to kill off all competition.

The published reports that John D. Rockefeller, Sr., was "dictating" Standard Oil policies and that he personally ordered the recent cut in crude prices were the sheerest nonsense.

Each and every Standard Oil Co. is run entirely by its executives. Nearly all important corporations and institutions have outsiders on their directorates. Standard Oil directors are the ablest high-up employes. Neither John D., Sr., nor John D., Jr., would dream of ordering Walter Teagle, head of Standard Oil of New Jersey, to raise or lower oil prices. Either attempted to do so, Teagle doubtless would conclude that he was considered no longer capable of handling his job —and the Rockefellers know full well that he is.

Standard Oil executives have a freer hand than most executives for the very reason that there are no bankers or other influential figures as directors. I am told that about the only time any Standard Oil executive hears from young Rockefeller is when any allegation is made reflecting on him personally come ours of action. Then young Rockefeller wants to ascertain the facts. He, too, will no longer a factor in managerial problems. He is more interested in holing a putt than in putting anybody in a hole.

Robert Dollar, veteran steamship king, writes: "I was much pleased with your columns, showing how many other figures, that 52,000,000 people are depositors in various banks. This indicates that one-half of the people in the United States are saving money. I had got the impression that we were getting improvidient and spendthrift. It is that disproves that. Then, again, that about 30 per cent of the people still going to school is a wonderful record.

"My impression is that education is being overdone. Instead of people learning individual pursuits, they are becoming educated, and coming out of the universities at 24 and 25 years of age. They have lost the best of their lives to learn the occupation they are going to follow—unless, of course, they are following some profession which requires higher and more impressive study, but that would apply to the minority.

"It is stimulating to read such figures as you presented."

CURB MARKET DEFIES BEARS AND RISES

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, March 3 (AP)—The Curb market continued to work higher today, despite considerable opposition from the bear crowd. The market faltered somewhat during the morning, in sympathy with unfavorable tendencies on the "big board," but strong support for leading utility shares turned the market upward before midday.

United Gas was a strong feature, rising more than 2 points, to new high ground for the year. It was forecast that together with Electric Power & Light, an affiliate of Electric Bond & Share, in working on a large natural gas merger in the Southwest. Electric Bond & Share sold up nearly 5 points, another peak price for the year, then retracted a little. Electric Shareholdings and United States Electric also rose a point or two to new 1930 peaks. American Gas sold up more than 3 points.

None Electric was again a strong feature in the industrial group, rising more than 2 points to further new high territory. Glen Alden Coal responded to renewed cold weather with a modest advance. Pacific Coast Biscuit preferred rose more than 3 points to the best level of the year. Aluminums were generally depressed by reductions in aluminum tariffs in the Senate, rallied several points. Massey Harris and Seville Lamur were soft spots, dropping to new low levels. Some of the chain store issues were also under pressure. Lerner and Waigren sold at broken levels for the year.

Oil shares were largely quiet, with the exception of Cities Service, which also has electric power and natural gas interests. This issue rose about a point in active trading to 1930 peaks, finally above 31. Most of the Investment Trust & Holding Company issues were quiet. Marine Midland sagged.

HIGHER PRICE LEVEL SEEN

New Haven, March 3—"During the month of March the wholesale commodity price level should advance slightly, according to a figure computed forecast prepared by the Karsten Statistical Laboratory," said Dr. Karsten, vice-president of the laboratory.

"Whether this advance is temporary and due to seasonal influences or whether it is the precursor of a recovery to the levels of 1929 remains to be seen, but our forecast does not extend more than 30 days into the future.

"Prof. Maynard Keynes has predicted a price decline during the coming months to a world disaster I do not feel that such a forecast is justified by the economic factors as they now appear.

"The price index of finished goods has already begun to show strength. The price index of raw materials, which has been maintaining the low level it reached last November, should turn upward in March. This is encouraging with respect to the immediate future of several staple raw materials, especially cotton and wheat.

"The optimists believe that farmers will be influenced by the very unprofitableness of production. At present levels to curtail planting for the coming year."

Western Union to Raise Ticker Cost

Western Union Telegraph Co. plans to raise the ticker rental on the new high-speed tickers when high-speed service is inaugurated, a letter to subscribers says. Actual high-speed operation of new tickers must be deferred until all old tickers have been removed.

The letter states: "The high-speed tickers have double the capacity of present tickers and they cost more than five times as much. A reasonable increase in ticker rentals coincident with inauguration of high-speed operation is indicated and will be announced in due course, when new contracts at the increased rate will be presented for execution. The present price is $25 a month in New York city."

The new stores are located in Chicago, St. Paul, Blue Island, Ill., Laurens, S. C., Spenger, Ja., and Eagle Grove, Ia.

Scott Stores is a chain of variety stores that were organized a year ago. All of these Western merchandist priced from 5 cents to $1.

Investment Trust Merger Proposed

With view to simplifying the relationship of United Founders Corp., a holding company with resources of over $220,000,000, to its affiliated investment trust, the American Founders Corp., which also has sources of more than $200,000,000, directors of United Founders voted to offer an exchange of their shareholders of American Founders. Two shares of United Founders will be exchanged for three shares of common stock of American Founders. United Founders already owns about 36 per cent of the outstanding 8,444,694 shares of American Founders. Consummation of the proposal would give United Founders consolidated resources of approximately $300,000,000.

EARNINGS FOR TELEPHONE UP

New York, March 3 (AP)—The American Telephone & Telegraph Company today reported net income for 1929 of $186,126,000, as compared with $143,170,491 in 1928.

Earnings on the stock last year were equal to $12.57 a share on the 13,223,398 shares outstanding on December 31, or $12.67 on the average number of shares outstanding in 1929.

In 1928 the company earned $11.10 a share on the December 31 stock total, or $12.11 a share on the average amount.

Total income for 1929 was $275,495,807 against $235,781,978. Dividends received aggregated $140,-811,590 last year and telephone revenues were $111,890,242. These figures compare with $119,176,197 and $100,583,827, the respective totals for the same items in 1928.

Walter S. Gifford, president, informed the stockholders that "earnings must be sufficient to assure the best possible telephone service at all times, and to assure the continued financial integrity of the business.

"Earnings that are less than adequate must result in telephone service that is something less than the best possible," he said.

"Earnings in excess of these requirements will be spent for enlargement and improvement of the service or the rates charged for the service will be reduced. This is fundamental in the policy of the management."

The report revealed that the number of telephones reached by the Bell System is 29,500,000, or 86 per cent of the world's total.

Transatlantic calls made last year numbered 18,800. About 900,000 telephone wires added to the system last year, the largest annual increase on record.

Gulf State's Steel's Merger Move Is Abandoned

New York, March 3 (AP)—Negotiations looking toward a merger of the Gulf States Steel Corp. of Birmingham, Ala., with the American Rolling Mill Co. of Middletown, O., on the basis of an exchange of stock, "have been definitely abandoned," Calvin Verity, vice-president of the American Rolling Mill Co., said today.

SPRINGFORD IS NEW CHAIRMAN

Servel, Inc., annual report for 1929 shows large increases in the gas absorption refrigeration (Electrolux) business as reflected in net profits of $791,229 before extraordinary deductions amounting to $1,347,172 in the compressor division and other small deductions, resulting in a net loss for the year of $599,887. This compares with net income of $236,398 for 1928. The report also shows important increases in capital structure and book value of the common stock.

The outstanding event of the year was the acquisition by the corporation of the entire "A" stock of Electrolux Servel Corporation, giving it the exclusive benefit of all the United States (and Canadian and Cuban rights as well) in the absorption type (Electrolux) business.

The book value of the common stock is shown as more than $10, as compared with approximately $6 in 1928. The balance sheet shows current net assets of $5,005,949. Cash and call loans at the close of the year alone were more than double current liabilities.

The report announces the selection of Herbert H. Springford as chairman of the board of the corporation.

In his general remarks to stockholders, President Smith said in part: "I am sanguine as to results of the corporation's operations for the year 1930. The Electrolux business I believe to be capable of large and profitable expansion and to be the foundation of the corporation's future prosperity.

PLANE BUILT BY LOWELL PILOT SHOWS WELL

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

The first full cantilever low-wing monoplane built in New England was test-hopped by its builder, Al Krapish, at the Boston Airport, with a whole lot of wind blowing to make the test more interesting.

Krapish is employed as chief test pilot for the Moth Aircraft Corp. of Lowell, and has spent his off moments for the past two years in constructing the little job.

Unnamed, he brought the ship down from Lowell over the road, and with the aid of Eddie O'Toole, the first commercial operator on the Boston Municipal Airport, assembled it, and then proceeded to fly it.

The wind was howling across the port like all get out, and a minute before it taxied down the runway for the initial take-off a Moth came in and was tipped up on a wing tip by the strong wind. This exhibition failed to disconcert the courageous Krapish, and a moment later the low-wing ban was taking the air as though it had been flying for years.

Due to the high wind, no speed tests could be run, but from the ground it appeared as though the ship more than held its own in the 100 mile an hour class. When Krapish came in for the landing, after 20 minutes of barging around the sky, the ship settled to earth at a very low rate of speed.

DOUBLE COCKPIT

Technically, the ship is a two-place closed cockpit cantilever low-wing monoplane, with the front cockpit fitted to be covered in, making for a semi-coupe effect. Now, all that means that the ship has two cockpits, one in front of the other, with the rear open at all times, and the front open or closed at the passenger's wish.

The low-wing means that the wing is attached to the bottom of the fuselage, like the German Junkers Bremen of ocean-crossing fame. This type of construction is favored in some schools of aerodynamic thought as being advantageous because it takes advantage of the cushioning effect of the air near the ground, thus making for quick take-off and slow landings.

The wing is 32 feet from tip to tip, and is constructed of two wood spars, with laminated built-up ribs, without internal bracing and covered with three-ply veneer.

In this respect, the wing resembles the Fokker wing, with the outer skin taking the stress. No wires or struts are used externally, as the full cantilever type previously mentioned, distributes the stress tapers in form and plans toward the tips.

Purpose, or body, measures 25 feet from prop hub to rudder, and is constructed of conventional steel tubing, without the use of wires for taking the stresses and strains. The fuselage is fabric covered, as are the tail surfaces, which are constructed of built-up duralumin.

All controls are either push-rod or wires, with no pulleys in the entire ship. Controls are actuated by means of stick and rudder pedals.

90 H. P. MOTOR

Streamlining with great skill in the nose of the fuselage is a 100 horsepower Gypsy engine. This power plant is air-cooled, four cylinders in line, and has been used for years by light airplanes.

Complete tests will be run off on the ship, and Krapish declares that he built it for his own amusement, and while no plans are made at present, might produce it for commercial purposes if proper backing can be obtained.

A unique feature of the altogether unique ship is the "pants" which streamline the wheels and undercarriage struts. These "pants" of dural come down from the bottom of the fuselage, and offer a perfect streamline for the otherwise parasitic running gear.

The job is as clean as a whistle, and we look forward with interest to the speed and landing tests to be performed by Krapish.

Today's the day. One old hangar starts on its way to its Valhalla, and we hope it rests in peace.

The building wrecking company gets hot this morning, and before the shades of tomorrow night fall the last remaining vestige of the first commercial airplane hangar on Boston Airport will be removed, and another one of the landmarks of the old airport will be a memory.

Robinson's London Speech Rejecting League Revives Democratic Party

SENATOR JOSEPH ROBINSON, of Arkansas, spoke in London on February 20 and said flatly that the United States was not going to join in guarantees of security for any European nation.

If Senator Robinson's London declaration can be taken as a statement of policy for the Democratic party, it was the most important political utterance that has been made since the Democratic party went to its death under President Wilson.

It meant that the Democratic party has a chance to be revived from the dead.

It meant that the Democratic party is to lift up the leaden lid of its coffin and be freed from the crushing weight of the League of Nations policy, a policy which was not democratic, but autocratic; a policy which was purely Wilsonian and in no sense Jeffersonian.

Senator Robinson is Senate leader of the Democratic party and temporarily an American delegate to the so-called Disarmament Conference.

The Senate, the House, the country, are full of Democrats awaiting just the leadership that Senator Robinson now seems to promise them: escape from the burying ground of internationalism into which Wilson led the party eleven years ago.

Wilson tried to put the United States into the League of Nations, guaranteeing the territories of European imperialism.

Force, Wilson admitted, was behind the League. Hear Robinson:

"The American people repudiate emphatically any treaty expressly or impliedly obligating our Government to employ the army or navy for the enforcement of obligations assumed by other nations.

"It is for this reason they do not encourage their delegates to this conference to join in guarantees of security respecting areas remote from the territory or possessions of the United States.

"We cannot understand the consistency of wars to enforce the peace."

That is good American doctrine of ancient and honorable standing.

Senator Robinson spoke on February 20. If he had been in the Senate two days later on February 22 he would have listened to a reading of these words of George Washington:

"Against the insidious wiles of foreign influence (I conjure you to believe me, fellow citizens), the jealousy of a free people ought to be constantly awake.

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns.

"Why, by interweaving our destiny with that of any part of Europe, entangle our peace and prosperity in the toils of European ambition, rivalship, interest, humor or caprice?"

The party of Jefferson is traditionally the party of nationalism, not internationalism. Its historic policy has been to mind our own business, and our own business has been to look after the welfare of our own people.

The Democratic party can return to power if it has the will and intelligence to become DEMOCRATIC and leave to the Republican reactionaries their natural and congenial role of internationalism.

The people are disgusted with Republican rule, BUT THEY WILL NEVER VOTE FOR A LEAGUE OF NATIONS PARTY.

There is hope in the address of Senator Robinson, hope of the return of the Democratic party to Democratic principles, hope of a party which will allow DEMOCRATS to vote for it, hope of a coalition with the progressives who have consistently stood for Washington's policy of freedom from foreign entanglements.

Senator Robinson's address is tidings of joy to all conscientious Democrats and all patriotic citizens throughout the nation.

Do YOU Ride 'Deadhead'?

Or, Mr. Business Man, Are You a Member of the Chamber of Commerce?

WE infer from all that we see about us, posters on the street cars, placards in shop windows, "boxes" within the advertisements of the town's most important mercantile establishments, that enlisting new members of the Chamber of Commerce is a work which demands the time and attention of many men and calls for the expenditure of considerable money.

And we marvel that this work and expenditure should be deemed necessary.

The Boston Chamber of Commerce has done and is doing many things for this Metropolitan District that government can not or will not do—and yet which MUST be done.

It represents the business interests, the commercial and industrial interests, of the Metropolitan area; speaks and ACTS for them whenever the occasion demands.

The Chamber has spread the fame of Boston as one of the most desirable convention cities in America. It is everlastingly pegging away at the job of increasing the export business of our Port. What it has saved for business men through the suppression of the fake solicitor is beyond counting.

We should say it is an HONOR to belong to such an organization; an honor and, if one is eligible, a DUTY.

Five hundred business executives go forth this week for the purpose of bringing 1000 new members into the organization.

Any man who should be a member of the Chamber, who could if he would, but who says "No" to the invitation of "Boston Chamber of Commerce Week," is a natural born "deadhead."

A "deadhead" is one who permits someone else to pay for his free ride.

Don't be a "deadhead."

Early Evolutionists

By ARCHIBALD HENDERSON

THERE is scarcely room for doubt that Aristotle was a genuine evolutionist. Nature rose in an ascending scale, in the views of many naturalists and philosophers: Aristotle, Lucretius, Epicurus. But Aristotle recognized a definite genetic series, from polyp to man.

The struggle for existence, the continual thrust toward perfection is revealed in these two basic statements.

"It is due to the resistance of matter to form that nature can only rise by degrees from lower to higher types."

"Nature produces those things which, being continually moved by certain principle contained in themselves, arrive at a certain end."

THE history of all science reveals little advance from the time of Greek philosophers and mathematicians down to the time of the Renaissance. For example, there is very little progress in physics during the 17 centuries which intervened between Archimedes and Copernicus. There was little or no development in the evolution theory from the time of Aristotle to the time of Roger Bacon.

Osborn says that it was the philosophers—Bacon, Descartes, Leibnitz, Hume, Kant, Lessing, Herder and Schelling—who laid the basis for modern methods of studying the evolution problem.

"They clearly perceived from the outset that the point to which observation should be directed was not the past but the present mutability of species, and further, that this mutability was simply the variation of individuals on an extended scale."

Bacon was a highly practical scientist, who laid the foundations of modern methods of experimental scientific research. He actually suggested the establishment of what would now be called a "station of experimental evolution."

THE philosophers were deeply interested in the evolution problem; but as biology was then undeveloped as a science, they entertained little hope, as Kant put it, that a Newton of biology would arise.

Buffon was acutely aware of a long chain of living development and he was the "first naturalist to give a broad and concrete expression to the evolutionist doctrine of descent."

Erasmus Darwin, who was doubtless influenced by Buffon in his great work, "Zoonomia, or the Laws of Organic Life," gave an outline of the evolutionary process which would almost stand unchallenged today.

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

HOSPITALITY has now reached that acute stage in investigation where it's every man for himself.

Ever since Senator Dobbsworse told the twisted world that he had looked upon the wine when it was amended all guests are staggering into the publicity arena with fermented facts.

We considered it very morose when a famous dryster told Congress all about prohibited humidity at a dinner in Wall Street. He was a guest at that dinner and was the most popular man under the table.

The first law of nature is not the 18th Amendment. Congress was infuriated about this bedewed repast because the evidence arrived too late for them to receive invitations.

It is ungentlemanly to tell and tell. It is even more boorish to drink and then turn on the Victrola. But the states are full of partisan casanovas who partake of the forbidden extracts and then smack the host over the skull with a legal bottle.

We concede that some drys go to banquets merely to collect harrowing details for use in court. But most of these drys wiggle elbows as if they considered themselves a twelve-man jury and were representing the other eleven proxies.

What happens in executive sessions? The judge asks the pigeons to produce the evidence sampled by the genial malefactors. The snooper of honor says he has swallowed it.

Not being able to sentence the witness to an autopsy the Judge is compelled to throw the case far enough out of court to preclude all chance of its bouncing back.

Now the wets are also squealing on their hosts. The seating arrangements at banquets now include seats for the guests and stools for the pigeons.

The good samaritan who anoints the bedraggled wayfarer with contraband oil is tugged into court and discover that the head witness against him is the same dusty hobo.

Which validates the authentic Persian proverb that a guest and a fish both smell after three days.

Until this epidemic of state's evidence frizzles away we advise all hosts to cancel their banquets and to eat in one-arm lunches.

Whether he be moist or arid, the guest who squeals on his host is like unto the swollen sponge that accuses the ocean.

Even though many dinners may be drenched by cooling showers of unseasonal alcohol we have never seen either a wet or a dry guest carrying an umbrella.

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I'M not afraid of dying.
But I'm very much afraid of not living enough.
I don't care how long I live.
But I want to live all the life there is while I'm at it.
By this I do not mean having "a good time."
I mean having a real time.
I want to see life as it really is.
I want to see myself as I really am.
I want to discover all the truth
Which it is possible for me to discover.
I want to ask questions—
And test out my answers, even if they're wrong.
I want the courage to defy everything, even myself.
In my search for the true life—
No matter what it costs!

Elsie Robinson

I know it will cost plenty,
Plenty of pain and discomfort.
But I fear comfort far more than discomfort.
I have seen men so trapped by comfort . . .
So fooled by success . . . so hamstrung by happiness . . . .
I don't want to be cheated that way.
And I have seen men strangled by their own fear
And smothered in their own complacency—
So I will seek danger, until I can laugh at fear.
And court humiliation, to prick my complacency—
For no price is too great to pay
For the chance to live enough!

I don't know whether there is another life.
But I do know there is this one—
And though this life is a mystery
And largely beyond my control,
I have observed this much—
I can play the game as I will!

Play it safe, or gamble—
Take it or leave it alone—
Hide away like a gopher—
Or strut my stuff as a king—
And I choose the role of king!
Then, if I'm two-timed on eternity,
I'll at least have had the glory
Of living enough for an hour.

I have only one prayer . . . but it's constant—
Keep me alive, while I live!
Keep me inquisitive . . . defiant . . .
Restless and reckless and hungry
Standing the gaff—if only
I can hit on all eight till the end!

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, March 3—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up and happy over the arrival by post of the original of my favorite "Skippy" drawing and off through town to the picture framer. Then to the depot to see the mighty spatted hunters, R. Long and L. Cobb, off for North Carolina.

While window shopping stopped to buy a two-pound box of candy and after it was wrapped learned it was $4 a pound and had but $6. So told the saleswoman I would call later but did not say when.

In the evening with my wife to a lower East Side cafe and five men sat at a nearby table acting suspiciously and the morning papers told of them later holding up the place. Home and a letter from Chic Sale asking me to write an introduction for his new "I'll Tell You Why" book, which I shall be happy to do.

When a lone, strange lady is admitted to the private offices of important New York executives these days a private secretary usually remains in the room. This is a precaution resulting from blackmail intrigue facing many who have seen ladies in private. They were informed later by lawyers their clients were targets for "improper advances." And what did they propose in way of settlement?

"A fellow never realizes how many schoolmates he had until he becomes famous," postcards F. D. K.

An ace spot for pickpockets in other days was across the street from the Ben Hur Chariot race sign atop the old Normandie Hotel. The sign is today's glittering maxy would not turn a head or lift a chin, but then it stopped sidewalk traffic. And while gawkers gawked, leather lifters lifted.

The Ben Hur sign was reputed to cost $27,000. A sign today often costs a quarter of a million. And is as often lost in the magnificent lustre.

The recent passing of that noble old Roman, Capt. Jim Churchill, removed one restaurateur who beat the Broadway game. When prohibition came he closed Churchill's but acquired a long lease on his famous corner which brought an annual income of $50,000. Nearly all of the cafe men of his period buckled in bankruptcy.

Capt. Churchill had a den adjoining his office known as The Blue Room. It was papered with I. O. U.'s of hill fellows well met whom he befriended in days when he was a big figure in Broadway's dear old camaraderie.

Scientists say they have isolated the influenza germ, but judging from a red-nosed sniffer who popped in this afternoon the dang thing is loose again.

H. G. Wells Writes on "The Science of Life"

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and Geo. P. Wells

THE result of this simple sexual process is a microscopic plasmodium, a miniature of the protoplasmis sheet with which we began our description.

This tiny film creeps about, feeding on bacteria and the like and slowly growing, but it does not develop directly into the fully-grown plasmodium —at least, not by its own unaided efforts. It takes more than one to make an adult.

H. G. Wells

When ever the tiny creature meets another such sheet belonging to the same species, it mixes eagerly with the new acquaintance, the two forming a single living mass. And so on.

So that the final large plasmodium is in reality a union of hundreds of dancing swarmspores, that have completely merged their individuality into one shapeless gelatinous sheet.

7. BACTERIA

THE smallest and most humble organized creatures that we have hitherto considered are the single celled animals and plants—amoebs, the flagellates, the lower algae, and the yeasts. But there are smaller and simpler organisms even than these.

The bodies of most bacteria are incredibly small—small even in comparison with the single-celled creatures with which we have already dealt. The common bacillus that is found in infusions of dead organic matter the world over is a short rod about one-thousandth of a millimeter (one twenty-five thousandth of an inch) across and five or eight times as long.

That may be called an average bacterium. Some kinds of bacteria are longer than this and some are very much smaller, but most are of about this size.

Imagine such a bacillus enlarged to the size of cigar, half an inch across by four inches long; a man magnified to the same extent would be 15 miles in height.

There is little room for specialized structures in such a tiny interior, and indeed its organization is far simpler than that of any of the cells that we have hitherto examined. It has none of the various writhing bodies in a tissue-culture cell. There is not even a nucleus.

The chemical substances that characterize the nucleus in animals and plants are diffused through the whole bacterial body, mixed in with the rest of its substance, instead of being confined within a special vesicle.

A bacterium is little more than a microscopic blob of protoplasm having a definite shape. Moreover, the life-history of our bacillus is as simple as its anatomy; the things it can do are very limited.

It can grow and proliferate (by simply breaking into two halves) with incredible rapidity.

The average length of life of a bacterium that finds itself in favorable surroundings, the time between successive divisions, is 20 minutes, so that in rapidity of multiplication they leave even the protozoa behind.

And it can weather difficult periods, when conditions are unfavorable for its growth, by turning into a resistant, tough-walled spore. There is an important difference, we may note, between the spores of bacteria and those of other creatures.

The spores of amoebs, for example, are reproductive devices; each amoeba produces a great number of spores at a time.

But the spores of bacteria are in no sense reproductive. Each bacterium converts itself into a single spore. They are devices for resisting unfavorable conditions.

In bacteria then the life history (or, better, race-history) because it is difficult to interpret the things that bacteria do in terms of our own personal experience) consists in an alternation of two phases—the active phase proliferating with astonishing rapidity, and the passive, resting spore with equally astonishing powers of resisting adverse conditions.

It will be worth our while to look more closely into this toughness of bacterial spores. Active bacteria are killed at once by the heat of boiling water, but bacterial spores may survive boiling for several hours.

Indeed, in order completely to sterilize surgical instruments or fluids for use in bacteriological work it is necessary to expose them to moist steam at about double atmospheric pressure and a temperature of 120 degrees Centigrade in an instrument known as an autoclave—and even under these scalding conditions some spores survive for a quarter of an hour.
